Reading Between The Lines At Garrett Community College

TO DEVELOP STUDY SKILLS is the major reason students at Garrett Community College enroll in the Reading Lab program directed by Carole Ann Lovett. Above, Mr. Lovett explains one of the many skills development projects available at the lab to students. David Groves.

by Gary Yoder

One dilemma facing a prospective college student is: "How am I going to read and understand all those books?" This is a valid question since more reading is required in a year of college than at any previous time during a student's educational experience. In addition, the complexity of concepts demands skill which is beyond that needed for success in high school. Testing indicates that many college freshmen demonstrate reading comprehension and vocabulary scores that are several grade levels lower than the reading levels of their textbooks. The inadequate reader who is a serious student spends excessive time in slow, deliberate reading often missing the significance of the material. GCC is aware of this widespread situation and offers assistance to any student through the formal class situation as well as informal help in the Reading Lab. The primary goal is enabling the student to understand more of the printed word (usually in less time) for greater success in college courses, in occupations, and in personal reading.

What's the procedure? First, you come to GCC and tell us you want a reading evaluation. This includes a check for specific weaknesses, information on your present reading habits, and date of last eye examination. Based upon this information the instructor and the student can design the program. The instructor requires the study of various comprehension and study skills as outlined in overall course objectives, but the student can choose a special project dealing with an area of special concern.

Following is a sampling of the student types who have come to the Reading Lab:

Miss A—Age 25, Secretary: High School average: C. Goal in reading: better spelling, better understanding of newspapers, magazines, and best-sellers. Goal in college: self-improvement. No degree.

Mr. B—Age 32, Retired military officer. Part time consultant. High school average: B. Goal in reading: improve speed, improve vocabulary. Goal in college: improve library skills, improve comprehension skills. Goal in college: Business degree.

Mrs. C—Age 46, Homemaker, 3 children (2 married). High school average: B+. Goal in reading: understand textbook chapters. General review, improve speed, outlining, recall. Goal in college: Nursing degree.

Mr. D—Age 31, Farmer. Working on High School Equivalency. Goal in reading: understand textbook chapters, better memory, plan for study. Goal in college: Agriculture degree.

All showed progress at the end of the class. Other areas which are an important part of college success are: vocabulary, spelling, and rate improvement. A strong speaking and reading vocabulary will help the student better understand the material. It's logical to conclude that the more unknown words a reader finds in a paragraph, the less meaning he will gain. On the other hand, if the student knows nearly all the words in the paragraph, the greater are his chances of better comprehension. Spelling problems plague even the best students. Unfortunately, spelling errors will lower grades on reports and term papers, and can even decrease job and promotion opportunities.

Furthermore, spelling errors are always down in black and white for all to see, suggesting either ignorance or carelessness.

Many students are interested in improving their reading rate in an effort to save time. In addition to saving time, improved rate can also improve comprehension. These three areas are given special attention for any student who wants to improve a severe problem or a slight one.

The Reading Lab also helps a student in improving general study skills by helping him learn to schedule his time, take effective notes during lectures and to prepare for exams.

Some of the questions asked during the reading evaluation are:

Do you move your lips or pronounce words silently when you read?

Do you skip words and/or phrases and then re-read material?

Do you feel that you forget contents soon after reading?

Can you determine the main idea of what you read?

Can you locate important details and examples?

Can you construct a usable outline?

Can you write a summary in your own words?

Can you evaluate reading material?

and make your own inferences?

Can you successfully cope with unfamiliar vocabulary?

Can you vary reading speed for differing materials?

If a person answers no, not sure, or don't understand the question, then reading lab personnel readily know specific areas that need attention.

The objective of college reading instruction is to provide both remediation and extension of skills. Any who would like to enroll at GCC but are concerned about "all those books," just call the Reading Lab at 334-6666.

Spring Break . . .

The Spring of 1979 arrived in all its glory under incredibly clear skies this morning at approximately 12:22 a.m. The winter of 1978-79 is now history.

Except by the most avid winter sports fan, the first day of Spring is welcomed with open arms. While it is just another day, it provides a certain psychological lift to everyone, especially when the weather cooperates the way it has the past few days. To most, Spring represents not only the end of winter, but a renewal of life. The warmth of the sun causes the anticipation of summer to swell within us. This anticipation of summer activity is almost as enjoyable as the activity itself. All of this good feeling is known as Spring fever.

While Spring fever is a pleasant state of mind, it can also cause problems. Carelessness is often associated with this near-intoxicated condition and, along with the April showers and May flowers, Spring also brings a brand new list of opportunities for accidents and injury as does each season of the year. It is wise to take note of some of these opportunities and hopefully head off disaster.

Spring brings more traffic. It brings the motorcycles out of the garage and onto the roadways. It invites more children outside to ride their bicycles and skateboards. It also encourages more of them to walk along the road to school rather than ride the bus.

Spring sends the farmers back into the fields with equipment which, if handled carelessly, can cause tragedy. Spring provides dry fields and woods which catch fire so easily. Spring prompts the use of the lawn mower and various other power tools for lawn and garden care.

Spring safety should be a part of Spring fever. There are a number of issues more significant than safety upon which to editorialize this week — the Middle East treaty, the energy crisis, government spending, food prices, Billy Carter's drinking problem, etc. However, this week we are taking a break from all of that . . . a Spring break, that is.

Board Removes Names Of 270 Voters

According to the Annotated Code of Maryland, Registration and Election Laws, Article 23, Section 5-20, the names of 270 registered voters who have not voted at a primary, general or special election within the five calendar years 1974-1979 have been removed from the registration books by the Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett County, Maryland, according to a release from that office. Notices were mailed to these persons on March 5, 1979.

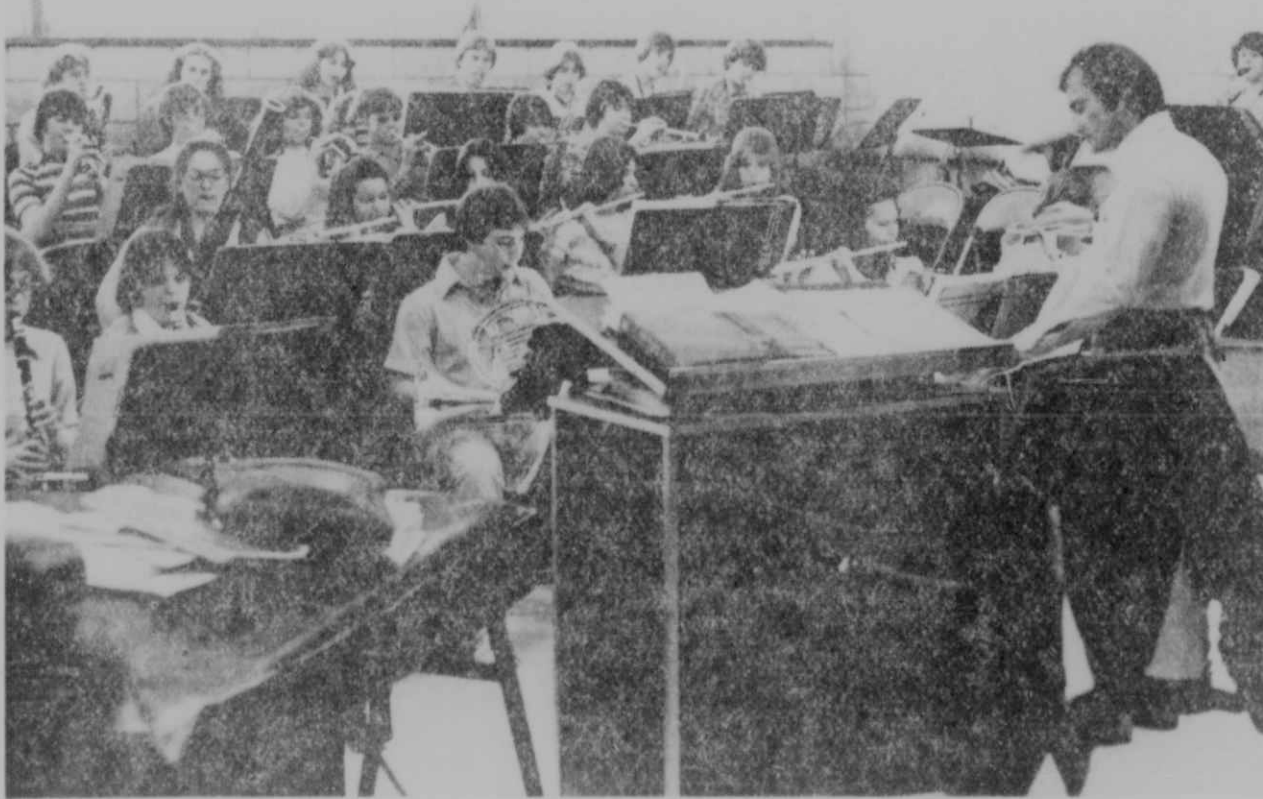

A breakdown of the figures shows that 110 Democrats were removed, 141 Republicans were removed, 1 American, and 18 who had declined to affiliate with a political party.

A list of names of the Democrats removed was sent to the Democrat State Central Committee, and to the president of the Garrett County Democrat Club. A list of Republicans removed was sent to the Republican State Central Committee, and to the presidents of the National Federation of Republican Women of Northern and Southern Garrett County. These political groups will make a drive to contact the voters who were removed and encourage them to register. A voter whose registration has been cancelled is not eligible to vote except by registering again.

Persons whose names were removed and wish to vote in forthcoming elections may register at the office of the Board of Supervisors of Elections, 12 South Third Street, Oakland. The office is open from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Weather

Sunny today and Thursday. High both days in the low to mid 60s. Fair tonight. Low in the low to mid 40s. The chance of rain is near zero through Thursday. Winds variable 3 to 10 mph through Thursday. Forecast Friday through Sunday — chance of showers Friday and Saturday. Fair Sunday. Mild but a little cooler by Sunday. Highs averaging in the 60s at the beginning and to the 50s by Sunday. Lows in the 40s at the beginning and in the 30s by Sunday. High 50s and low 40s by Sunday.

SOUNDS OF MUSIC filled the air at Southern High School continuously for 35 hours this past weekend as band director Richard Clevor conducted a "Band-a-Thon" to raise money for the group's trip to Atlanta, Ga., next month. Students began playing Friday afternoon and music concluded Sunday afternoon. Drummer Wayne Scott played the longest of any student in the money-raising attempt, spending 44½ consecutive hours beating his drums. The world record for continuous playing by a band is 100 hours. Mr. Clevor stated that the members of the band may decide to attempt to break that record in the near future.

Sterling Plant Remains Idle As Strike Continues

Oakland's Sterling Processing Plant remains idle this week as two striking unions and management of the chicken processing facility are at impasse in contract negotiations.

No progress was made last Wednesday in the most recent meeting between opposing sides. The two unions sharing the contract are Local 624, Amalgamated Meatcutters, Butcher and Workmen of North America, and Local 60, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Warehousemen. Their spokesmen say they are seeking a package that includes increased wages plus hospital and sickness insurance. The last two items have never before been a part of their contract.

The strike began three weeks ago tonight at midnight.

A federal mediator was brought in Wednesday for a two-hour meeting, but according to Gilman Sylvester, vice president and general manager of Sterling, negotiations are deadlocked and no immediate meetings or negotiations have been arranged.

Mr. Sylvester indicated that he has to look at the whole package and right now it is too high.

Some 200 employees are involved in the strike, the third in Sterling's 25-year history in Oakland. Past strikes have lasted from four to five weeks.

Columbia Gas Of Maryland Seeking Increase In Rates

Columbia Gas of Maryland has asked the Public Service Commission to approve a general rate increase that would raise an average customer's bill by about four percent a month, a typical heating customer's bill would increase by $1.96 a month and a non-heating customer's bill would go up by 43 cents a month.

Columbia requested the increase become effective April 15. The company serves 29,800 customers in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Columbia officials said higher rates are necessary because of continued inflationary increases in the company's costs since its last rate filing. They said the company must recover these higher costs in order to continue providing reliable service to its customers.

The last general rate increase approved by the Public Service Commission for Columbia Gas of Maryland became effective June 30, 1978.

CELEBRATION OF SPRING — These young elementary students began annual spring rites this week by following an intricate hopscotch pattern. How many adults can remember eating outdoors at recess to enjoy the first strong rays of sun in March, a sure and welcome sign that winter cannot bring forth too many more harsh before giving way completely to spring. It was a short stop from hopscotch to baseball, from dreaming about this year's garden to sowing the seeds. Spring arrived officially early this morning, so now everyone can celebrate in his or her own way.

AFS Seeking Host Families For 1979 Cancer Crusade Scheduled

The American Field Service Adult and Student chapter at Southern is conducting a search for a family to host an overseas student for the coming school year, announces Mrs. Dale Carter, president. The youngster would live with the family and attend classes at Southern High School.

The main requirement for an AFS host family is the parents' concern for and interest in young people, Mrs. Carter reported.

AFS International Headquarters in New York City carefully screens candidates who apply for a year's stay in the United States. Students come here from more than 80 countries, and there are over 4,000 students from abroad currently living and studying in America this year.

Aside from food costs and possibly some small incidental expenses, the host family incurs no debt in hosting a student.

The luncheon will kick off the 1979 crusade, which has a goal of $14,000. The money is used to provide both public and professional education through prevention clinics, educational materials and seminars. Patient service provides limited funds to cover drugs and transportation and service materials, such as bandages and hospital beds. The Cancer Society supports self-help groups, such as "Reach to Recovery," "The Ovarian Association" and "Make Today Count." The money raised also aids research on the state and national level.

State's Attorney Releases January, February Statistics

The Garrett County State's Attorney's Office handled 125 District Court cases and 89 traffic cases during January and February 1979 according to statistics recently released.

According to James L. Sherkin, State's Attorney, of the 125 Criminal Cases handled in District Court, 30 cases were related to drug violations.

Additionally, the State's Attorney's office prosecuted 27 juvenile cases and ten Circuit Court cases which included two jury trials.

Kick-Off Luncheon For 1979 Cancer Crusade Scheduled

Mrs. Pauline Parack and Mrs. Violet Reichenbacher, chairpersons of the Garrett County Unit of the American Cancer Society, announce that the 1979 Cancer Crusade Kick-Off Luncheon will be held Tuesday, March 27, at 11:30 a.m. at Southern High School. Admission will be $2.50.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. Karen H. Heeder of Frederick.

Mrs. Reeder has cancer. Initially the cancer was of the breast, but has since spread to other areas of her body and she has been taking chemotherapy since March of 1977.

Her talk will cover her experiences and emotions in dealing with cancer. She writes bi-monthly articles for the Frederick News Post that deal with her feelings, her family's and friends' feelings and her diagnosis and treatments.

Commissioners Move Meeting Day

During their regular Monday meeting the Garrett County Commissioners unanimously voted to change the day of the week on which they conduct their regular meeting from Monday to Tuesday, effective April 10. The Commissioners reasoned that by meeting on Tuesday they can more efficiently process financial payment orders. In addition, Tuesdays are more convenient for the public and the staff, and the new meeting date is more compatible with the schedule of meetings for other organizations on which the Commissioners represent the county.

The authorization to change the meeting day resulted from emergency legislation to amend the county code, requested by the Commissioners, and successfully passed by Senator Edward J. Mass and Delegate DeCorney E. Bolden. The amendment was signed into effect last week by Governor Harry Hughes.

In other business, Edgar Harman and Dick Nace, Garrett County employees, reported to the Commissioners concerning the hearing they had attended last Thursday with the Department of Natural Resources. The hearing concerned a permit being sought for the installation of a discharge line for a sewage treatment facility at Deep Creek Lake.

The Cold Water Coalition group is protesting the issuance of such a permit, contending that effluent from the treatment facility may damage the Youghiogheny River.

The DNR has made no final decision on the issuance of the permit.

The County Commissioners also reviewed amendments to the county junkyard ordinance. The amendments would reduce application fees for some permits and increase the scope of the "junkyard" definition to include junked remains of heavy equipment.

Following testimony on the amendments, the commissioners instructed John Nelson, enforcement officer, and Marshall Hickert, county administrator, to redraft the amendments in order to clarify language contained in the ordinance.

The meeting concluded following reports to the Commissioners from several department heads.

C&P Telephone Called Before PSC

BAITIMORE (UPI) — The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., ordered by the Public Service Commission to show why its rates should not be reduced, has instead asked for a $9.3 million rate increase.

PSC spokesman Joseph H. Ismail said Tuesday the telephone company said it needs the increase to continue to attract investors and maintain the quality of service.

The company is asking the PSC to change its profit ceiling from 9.25 per cent return on its investment to more than 10 per cent.

Ismail said that increase could generate about $69 million a year, an amount that would exceed anti-inflation guidelines.

But the company told Ismail the rate hikes will stay within guidelines set by President Carter.

The telephone company plans to reduce the basic rate for residential subscribers by $10 million and increase the business rate by 4 percent.

The company offset inflation, higher interest rates and increased labor costs as its reasons for requesting the higher rates, according to the proposal submitted Monday to the commission.

The commission ruled last month that the company exceeded its fair rate of return on investment during a four-month period. The commission issued a show cause order directing C&P to present evidence why rates should not be cut by $2.5 million.

In its response, the company said that its rates are not above, but below, the level required to earn a just and reasonable return. C&P's rates should be increased, not decreased, the company said.

C&P earned a profit of 9.38 percent in the 12 months ending last November, according to a state audit completed early this year. The profit ceiling set by the commission is 9.25 percent.

Spring Arrives Clear And Cool This Morning

Spring arrived this morning under clear skies and cool temperatures. A week ago winter still held on with a light snowfall.

Last Wednesday's rain in the morning was followed by cloudy skies. Snow began later in the day with light flurries continuing into Thursday morning, depositing three inches. Then followed three days with mostly clear skies. Monday was mostly cloudy. Clear skies again prevailed yesterday and continued into this morning.

Temperatures averaged 6 degrees below normal, caused by chilly mornings. Highs averaged 33.1 degrees or 5.7 above normal. The high was yesterday's spring-like 46 degrees and it appears that today will be similar. There was a 20-degree rise within two hours this morning. Last Thursday's high was only 31 degrees. There has been a gradual rise since.

Lows averaged 18 degrees or 6.3 below normal. The low was 8 degrees Thursday morning, followed by 9 degrees on Friday. This morning's low was 20 degrees.

The arrival of spring or the Vernal Equinox occurred at 12:22 this morning. The length of days and nights at this time of the year are equal. This is also the time at which the sun crosses the equator on its journey north.

Broiler Program Begins March 26

The 4-H and Southern FFA Broiler Program is accepting orders for baby chicks until Monday, March 26. Youth may order any multiple of 25 birds, such as 50, 75, or 100. Sterling Processing is donating the chicks as in previous years, and applicants will pay freight from the hatchery, provide feed, water, heat, and care for the birds. Records will be kept during the program culminating in a dressed broiler show later this spring.

The Broiler Program is an eight-week project and will begin on April 11, at which time the chicks will arrive at the Extension Office. Chicks may be picked up at 8:30 a.m., on that day.

There will be an introductory broiler meeting on Thursday, April 5, at the Southern Vo-Ag Center from 7-9 p.m. Record books will be handed out and an explanation given on feeding and caring for the poultry, and the keeping of mortality records.

This eight-week program will climax with the "Garrett Broiler Extravaganza," to be held Saturday, June 9, at the Southern Vo-Ag Center. Three dressed broilers submitted by each participant will be evaluated by Dr. Bill Merka, University of Maryland Poultry Specialist. Dr. Merka will conduct a Poultry Bowl at the conclusion of the judging activities.

The 1979 Broiler Program is co-sponsored by the Garrett County Extension Service, the Southern Garrett FFA Chapter and Sterling Processing. All county youth are invited to participate. For further information, contact Vo-Ag instructor, Richard Bluff, at Southern High, or phone the Extension Office at 334-2145.

Art Show Slated

Local artist, Cathy Lehr, Oakland, will open an exhibition of her work at the Garrett Community College library on Monday, March 26. The exhibit will run through April 12.

Cathy, a native of McKeesport, Pa., is one of twins born to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Myers. Her interest in art began during high school, and upon graduation, she attended Nazareth College near Louisville, Kentucky.

While in college she married Robert F. Lehr, Oakland, and the couple lived in Anchorage, Alaska temporarily while Bob was in the U. S. Army.

Cathy tabled her talents for several years in order to raise their two children. She has just recently found time to return to the canvas. A recent cruise to the Caribbean and a more recent tour of the West Coast have provided Cathy's latest inspirations.

Her favorite subjects include scenic landscapes, sunsets, lakes and streams. In addition, she has an extensive collection of charcoal drawings depicting

Several of Cathy's work hang at her alma mater and she recently exhibited in a Clarksburg, W. Va. show and at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland.

One of her woodcuts was awarded Best of Show last year in an art show sponsored by the Blue Pine Springs 4-H club at Garrett Community College. Her work is also displayed at the Starlite Restaurant, Oakland.

DAR Chapter Conducts Program

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met at the home of Mrs. Robert Proudfoot, Monte Vista Road, on Monday, March 19.

Due to inclement weather the January and February meetings had been cancelled and all business matters tabled until Monday's meeting.

A program entitled "Buttons, Bawbles, and Beads," was presented in which members exhibited small items which had belonged to their ancestors.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Charles Thomas, Mrs. Clair Hawkins, Mrs. Randall Kahl, Mrs. Carlton Bowser, and Mrs. Robert Proudfoot.

Child Care Food Program Slated

Again this year, the Maryland Department of Human Resources will participate in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Child Care Food Program for family day care providers.

This program permits certain day care providers to receive funds from the Department of Agriculture for meals provided to children. The amount of the funding is dependent on the economic level of the individual children in the center.

Each family day care provider participating in the program will be supplied with parent income statement forms. These forms are confidential and are used only for the U.S.D.A. food reimbursement program.

Applications for participation in the U.S.D.A. Food Program may be submitted at any time during the year to the participating local department of social services. If a family member becomes unemployed or family size or income should change, the family day care provider must contact the local department of social services to report these changes.

In the operation of the Child Care Food Program, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin and all children will be treated the same regardless of family income.

A complete copy of the policy regulating the program is on file with the local Department of Social Services and may be reviewed by any interested party.

Phi Delta Kappa Will Present Education Program

The Tri-State Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa is sponsoring a public program entitled, "Minimum Standards and Competency-Based Education." The program will be held at Frostburg State College, Lane Center, Room 201, on Wednesday, March 28, at 8:00 p.m.

After a slide-tape presentation, a panel will react to the pros and cons of minimum competency testing and the implications for students, parents, and educators. The panel will consist of Dr. Albert Flower, Assistant Superintendent of Somerset Area Schools; Mrs. Margaret Hamilton, Director of Elementary/Early Childhood Education Field Experiences from Frostburg State College and a member of the Allegany County School Board; and Mr. Harold Winstanley, Supervisor of Reading and Coordinator of Project Basic, Board of Education of Allegany County.

The Tri-State Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa was formally chartered in November 1976, and currently has over 100 members from the educational community of the Tri-State area. Phi Delta Kappa is an international professional fraternity for men and women in education whose purpose is to promote quality education, with particular emphasis on publicly supported education, as essential to the development and maintenance of the democratic way of life.

Letters to Editor

REMINDER — Unsigned letters to the editor will NOT be printed under any circumstances. Letters exceeding 300 words will also not be printed.

Dear Mr. Editor:

On Saturday, March 17, my husband and I took a load of garbage to the dumpsters at Spring Lake Road and Route 456. The sight was so repulsive that we considered returning home with our garbage. The dumpsters were filled beyond capacity so bags, bottles, boxes, and odd pieces had to be piled on the ground. This, of course, brought animals which scattered contents closer to Route 456 and into the nearby woods.

I am not familiar with the pick up schedule so I don't know if it's inadequate or just neglected, but I would like to suggest the following:

- 1) Possibly revise the pick up schedule.
- 2) Add more dumpsters to the site.
- 3) Include a lower dumpster or a style that would allow a small person to "drop in" the garbage rather than force him/her to struggle with the present style.

Yours truly,
 Carole Ann Lovett

student. The local chapter raises an annual fee which, when supplemented by whatever contributions the student can afford, covers AFS program expenses.

AFS also extends a monthly allowance directly to the student to cover incidental personal expenses. The organization makes sure host families will not have to pay medical bills for students. As a matter of policy, AFS extends medical coverage to its students.

Host families may take a monthly tax deduction in accordance with provisions made by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service.

There is very little expense to a host family," Mrs. Custer stressed. "What is really needed is something that cannot be bought—love and attention that every young person wants in a home situation."

While many families participating in the AFS program include children who are high school students, any family is eligible to serve as a host. "Young families can have tremendous success when they volunteer as hosts," Mrs. Custer noted, saying "It becomes a learning experience for young children and for parents themselves."

Families interested in participating in the AFS experience are urged to write Mrs. Dale Custer, Route 1, Box 9, Oakland, or call 334-3195 after 6 p.m.

Goldstein Notes

Common Error On

State Tax Forms

With the April 10th income tax deadline creeping closer, Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein has issued an advisory to State income taxpayers. "The largest single problem that has appeared on the nearly one-half million State tax returns filed to date involves the provision for itemizing deductions on Maryland income tax returns whether or not the taxpayer itemizes on his or her Federal tax return," Mr. Goldstein said.

The basic problem stems from confusion over exactly who must use the new form 502A, included in the Maryland tax packets for the first time this year.

"The only individuals required to fill out the form 502A are those taxpayers who wish to itemize deductions on their Maryland tax return, even though they weren't allowed to itemize on their Federal tax forms," Mr. Goldstein noted. "If you are itemizing on both your Federal and Maryland income tax returns this year, there is no need to complete the Maryland form 502A."

Taxpayers who are itemizing deductions on both Federal and State tax returns are sometimes confused over the inclusion of the 502A in the Maryland tax packet, since it is actually a duplicate of the Federal schedule A which they filled out for their Federal return.

"This confusion often generates telephone calls to our offices," Mr. Goldstein said. The Comptroller noted that the error rate on Maryland income tax returns is running slightly higher than usual, primarily because of the new changes on State tax forms now being filed. These changes affect working parents, retired and disabled taxpayers, students, as well as those taxpayers who wish to itemize deductions on their Maryland returns even though they weren't allowed to itemize on their Federal tax forms.

Thank You, Voters!

The CRT Program

" . . . Taking The Emergency Room Into The Patient's House "

By Beverly J. Sincell

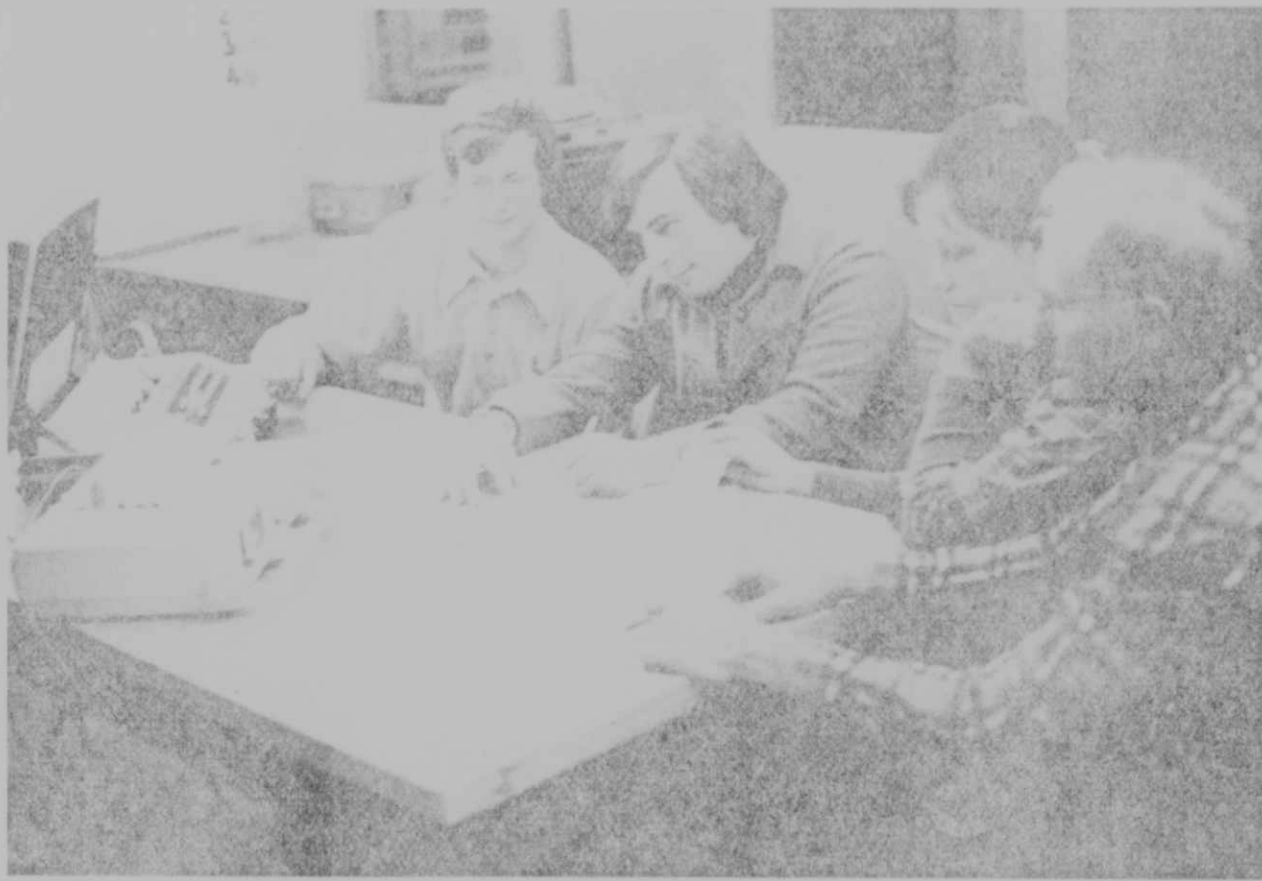

The scene is a home — anybody's — the characters are a man who is suffering from a heart attack and the emergency medical team which has already set up the unit to monitor his heart and have received instructions to begin administration of drugs. Minutes later the man's condition is reported as stabilized and the team is told to transport the victim.

This may sound like a familiar scene from the television series "Emergency" and it may seem oversimplified, but the above account depicts a scene from either the northern or southern end of Garrett County. Both the Northern and Southern Garrett County Rescue Squads are now equipped with personnel capable of going to a major city and receiving employment as professional paramedics, but they live and work in Garrett County and use their extensive training in their volunteer work on the county rescue squads. They are called CRTs, which stands for Cardiac Rescue Technician.

Currently, they number 24. Sixteen serve on the northern squad and seven on the southern. That number will change in May if all 13 trainees pass the state boards — four will go to Northern and nine to the Southern Squad.

The examination, which will be administered by the Emergency Medical Services Region I office on April 5, is but one of the requirements to acquire a license to practice as a CRT in Maryland.

Dave Evans, who was not only one of the first CRTs on the Southern Garrett Rescue

various heart patterns. Dave selects a heart pattern, which flashes across the EKG Monitor screen and runs out on a paper strip, and challenges the three to link the pattern to the specific problem.

IN THE EMERGENCY ROOM — Dr. Paul Williams, left, works with CRT trainee Fran Pope in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital emergency room. The unit they are discussing is the EKG Monitor which receives the EKG transmission from the CRT in his field. The EKG pattern can be transmitted over the special emergency telephone line or by radio. When an EKG pattern is transmitted to Garrett Memorial it is simultaneously transmitted to a Cumberland hospital. An EKG pattern can be transmitted through the Garrett County Central Alarm to hospitals as far away as Baltimore across a special statewide network.

at Memorial Hospital and Dr. Gina Glick, an anesthesiologist at Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland. The past group of trainees had — and every group in the future have — the advantage of taking their classes at the Garrett Community College Oakland Center, taught by Calvin Tracey, a CRT instructor, and three Garrett County physicians — Dr. George Stoltzfus, Dr. Tom Johnson, and Dr. Paul Williams.

The CRTs are taught to recognize irregular heart patterns — called cardiac arrhythmias — heart attack and congestive heart failure and are trained to relay this information along with vital sign statistics through a special communications system to a physician in any hospital in Maryland. The physician diagnoses the case and instructs the CRT which drugs to administer. They are also trained to use the electro-cardio graph

(a unit which monitors the heart and transmits a graph reading of heart beats) and the defibrillator (an electrically charged unit which is administered to a victim to shock his sporadically beating heart back into a normal pattern). The CRTs are also trained in situations involving severe burns, hemorrhaging, allergic reactions or trauma. Special equipment they are trained to use in some of these cases are the mass tracheas (inflatable pants which act as a self-transfusion by distributing the person's blood into the vital areas of the body) and the esophageal obturator airway (a device which is inserted into the esophagus to provide a clear airway and to prevent aspiration of stomach contents).

Once a CRT has completed the CRT course and receives certification he is not finished with his training for he is required to recertify each year.

Dave Ramsey, EMS Region I Coordinator, is the key person who supervises the recertification of area CRTs. He noted that one problem of the CRT in a rural area is that he does not receive adequate in-the-field experience to maintain his level of skills. Therefore, the recertification requirements are designed to supplement the necessary experience. Ramsey, along with an advisory council made up of area doctors, hospital administrators and CRTs, evaluate and improve local standards which along with state standards are the local guidelines for CRT recertification. The local recertification standards dictate that each year a CRT must administer 20 IVs, monitor ten patients with the EKG unit, must insert an airway three times and use the mass shock tracheas at least once. If these requirements are not met in the field, they must be met by hospital experience.

THE CORONARY CARE UNIT at Garrett County Memorial Hospital is one of the areas trainees in the CRT program gain hospital experience. Brad Stewart, left, Southern Rescue CRT, reviews heart patterns on the EKG Monitor with Dr. Tom Johnson, one of the three doctors who are instructors for the CRT course. The other two doctors are Dr. Paul Williams and Dr. George Stoltzfus, who is also medical advisor for the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

CRT TRAINEES simulate their procedure upon responding to a rescue squad call involving a cardiac patient. Frank Eberly, left, takes patient John Feather's, right, blood pressure which is one of the vital signs Bob De Nigris, center, will send to the physician on call at a hospital. The patient side portable communication system he is using, which has a 4UHF channel capability, is one of three possible means to communicate with a physician in a hospital. The other equipment beside the patient ready for hook up is part of the Life Pak 5 unit, which includes a defibrillator, an EKG Monitor, and a demodulator (the unit which converts EKG patterns into sound waves sent over the communication system to a hospital).

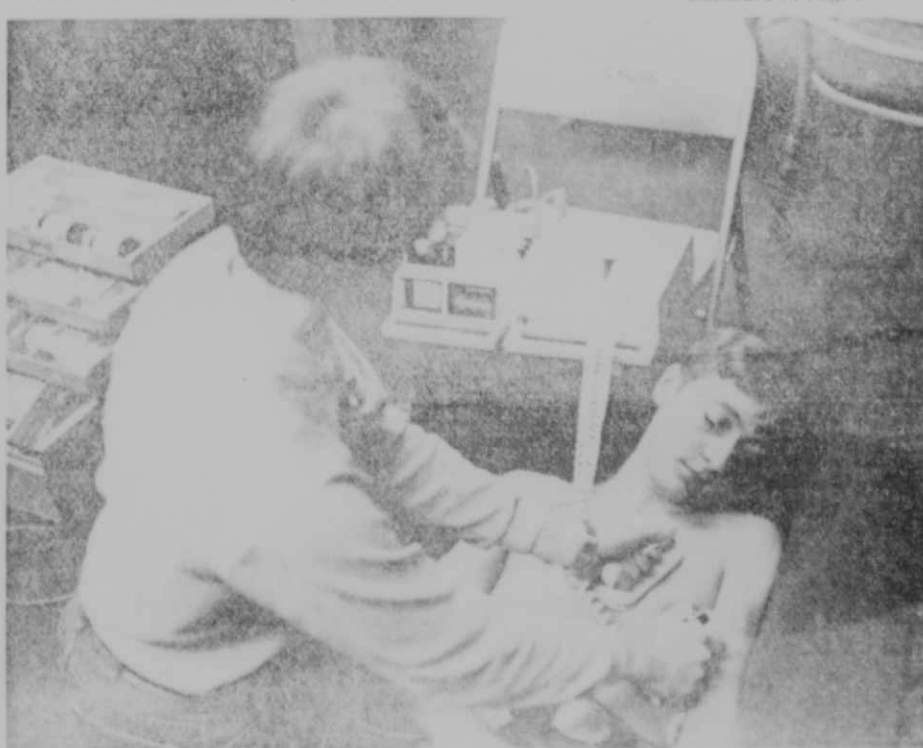

Other requirements include attending daylong workshops, seminars and drills. One idea the advisory council is considering is sending area CRTs downstate to urban areas where more incidents requiring a CRT occur.

Mr. Ramsey emphasized the fact that the CRT program would not have been possible without the efforts of many persons and organizations. He mentioned that the Heart Association was responsible for funding the first classes in this area for CRT training and also provided the first Life Pak 5 units, which include the EKG monitor and the defibrillation unit. He pointed out how the administration of Garrett Community College helped to fund part of the training and now provides the needed classroom space. Both he and Dave Evans complimented the administration and staff at Garrett County Memorial Hospital which have consistently supported the program. "The program can't work without cooperation," said Dave Evans, "and they (Garrett County Memorial

LIFE PAK 5 — Dave Evans, left, CRT Coordinator for Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, practices using the defibrillator by simulating a situation which requires it with willing subject, John Feather. The unit is one of three units included in Life Pak 5, which each CRT carries into the field. Attached to the defibrillator is the EKG monitor which monitors the beats of the heart and shows the pattern on a screen.

PREPARING THE MEDICATION — Frank Eberly, a CRT trainee, practices filling a syringe with a cardiac drug. When in the field, a CRT may be required to administer an IV using a cardiac drug or medication contained in the drug box. The drug box is sealed until opened for use on a call. Upon return to the hospital, the CRT exchanges the box for another sealed kit.

TRAINING FOR THE STATE EXAM — CRT trainee, Mary Hall, demonstrates starting an IV with the Bolus Unit which is the line to administer a cardiac drug, medication, or to replace body fluids. She is one of the 13 trainees preparing to take the state examination in April.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE IV — Every CRT must continually practice his skills in order to operate at peak efficiency in the field. Dave Evans, right, simulates the administration of a cardiac drug through the Bolus Unit which is attached to the back surface of the hand.

Preston County History Article Deadline Nears

April 20 is the final date for submission of articles and pictures for the new Preston County History, according to book chairman Janice Gale Sisler.

Shortly after the deadline, the manuscript will be submitted to Taylor Publishing Company.

Gift certificates and copies may be ordered by sending $25, plus 75 cents tax for West Virginia residents and $1.75 postage to Preston County History Book, Kingwood, WV 26337.

In order to determine the number of books to be printed, it is necessary to collect orders in advance, and the few extra copies will be available on a first come, first served basis.

Approximately one third of the book consists of topical history on subjects such as agriculture, mining, railroads, timber, grist mills, churches and communities. The remaining two thirds will consist of household histories submitted by Prestonians and paid business histories and memorial pages. Many photographs will be included.

Mason Sponsors Amendment To Limit Spending

Senator Edward J. Mason, (R-Allegany and Garrett), testified last week before a joint Senate Committee in support of limiting the growth of State government. Senator Mason has sponsored a constitutional amendment which would limit the increase in State expenditures to a three-year average of the State personal income.

Senator Mason told the Committee that it is incumbent upon the General Assembly to institute a fiscal policy that will put an end to the rising costs of government. "My proposal," said Mason, "addresses the problem of controlling growth and, at the same time, allows the State to maintain a level of services to residents based on the residents' ability to pay for those services."

Senator Mason noted that in his nine years in the Senate, no substantial Budget cuts have been made by the General Assembly that were not reinstated in the Governor's Supplemental Budget. "The Governor has many more demands to spend money than he has money to spend," said Senator Mason.

Senator Mason felt that a State spending limitation bill would not be enacted this Session, but that a committee would review the concept during the summer months, though I would prefer legislation to be passed this Session," said Mason, "the bill could not take effect until approved by the voters at the 1980 general election."

Colorado was the second state to adopt women's suffrage.

CRT Program

Hospital have been really good."

Dave Ramsey's office was responsible for one of the key links in the CRT service — the elaborate communication network. The communications system, which is part of a statewide network, is based at Central Alarm which connects the transmission from the portable unit carried by the CRT to a physician at the hospital. Currently, the majority of CRT-physician consultations have been handled simultaneously by a physician from both Garrett County Memorial and a Cumberland hospital.

The communication system allows three ways for the CRT to consult with a physician — through a portable unit carried by the CRT, through the radio system in the ambulance, or by a special telephone line. The central alarm dispatcher is able to connect the CRT with any hospital in the state and even hospitals out of the state. If a patient requires transfer to a special unit in a hospital downstate, the communication system allows the CRT to not only maintain consultation with the hospital but also to send the EKG transmission. This is possible because attached to the Life Pak 5 unit is a modulator which converts the EKG information into sound waves. The hospitals are equipped with a demodulator which converts the sound waves back into a picture which comes across a screen. All EKG transmissions are received at both Garrett County Memorial and a Cumberland hospital even when being sent to a third hospital. All cases which involve consultation with a doctor are recorded at Central Alarm for legal purposes.

The drugs used by the CRT in the field come in sealed medicine kits which are provided by the Maryland Emergency Medical Service and stored at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Once the seal has been broken on a kit, it is discarded and replaced with a new kit.

The first CRTs in Garrett County were trained in 1973, but they could not practice until the proper equipment was obtained by the squads. That equipment came early in 1977 when the Heart Association donated two Life Pak 5 kits to the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad and one to the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad. Southern Garrett received its second Life Pak 5 unit this spring through Dave Ramsey's office.

The advantage of the CRT program is, as Dave Evans described it, that it essentially "takes the emergency room to the patient's house." Ten years ago, this capability was merely a dream for Garrett County. Ten years ago, Garrett County had no trained emergency medical technicians or volunteer rescue squads.

Credit for the progress that has been made in Garrett County definitely goes to the many persons and organizations involved in supplying the needed training, equipment, and funding — to the Maryland Emergency Medical Service, the Heart Association, the EMS Region 1 office and coordinator, the EMS Region 1 Advisory Council, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, all physicians involved and the EMT and CRT instructors — Garrett Community College.

But special admiration goes, after all, to those persons who volunteer their free time to emergency medical service — who conscientiously train for their work and keep up with the modern techniques, and who willingly go out at all hours to alleviate another's suffering, perhaps to save a life. The training to become a CRT is rigorous and the constant practice to maintain and develop necessary skills is time consuming; not all can devote the time and energy required. Those who can and do have added a new dimension to emergency care to Garrett County, a service that any could save the life of any one of us.

Carter Allocates Funds To State

President Jimmy Carter announced this week that Maryland has been allocated $17.7 million as part of his fiscal 1980 budget request to Congress for $534.6 million for the programs of the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Garrett, Allegany and Washington Counties in Western Maryland will receive funding for projects under the Maryland Appalachian Regional Development Program administered by the Department of Economic and Community Development.

These funds continue a program initiated in 1965 when Congress passed the Appalachian Regional Development Act to foster economic growth and development in the 13-State Appalachian Region. Including the three counties of Western Maryland, this region extends from New York, down the ridge of the Appalachian Mountains to Mississippi and Alabama. Individual state allocations are made on the basis of population, geography, economic conditions and other factors. Nearly 10 percent of the nation's population reside within this 387 county area of which 356 are primarily rural in makeup.

Of the $17.7 million allocated for Maryland $12 million will be used for highway development and $5 million for non-highway programs. Investment decisions are based on the Appalachian Maryland Development Plan, the guiding document for all ARC investments. Within this plan, key investment areas are: transportation; economic and community development; human services; housing; and natural resources.

According to G. William Walker, Appalachian Program Administrator for DECD, "The completion of the U. S. Route 48 is the primary goal of Maryland Appalachia because inadequate access to Western Maryland has been a major deterrent to this development."

The Maryland portion of U. S. 48, called the National Freeway, runs from Hancock due west to the Maryland-West Virginia border and is Maryland's share of the 3,279 miles of Appalachian Development Highway System. The Highway is designed to link major markets as an inducement to industry to locate along the route.

Second in importance to the building of the National Freeway in the Appalachia Maryland Development Plan is the funding of non-highway projects which are incentives for the settlement of industry in the area. These projects focus primarily on three major industries, coal production, expansion of the tourist industry and general industrial development.

Other non-highway investments in Appalachian Maryland are aimed at education, child development and health care. Educational investments concentrate on matching educational offerings with training for future employment. Comprehensive child development day care centers for children up to six years of age are also emphasized. Currently there are eight such centers in Appalachian Maryland offering the opportunity for child care while parents work. Throughout the 13-state Region, it is estimated that 51 percent of young Appalachian children grow up in families earning less than $8,000 per year.

Due to the lack of health care delivery facilities, funding stresses preventive care services. Substandard water and sewer and substandard housing are also target areas for investments in Appalachian Maryland.

In the past thirteen years, the Appalachian Regional Commission has invested nearly $125 million in Maryland projects. These funds, in combination with monies from other federal agencies, the state, and local sources have amounted to a total investment of nearly $266 million by the end of fiscal year 1978.

Legislature Is New Television Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Daytime game shows and soap operas have some new competition—live broadcasts of the U. S. House of Representatives at work.

The new show made its debut with gavel-to-gavel coverage of Monday's 2-hour, 20-minute House session.

Special events, such as presidential speeches to joint sessions of Congress, have been broadcast live before, but Monday marked the first coverage of a routine business session of the House.

It was carried by the Public Broadcasting System and the CSPAN cable television system, and portions were picked up by the commercial networks for use during their news shows.

Future broadcasts will be carried on an occasional basis by PBS and the commercial networks as major bills come up for debate. The cable company is carrying the live broadcasts on a daily basis.

The first live television broadcast may have been historic but it was a tame affair. Only about 20 of the 435 House members were in the chamber and they had only three minor bills up for consideration.

Rep. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., was the first speaker. He challenged the Senate to also open its proceedings to the television cameras.

After a half-dozen other brief statements and the reading of two presidential messages, the House took up a bill combining the administration of U. S. stockpiles of critical materials. It was disposed of in less than five minutes. Only two members spoke on it and it was passed on a voice vote.

Debate on the next bill—dealing with the export of lottery materials—was only slightly longer, but the vote was put off until later in the week.

A more vigorous debate developed on a measure to create a new House committee—the Select Committee on Committees—that would study what the other committees are doing. The debate went on for 45 minutes, but a vote was put off until today.

The proceedings were covered by six television cameras mounted in the galleries above the House floor and operated from a control room in the basement of the Capitol.

The entire project is run by House employees. The broadcast is then fed to the public, commercial or cable networks for use as they see fit.

The system's debut actually came last month, but the telecast was on a closed circuit within the capitol complex—not made available outside.

Maryland Priest Believed To Be Gentleman Bandit

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — A New Castle County grand jury Tuesday indicted the Rev. Bernard T. Pagano on five charges of armed robbery and one attempted robbery charge in the so-called "Gentleman Bandit" holdups.

Pagano is believed by police to be the well-dressed polite man who earned the nickname "Gentleman Bandit." The 33-year-old priest is the assistant pastor at St. Mary's Refuge in Cambridge, Md.

Deputy Attorney General Tim Barron said an arraignment will be scheduled within two weeks.

Pagano was arrested February 27 and charged with a series of store and warehouse robberies that occurred north of Wilmington this winter.

During the preliminary hearing, Pagano was identified by three witnesses as the man who robbed them.

However, since one robbery victim could not positively identify Pagano during the hearing, a sixth charge of armed robbery was dropped.

Doctor Boom Will Continue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government report says the recent doctor boom will continue into the 1980's, perpetuating a doctor-patient ratio that clearly favors the city dweller over the rural resident.

The report, "Health, United States, 1978," said the cancer death rate among people 45 and under is decreasing, life expectancy is up to almost 73 years and infant mortality rates are declining.

The increasing geographical imbalance in medical care moved President Carter recently to seek changes in medical school funding in the 1980 budget. Carter wants to encourage universities to train doctors in primary care among rural populations instead of specializing which often lead them to practice in large urban centers.

The report, issued Monday, said the nation's total physician supply has grown faster than the population, rising from 15.4 per 10,000 population in 1970 to 17.8 per 10,000 in 1976. That ratio is expected to hit 24.2 per 10,000 by 1990.

But the concentration of doctors in big cities continues. The national city average is nearly 20 doctors for every 10,000 persons, compared to eight doctors per 10,000 in rural America, it said.

Geographically, the Northeast and South are good examples of the imbalance. In the Northeast there were 26.6 private physicians per 10,000 people in 1976. In the South the rate was 13.8 per 10,000.

The report was prepared by the National Center for Health Statistics and the National Center for Health Services Research.

Baltimore Traffic Supervisor Demoted For Racial Slurs

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Baltimore County's $21,500 a year traffic signal maintenance supervisor has been demoted for allegedly using racial slurs and chaining a black employee to a workbench.

County administrative officer Randolph B. Rosenkrantz said Tuesday that John A. Thomas has been suspended for three weeks without pay and will be demoted to a $16,300 a year technician.

Thomas is accused of calling black employee Maurice Bailey "the nigger." Rosenkrantz said an investigation revealed that Bailey was chained to a workbench.

Disciplinary charges also allege that Thomas, of Cockeysville, called 30-year-old employee Terry Turchin "the Jew" and forced him to wear a noose around his neck, Rosenkrantz said.

Rosenkrantz said the action results from a two-week investigation.

Atomic Plants Await Results

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nuclear Regulatory Commission officials say if studies now under way turn up no danger, it would take a couple of weeks for five East Coast atomic power plants to resume suspended operations.

The five plants were shut down by the NRC last week after discovery that mathematical errors caused cooling system pipes to be less resistant than they should be to earthquake damage. Critics, including the power companies, the nuclear industry and many congressmen, said the action was not warranted in view of the low frequency of earthquakes in the East and the economic cost of the shutdowns.

Utility companies have said it would cost millions of dollars to switch to scarce oil to fire the generators and that it would cause a summertime power shortage for the 13 million customers served by the plants.

Closed by the NRC order at the Duquesne Light Co.'s Beaver Valley Unit 1 at Shippingport, Pa.; Virginia Electric Power Co.'s Surry I and II units at Gravel Neck, Va.; New York Power Authority's Fitzpatrick plant at Scriba, N.Y., and Maine Yankee plant in Wiscasset, Maine, which is owned by 11 utilities.

The thing that concerns me the most is apparently no consideration was given to alternatives to a complete shutdown," complained Rep. David Emery, R-Maine, at a hearing Monday of the House Interior subcommittee on energy and environment.

He said it will cause an "economic uproar" in his state. "I don't question the NRC's authority" to order the shutdown for a re-examination of the arithmetic, Emery said. "I question the procedure - and it was an overreaction, precipitous and unnecessary."

Footprint Trail Said Made By Human Ancestors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anthropologist Mary Leakey today announced the discovery of a 75-foot-long trail of footprints made by two individuals walking on a fresh layer of volcanic ash 3.6 million years ago in what is now Tanzania.

The prints are those of the oldest-known hominids and Dr. Leakey believes they are direct ancestors of humans.

The footprints, representing a frozen moment in Earth's history, were discovered at Laetoli in northern Tanzania last summer. Ms. Leakey said only the end of the excavation season in September kept scientists from following the trail farther.

"The nature of the terrain leads us to believe that the footprints, though now covered, remained largely intact to the south," she said in a report in the April issue of National Geographic Magazine.

Ms. Leakey said the creatures that made the prints were walking upright, with a free-striding gait not unlike that of humans. She said the form of the foot "was exactly the same as ours."

Ms. Leakey said the role of walking upright in the development of hominids cannot be over-emphasized. She said it, more than anything else, is what differentiates the forebears of man from other primates.

"This unique ability freed the hands for myriad possibilities — carrying, toolmaking, intricate manipulation. From this single development, in fact, stems all modern technology."

"Somewhat oversimplified, the formula holds that this new freedom of forelimbs posed a challenge. The brain expanded to meet it. And mankind was formed."

Ms. Leakey and coworkers found five fossilized footprints in the area in 1976 and announced that find in 1977. That discovery led to an intensified search last summer.

The new trail was found when Dr. Paul Abell of the University of Rhode Island noticed a barely exposed heel print while he was digging out a block of rhinoceros prints. When surrounding soil was removed, the 75-foot-long trail was uncovered.

Ms. Leakey said one of the individuals was smaller than the other and probably was female.

"At one point, and you need not be an expert tracker to discern this, she stops, pauses, turns to the left to glance at some possible threat or irregularity, and then continues to the north."

"This motion, so intensely human, transcends time. Three-million, six-hundred-thousand years ago, a remote ancestor — just as you or I — experienced a moment of doubt," she said.

Baltimore Judge Rules City Police Requirements Illegal

BALTIMORE (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Frank R. Kaufman has ruled that the Baltimore Police Department's height requirement illegally discriminates against female applicants.

Kaufman ruled Tuesday that the height requirement is a pattern of intentional discrimination that effectively excludes most women applicants from the police force.

The judge found that the requirement that applicants be at least five-feet seven inches tall eliminates 81.8 percent of women but only 25.1 percent of males.

The judge made the ruling in a 171-page opinion on three sex and race discrimination cases that were consolidated in his court. Kaufman praised the department's efforts to recruit more blacks but found that two tests discriminated against black applicants.

Kaufman dismissed the remainder of the racial discrimination cases because he found there was a lack of evidence of racial discrimination in the department. But the judge ruled that the evidence was more clear that women were the victims of sex discrimination.

Commissioner Donald D. Pomerleau's "own testimony indicates that his decision to promulgate the disputed height-weight requirement was primarily motivated by concern about having short women serve as police officers," the judge wrote.

Jurors Queried About Sex For Larry Flynt Trial

ATLANTA (UPI) — the defense in the pornography-peddling trial of Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt are asking prospective jurors about their views on sex.

Detailed questioning of the prospective jurors delayed the start of testimony Tuesday, but court officials said the six-member jury should be selected today.

Chief defense attorney Herald Price Fahringer apologized to jurors about having to ask their views on sex, but said it is important to the defense that he know how they regard community standards.

"Are there any on this panel that would refrain from reading a magazine because it dealt with sex, any of the run-of-the-mill men's magazines?" he asked. "I'm looking, in particular, for people who are offended by them."

He also asked who attended church regularly or belonged to any "decency" organizations. Flynt, confined to a wheelchair by a sniper's bullet inflicted during a similar trial last year in nearby Lawrenceville, Ga., faces 11 misdemeanor counts of selling his magazines, Hustler and Chic. He faces a possible 11 years in prison.

Gelles said his study showed that of U. S. families surveyed, the ten percent which showed parent abuse often had a history of violence.

A child abused by his parents grows older and stronger, then returns the abuse and-or neglect, he said.

Gelles said the cases of abuse cited in his study included only serious attacks, such as stabbings, shootings and beatings. The number of cases would be substantially higher if pushing and shoving incidents were included, he said.

He said more than 6,000 such serious cases occur annually in Rhode Island.

House Ethics Committee Investigates South African Bribes In Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House ethics committee is investigating whether members of Congress took money from the South African government, and a similar inquiry may be undertaken in the Senate.

Rep. Charles Bennett, D-Fla., the new chairman of the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, confirmed Tuesday his panel is investigating possible bribes offered by former South African official Eschel Rhoodie.

Rhoodie said he had proof his government contributed money to campaigns of American politicians in an effort to win friends in Washington.

"I made the decision that this should be investigated. Everything that happens to look evil, we have an investigation on it immediately. The only ones you know about are Iran and South Africa, but believe me, they're not alone," Bennett told a reporter.

His reference to Iran involves an earlier disclosure of a committee inquiry into allegations that officials of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's government offered bribes to U.S. politicians and reporters.

The Senate ethics committee has not decided whether to investigate South African bribery, but sources said staff members are gathering all available press reports to determine whether any sitting senators might be involved. Senate sources said there have been hints the South African government may have targeted two Democratic senators for defeat — Dick Clark of Iowa and John Tunney of California — and given money to their opponents.

Those charges conceivably could bring current senators under scrutiny because both men were, in fact, defeated — Clark last fall by Sen. Roger Jepsen, R-Iowa, and Tunney by Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., in 1976.

And the Rand Daily Mail reported Tuesday Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., received a contribution of $294 in 1977 from the South Africans.

Direct or indirect campaign contributions from a foreign government or a foreign national are prohibited by federal campaign laws. However, Moynihan's race for the Senate was in 1976 so the contribution may not have violated any statutes.

The Senate panel was expected to take its first look at the potential scandal in a regular meeting Thursday.

In the House, Bennett said information on the South African or Iranian investigations will be released unless the committee decides to bring charges against any House members. Right now, he said, it looks like "a dry hole."

Children Often Guilty Of Abuse

KINGSTON, R.I. (UPI) — One out of every ten children in the United States attacks his parents each year with everything from fists and clubs to knives and guns, a University of Rhode Island sociologist says.

Dr. Richard Gelles said his nationwide survey of American families also showed that few children are ever prosecuted for the beatings or threats because most parents cannot bear to file charges against their offspring.

"The family is the last outpost of intimacy in America," Gelles said. "Parents are more concerned about a consensus than solving problems."

"They try to keep their family together. Giving up a son to police is like admitting failure."

Gelles said his study showed that of U. S. families surveyed, the ten percent which showed parent abuse often had a history of violence.

A child abused by his parents grows older and stronger, then returns the abuse and-or neglect, he said.

Gelles said the cases of abuse cited in his study included only serious attacks, such as stabbings, shootings and beatings. The number of cases would be substantially higher if pushing and shoving incidents were included, he said.

Doctors Question Good Effects Of Alcohol On Heart

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A report that moderate amounts of alcohol might reduce the risk of heart disease raised eyebrows among doctors attending an American Heart Association conference.

"Alcohol creates other risks," responded Dr. William Haskell of Bethesda, Md. "Besides, there is general public misinterpretation of moderate alcohol consumption. Most people tend to misrepresent their alcohol consumption."

The report on the possible benefits of alcohol was presented Tuesday by Dr. Ronald LaPorte of the University of Pittsburgh, who described moderate consumption as no more than three drinks a day. LaPorte said, "We think — we don't know, but it's possible — that somehow through some mechanism ... changes in the heart disease death rates in the United States may be related to changes in alcohol consumption, particularly beer, or in cigarette consumption."

However, he said findings that the U.S. heart death rate decreased as beer consumption increased could be influenced by a corresponding decline in smoking. "These two factors seem to be highly related," he said.

Other doctors were wary of the alcohol report.

Shell Oil Predicts Coal To Become Leading Energy Source By 2000 A.D.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Coal will surpass oil and natural gas as the country's major energy source by the beginning of the 21st century, Shell Oil Co. says in a projection of U.S. energy needs.

The oil company's "Tomorrow's Energy: 1990 and Beyond" describes two scenarios for the United States as the turn of the century approaches — both based on the assumption that there are "no radical changes to the current U.S. social or political environment."

One is based on "rather weak economic growth" and "very low public concern" about energy problems, while the other offers predictions during a period of "strong domestic economic growth" and public interest in solving fuel shortages.

However, both views indicate a declining use of petroleum. Coal will contribute 40 percent to 45 percent of the energy consumed, the report said.

"Oil and natural gas will provide 30 percent to 35 percent of the nation's total energy, versus 70 percent to 75 percent currently," it said.

Shell's bleakest vision of the future shows not only disinterest in energy problems and alternate energy by the public but weakened economic growth due to "restrictive environmental regulations" and OPEC prices rising "as rapidly as economic conditions permit."

When Alaskan and North Sea oil production drops off.

But the oil giant sees the economy recovering as the public and the government respond to higher energy prices, and "less restrictive environmental regulations begin to encourage investment spending, higher productive capacity and energy production" and alternative energies emerge.

The more promising scenario has similar results, the report says, but foresees the country responding to energy needs more rapidly and creating a healthy environment for energy.

Republicans Feel Peanut Business Check Is Doomed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paul Curran, a "special counsel" to the Justice Department, has been named to investigate President Carter's family peanut business and the appointment by Attorney General Griffin Bell has brought down the wrath of congressional Republicans who said Tuesday Curran's investigation's credibility in the probe is doomed.

Because he is without the powers and independence of a Watergate-style "special prosecutor," the Republicans feel he could be removed "at any time for any reason," and have agreed to press for the appointment of a special prosecutor.

Ocean City Pier Won't Be Ready For Tourists

OCEAN CITY, Md. (UPI) — The Ocean City pier committee says that it will be "almost impossible" to rebuild the portion of the fishing pier that was destroyed by ice storms this winter in time for the tourist season.

Elbridge N. Cropper, committee chairman, reported Tuesday to the mayor and City Council that his group and the holder of the pier franchise, Charles H. Jenkins, have agreed the portion that is still standing will be repaired so fishing can resume.

But the large section that was destroyed won't be replaced until next fall.

Mayor Harry W. Kelley and the City Council supported the plan at a meeting Monday night.

Boston Doctor Races To Cure Soviet Woman

MOSCOW (UPI) — Dr. Warren Zapol of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston left to race across the Atlantic to Moscow on such short notice he didn't receive his visa until after he arrived there. He had been asked to help a 28-year-old Soviet woman dying of a blood infection.

Zapol declined to identify the patient. But Western sources said she was the daughter of Dr. Vladimir Burakovsky, director of Moscow's Bakulev Institute of Cardiovascular Surgery. The doctor said when he arrived the patient had only about a 10 percent chance of survival of septicemia, but he operated. He slept only six or seven hours in the next three days. But last Saturday — Zapol's 37th birthday — his patient opened her eyes and smiled. "That was the best kind of birthday present, the best I've ever had," he said.

Senators Want United To Keep Direct Flights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Until other airlines can fill the void, Sens. Robert C. Byrd and Jennings Randolph of West Virginia want the Civil Aeronautics Board to bar United Airlines from searching its Charleston-Pittsburgh-New York flights.

Elimination of the flights, blasted by a number of officials in the state, would be a "devastating blow" to West Virginia, the two Democrats told the CAB in a petition.

"United is the only carrier providing direct service to New York and nonstop service to Pittsburgh," the senators said. "United has proposed to eliminate completely all service in these markets. If this occurs, Charleston will no longer be receiving essential air transportation."

In February, United disclosed the end of its routes, in effect erasing nearly half of its Charleston service June 8. The airline has promised to delay the cutbacks three weeks to the end of June.

Also in February, American Airlines announced the elimination of its Charleston flights, effective May 22.

Byrd and Randolph said the brief extension of service by United was an indication that the airline "appears sensitive to Charleston's problem."

"While we are very encouraged by United's attitude and effort to provide Charleston with the essential service that it desperately needs," they said, "we are concerned that the problem may have only been postponed a few weeks."

Non-stop air service to Pittsburgh is vital to West Virginia's capital since much business and social contact exists between the cities, they said.

The senators told the CAB that more passengers use United's Charleston-Pittsburgh-New York route than any other leaving Charleston. Airport data for the year ending June 30, 1978, shows that about one-fifth of the traffic at Charleston flies over the routing that United proposes to abandon.

Economic reasons caused by airline deregulation was cited by United for its plan to withdraw the Charleston flights. The airline plans to use the planes on the Charleston flights on more profitable routes in other regions.

Sherry Tichnell Is February Bride Of Thomas J. Laffey

Sherry Lynn Tichnell and Thomas Joseph Laffey were united in matrimony February 23, at 6:30 p.m., at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport.

The Rev. Ed Hendricks performed the candlelight double ring ceremony. Mary Ord, organist, accompanied Richard Rinard, vocalist, who sang "If," "And I Love You So," "The Wedding Song," and "Whither Thou Goest."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis T. Tichnell, Route 1, Swanton. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Laffey, Westernport.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory gown of sheer organza designed in a princess line. The bodice and fitted sleeves were of Irish lace encrusted with pearls. Venise lace medallions on the skirt fell to an Irish ruffle sweeping to a chapel train. The veil, designed by the bride, was of ivory, trimmed with Irish lace to match the bridal gown. Tiny pearls adorned the headpiece.

The bride's bouquet was of ivory silk roses and poppies, nestled in baby's breath.

Sandi Virts, Westernport, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Kim Tichnell, Longview, Texas, sister-in-law of the bride. Flower girl was Tracey Obeinschtein, Beryl, W.V.

A reception followed at Bloomington Fire Hall, catered by the Ladies' Auxiliary. Jane Borror, aunt of the bride, and Kathy Laffey served the cake, which was baked by Mrs. Betty Shahan. Avanelle Virts, aunt of the bride, and Norma Hamilton, aunt of the bride, served punch.

For a wedding trip to eastern Pennsylvania, the bride chose brown tailored pants with a couze peasant-style top over a cowl neck sweater.

Talk Time

Communication... that's the name of the game. As long as you keep the channels open, you are in business. People don't get divorces when they can sit across a breakfast table and smile at each other, sharing coffee and conversation. People seldom get fired when they can express themselves, make their ideas known, say what they think.

And there's another kind of communication. The kind you find in church... with your pastor... with the other people in the congregation... but most of all, with God.

Don't miss out.

WHEN IN DOUBT

Lesson for March 18, 1979

Background Scripture: 1 Corinthians 4:1-7

Several years ago I saw a shocking display of temper and aggression in — of all places! — a church retreat center.

Two different groups were sharing the center's facilities. One group was engaged in serious study, the other in boisterous recreation. For a while the first group tried to ignore the clamor, but to no avail. Finally, the leader of the group sought out the leader of the group at play and, in what he believed to be a most reasonable manner, he asked the other group's cooperation. The other leader was quick to agree, but before they could return to their respective groups, a pushing and shouting match erupted between a member of each group. In a few short moments, blows had been struck and only the intervention of the leaders averted further mishap.

When There's a Grievance The people involved in the dispute above were not children or youth. They were adults. What shocked me as I witnessed this incident was not that there was a grievance between these two groups, but that these people did not seem to know how to react to the grievance without becoming belligerent.

Although they may not often come to blows as in the incident have described, there are many times when Christians seem not to know how to handle grievances and differences among themselves. I have sat through church meetings that fairly dripped with hostility and bitterness. I have seen church groups take each other to court. I have seen members of denominational boards behave as if other board members were representatives of the anti-Christ instead of brothers in Christ. You, too, have probably witnessed similar situations in the life of the church.

Grievances are not something new in the life of the church. In 1 Corinthians 5 and 6 we find that Paul is distressed over a situation he finds in the church at Corinth. "When one of you has a grievance against a brother, does he dare go to law before the unrighteous instead of the saints?" (6:1). Paul was shocked at the spectacle of one Christian taking another to court. What a terrible witness to the world. "To have lawsuits at all with one another is defeat for you" (6:7).

Rather Suffer Once again, Paul is not shocked that there are disagreements; he knows human nature. What he is shocked at, however, is that these Christians have not found some constructive way to handle their disagreements. Their anger and bitterness defeat their whole purpose. A much better way, he says, "Why not suffer wrong? Why not let yourself be defrauded?" (6:7b, 8). In other words, Paul is saying that if it comes to a choice between suffering wrong or doing wrong, it is better to choose the former. When in doubt, remember the cross.

TOO MANY PEOPLE ARE WASTING MONEY

One of the most critical health problems today is the number of people who are not taking the prescribed quantity of drug after having their prescriptions filled.

Non-compliance, as it is called, can result in a lengthened illness and additional expense to revisit the doctor and to acquire a new drug supply.

Once you are sick, we urge you to follow your doctors advice and to use the prescription he gives you exactly as we dispense it. Don't waste your money.

Ricky Kolb Receives First Prize For Naming Accident Housing Project

Ricky Kolb, Accident, received a $25 first prize for naming the proposed senior citizens housing project in Accident from the Rev. Fred Illick, president of the ACHC Board of Directors.

Ricky's suggested name, "Town View Village," was approved by corporation membership at the March 12 meeting. Ricky is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kolb, Accident.

Participating in the contest were residents throughout Garrett County, with containers for this purpose placed in various places of business, churches and public schools.

When asked how he came up with his name, Ricky's response was, "Well, when you are standing on that location, you can see the entire town."

The proposed site for the housing project overlooks the new Accident Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library and the center of downtown Accident.

The Corporation is now seeking funds on the local level through contributions and gifts. These will be matched by funds from state and federal sources to move the project toward its beginning, according to Rev. Illick.

Any questions concerning the project may be addressed to Pastor Illick's office, 826-8170, or to the Garrett County Housing Office in Oakland, 334-4443.

Other members of the corporation's board of directors are William Harman, vice president; Miss Esther Opel, secretary; Mrs. Mary Silber Deniker, treasurer; Pastor William Carlson, parliamentarian; Mrs. Selma Neil, and Richard Kolb, mayor of Accident.

The sky-divers jump in addition to their regular Army Reserve duties. Aircraft for demonstrations are provided from routine air crew training flights.

Centurions are members of the United States Parachute Association and must have an advanced or expert license. They are also senior or master military parachutists.

The Centurions use high performance steerable parachutes to guide themselves to their target area. The more experienced members have a 90 percent probability of hitting an 8 by 8 foot target from 4,000 feet under excellent conditions. Demonstrations have been held throughout the Middle and Southern Atlantic States. The Centurions are regular attractions at Fort McHenry, the Winchester Apple Blossom Festival and Ski Roundup. They also appear frequently at state and county fairs and second jamborees.

Youth Employment Program Applications Now Being Accepted

Applications are now being accepted from economically disadvantaged youth, ages 14 through 21, for employment under the Summer Youth Employment Program, according to a release from the Garrett County Board of Education.

Full-time students interested in employment under this program are urged to contact the guidance counselor of the school they attend for an application. Interested youth not in school must be certified for employment at the Employment Office in Oakland, and apply at the Western Maryland Consortium Operations Office at 104 E. Center Street, Oakland.

No definite allocation of funds has as yet been set for this program in Garrett County. However, the total allocation for the Western Maryland Consortium, comprising Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington Counties, is $705,906.

Eligible youth enrollees of this program will be involved in summer work in such areas as schools of the county, state parks, and other recreational areas.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Connie Meyers at 334-8136, or George Brady at the Garrett County Board of Education Office, 334-8121.

Organized in 1976, the Centurions have participated in over 100 events before a total audience of more than three million. Led by Sergeant First Class James B. Rawlinson, the Centurions are normally available on six to eight weeks notice, except for major holidays.

Interested civic groups, charities and government agencies should contact Sergeant Rawlinson at (301) 677-3606 or write the Centurions, Headquarters, 97th U. S. Army Reserve Command, Building P-1251, Fort Meade, Maryland 20755.

GCC Career Information Center Shows

20,000 Ways To Make A Living

opportunities. The GCC Career Information Center not only houses information on 20,000 different occupations, but it also provides information on selecting a career, pursuing it, and obtaining a job in it.

THERE FOR THE ASKING — Gene Popielek, left, GCC Career Counselor, boasts of a Career Information Center that rivals many four year colleges and universities in its quantity and quality of career information. Gene talks with student Ed Vogel about books especially suited to his career goals. Gene says the center was established to help meet the student's and the community's needs in deciding future career goals, and he strives to keep the center abreast of current career trends.

work when your husband is against it, your children aren't old enough, and there's nothing you can do anyhow."

The Center will soon expand to a "Satellite" location at the Oakland Center of GCC. A resource room is now under construction on the 3rd floor and should be completed sometime in March. The Satellite will be open in the evenings for interested persons to examine the latest information concerning careers. This effort represents GCC's continuing outreach program.

When confronted by a mass of detailed career information, many people become even more confused because they lack direction or focus in their career decision making. Since there are presently over 35,000 different occupations in the U.S., a lack of direction transforms vocational development into a very time consuming and complex task. One way of "narrowing" alternatives is by comparing oneself to those people who are presently working in various occupations. This can be accomplished through interest inventories, aptitude tests, and value scales. All of these services are free and provided by a trained counselor at GCC.

Career development is integrated into the curriculum at GCC through a two-credit course entitled "Life Style Planning." The course is designed to aid group members in assessing their values, interests, abilities, skills and strengths in career areas. Proficiency in researching career fields using college and community resources is stressed. Special emphasis is upon demonstrating and understanding decision-making models applicable to career and personal decisions.

Another course, a one-credit job hunting techniques class, is aimed at providing those seeking employment with the necessary skills to make their job search a successful one. Topics such as resume writing, skills identification, and interviewing techniques are covered.

Anyone wishing to visit the Career Information Center is welcome and no appointment is necessary. The center is located in Room 101 of the Learning Center at the McHenry campus and on 3rd floor in the Oakland Center. The Center is open (except weekends) from 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m., Monday and 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday.

GCC has instituted these services for the community as well as students. These resources may help you in making decisions that could lead to a more rewarding and fulfilling life.

by Gene Popielek
GCC Career Counselor

What is 10x15' and contains information on 20,000 different occupations? Although the size of the room may be deceptive, the Career Information Center at Garrett Community College houses a very comprehensive collection of career guidance resources. The amount and quality of information rivals that of many four-year colleges and universities.

Traditionally, a person followed a particular vocation for a lifetime. Recent predictions, however, are in stark contrast to the one person-one career concept. People graduating from high school can now be expected to change career fields five times during their lifetime.

Many factors influence this frequency of career change. Among them are the rapidly changing technologies, increased availability of education for retraining, and the increasingly transient nature of the American family.

GCC's Career Information Center has been established to help meet the student's and the community's needs in terms of "where am I going with the rest of my life?"

The first, and most important step when deciding on a career or a change in career is the gathering of information. Without the proper information on which to base a decision, any attempt to point oneself in a new vocational direction is doomed to failure. The Center is a clearinghouse of information that enables the user to formulate decisions from a solid, factual foundation.

A sampling of the resources includes the following: 450 vocational files, 75 books devoted to specific career fields, 40 books dealing with general career development, 124 tapes and filmstrips dealing with various occupations, recent career related magazines and 10 Civil Service Test Tutors.

A special effort has been made to gather material that would help women in their career development. Women now comprise over 40% of the work force and the percentage is rising yearly. For many women the first step toward the working world is an unfamiliar one. Over 40 books and pamphlets are now available to facilitate women in formulating and realizing their vocational goals. Included in this collection are such books as "I Can Be Anything," "New Life Options—The Working Woman's Resource Book,"

"Non-traditional Careers for Women," and "How to go to

Mild January Boosts Sales Tax Revenue

"A comparatively mild January 1979, boosted State sales tax revenues," Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported recently. Maryland sales and use tax revenues for the month of February 1978, which reflect retail sales made during January, posted a 17.6 percent increase over collections for the same month a year ago. Revenues for February 1979 totaled $52,219,974, compared with $44,397,115 for the same month of 1978.

"The milder winter weather throughout much of Maryland during January 1979 compared with January 1978 seems to be a primary reason for the exceptional increase in revenue," Mr. Goldstein said. "Nowhere is this more vividly demonstrated than in the general merchandise category, which includes most department stores, variety stores and discount houses. Sales tax revenues from the general merchandise group increased 32.5 percent over February, 1978."

The Comptroller also noted the impact of the level of Maryland personal income, which the Board of Revenue Estimates recently said would be 9.5 percent higher for Fiscal Year 1979 than the previous year.

For the first seven months of Fiscal Year 1979, sales tax revenues amount to $411,513,976, up 11.7 percent over the $368,390,248 received during the same seven month period of Fiscal Year 1978.

An analysis of the revenues shows that the building and contractors' category of collections remains among the fastest growing sources of sales tax receipts, with seven months' collections 18.9 percent above revenues for the same period of the previous year.

Taxable purchases of food and beverages have produced $78,130,389 in revenue, an increase of 23.7 percent over the amount received from that category during the same seven months of Fiscal Year 1978.

When you've spent a lifetime building a farm, you don't want estate taxes breaking it up.

Estate settlement can be very expensive and land value estimates can far exceed what you may expect. Your wife or children might be forced to sell to pay estate taxes. Why risk all your years of toil and planning for your family?

It's happened to many other families, but it doesn't have to happen to yours. We have a plan to protect your farm and your family should the unexpected happen to you. We can provide you with the amount of insurance needed to leave your farm intact and supply immediate operating capital for your family.

Covenant Players Slated To Perform In Area Churches

The Covenant Players, International Repertory Theatre from Los Angeles, CA, will be making three appearances in the Oakland area during the months of March and April.

The first appearance will be at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Second Street, on Tuesday, March 27, at 7:30 p.m. The players will also be appearing at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland during the morning worship service on Sunday, April 1, as well as the Family Lenten School at St. Paul's United Methodist Church that evening.

There is no admission charge for any of the performances, but a free will offering will be collected.

Since the company was formed in 1963 it has served the church and other organizations with a unique type of drama designed to stimulate thought while it entertains. Begun as a local drama group, the Covenant Players have now performed in twenty-seven countries around the world. The group that will appear here is one of more than fifty full time companies.

Using minimal props and no scenery, the audience's imagination and a vast repertoire of one-act plays and vignettes, the Players "transport the viewer to a wide variety of settings, from ordinary street corners to futuristic science fiction space ships." They utilize both comedy and drama.

The public is invited to any and all of the performances.

Pre-Measuring Of Acreage Encouraged By ASC Committee

Farmers who use the ASCS pre-measurement service prior to planting their spring crops will be guaranteed that the field sizes are known, Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said.

Pre-measuring is encouraged because it assures the farmer that is complying with wheat and feed grain set-aside programs of his acreage. The service is offered at cost by the ASCS County Office and includes measuring, referencing, and marking out fields with stakes prior to planting. Crowl said: "We strongly encourage pre-measurement because of what happened last year, when some producers lost program benefits due to failure to fully comply with set-aside provisions."

Pre-measurement is especially useful prior to planting marketing quota crops such as flue-cured tobacco and peanuts. Even in counties using aerial observation, flue-cured tobacco producers will not have the opportunity to adjust their crop acreage to gain program compliance. Peanut producers are under the same guidelines, unless they report excess peanuts.

After planting, all program participants need to certify or report their crop, set-aside, and other program acres to their County ASCS Office. Pre-measurement helps assure accurate reporting, stated Crowl.

Farmers may request this service at their local ASCS office.

New Course For Adults Will Be Offered At GCC

A new course designed especially for adults will be offered at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College on Wednesday mornings, from 10-12, beginning April 4. Titled "Living English" the course will combine a consideration of short literary selections with some creative writing experiences that relate to life situations.

Students will discuss short stories, poems, and plays that present human emotions and dilemmas experienced in life. Chosen especially for their adult appeal, many of these selections will be presented through audio-visual media. Writing activities will include short descriptions of people and places, narratives of experiences, and expressions of thoughts and feelings through poetry or prose.

According to Joan Crawford, who will teach the course, its purpose is "to make literature and writing relevant to the adult student's life."

This course is the first in a series of humanities courses designed for the adult student. It is being offered as two-credit course.

In accordance with Garrett Community College policy, tuition will be waived for students aged 60 and over, provided that there are ten tuition-paying students in the class.

Students may register for the class by calling the Registrar's Office at 366-6066 or the Oakland Center at 334-6296. Students may also register at the first meeting of the class, April 4.

State Tax Offices To Be Open Monday

On the same day that most State offices will be closed in observance of Maryland Day, the 315th anniversary of the founding of this State.

"This year, for the first time, working parents can deduct actual child or dependent care costs to a maximum of $2,000 for one child or $4,000 for two or more children," Mr. Goldstein added. "About 30,000 Marylanders will benefit from this change alone."

The change will result in a maximum tax savings of $150 for one dependent and $300 for two or more.

Other changes may ease the tax burden on retirees, students and taxpayers who weren't allowed to itemize on their Federal returns. Affected taxpayers throughout the State are expected to save $25 million in their tax obligation, as a result.

"Our tax experts in all of the permanent offices will be glad to answer questions, give you all the forms you may need, and they'll even complete your State return for you, free of charge," Mr. Goldstein added. "All you have to do is bring along a completed copy of your Federal return and all the necessary W-2 statements."

The addresses and phone numbers of the State tax offices are listed in the telephone directory and on the back of the tax packets. Taxpayers can either visit or call in for assistance.

CAC Outlines Energy Programs

It was recently reported on national television that the energy consumption in the United States has increased during the last quarter. According to Garrett County Community Action, Inc., the American people are not taking the energy crisis seriously. With that in mind, the Community Action is operating energy related programs for low-income families. The Weatherization Program provides for the installation of attic insulation, storm windows, caulking, weatherstripping, and other energy related repairs. The Emergency Energy Assistance Program provides assistance in paying energy related bills for eligible applicants.

The Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., G. Bradford Runard, Executive Director, receives its energy funds from the Maryland State Department of Human Resources, Frank Welsh, Executive Director, and receives its labor funds from the local CETA office, Earl Savage, Administrator.

Although only low-income families are eligible for financial assistance from these programs, the Community Action Energy Conservation Department, Russ Conway, Director, will provide information and/or advice to anyone who is interested in conserving energy.

The Community Action Committee is also seeking individuals who would be willing to serve on the Weatherization Project Advisory Committee. The purpose of this committee is to examine and establish policies for these programs.

Those families that have a need or questions concerning these programs are asked to contact Russ Conway at the Community Action office on Liberty Street in Oakland, or call 334-9431.

Standards For Police Services To Be Discussed

The Governor's Commission on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice will hold a public hearing in Hagerstown on the topic of standards for police services. The hearing will be held this Friday, March 23, at 1:00 p.m. at the Hagerstown City Hall Council Chambers, Hagerstown. Criminal justice, law enforcement and elected officials from Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett and

Mathias Bill To Give Tax Credit To Handicapped

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) recently introduced legislation allowing parents of severely handicapped children to reduce their income taxes for substantial child care expenses, and to set up child care trust funds.

Presently the maximum tax credit for a handicapped child is $1,600. There are no provisions in the tax laws for child care trust funds.

Mathias's bill, The Child Care and Family Care Trust Act of 1979, amends the U. S. tax code by:

1. Increasing credits for substantial child care expenses.
2. Removing the prevailing employment condition to enable parents to qualify for the tax credit.
3. Allowing the deduction without regard to the child's age.
4. Establishing qualified child care trusts.

Helping parents of severely handicapped children deal with high child care expenses is not a complete answer to the problem," Senator Mathias said.

"Parents face an additional financial burden when they learn that their children are so handicapped that it is unlikely they will ever become self-supporting and independent. Moreover, families become particularly concerned about how their children will be cared for after their own working days are over, or after their death."

The Mathias bill amends the tax code to enable parents, grandparents, brothers and sisters of severely handicapped children to establish family care trusts. Funds deposited in the trusts would be treated as a deduction from adjusted gross income the same way that Individual Retirement Accounts are treated for tax purposes.

Mathias said the problem of providing long term care to a family member is not confined to children. "Each year many adults are diagnosed as having progressively disabling diseases, such as multiple sclerosis," he noted. This bill also permits families to use the trust to provide long-term care for an adult family member who faces incapacitation.

"The alternative is to rely exclusively on government to provide care for handicapped children and adults," Mathias said. "I believe most Americans will support a government policy which offers financial encouragement to families with severely handicapped children or progressively disabled adults, to enable them to provide essential care for as long as possible."

Senator Mathias's bill is supported by groups such as the National Association of Retarded Citizens, and the Epilepsy Foundation of America.

MDA Says Home Gardner's Don't Always Get What They Pay For

"Strawberries as big as tomatoes, tomatoes as large as cantaloupes, shrubs that produce thousands of cherries from a hedge like plant and shade trees that grow as fast as Jack's famous beanstalk . . . all for the amazing price of a few dollars plus postage!"

Sound too good to be true? It is, but newspaper, magazine and catalog mail order ads distributed in Maryland claim that almost as sensational results are possible. William Gimpel, Supervisor of the Plant Protection Section of the Maryland Department of Agriculture, says, "From now on, if a supplier makes such a claim, he had better be able to back it up with documented proof or face the penalty of Maryland law for fraudulent, deceptive or misleading advertising."

According to Gimpel, "Many people can recognize exaggerated claims, but frequent use of 'doctored' pictures in the ads tend to make them almost believable. Drawings of people standing beside the plants are way out of proportion, actual photographs are retouched to show a far greater yield of fruit or flowers than on the original pictures and camera angles depict a distorted impression of actual growth or production qualities in many of these questionable advertisements."

Gimpel hastens to add, "There are many reputable mail order houses and nurseries dealing in garden and landscape supplies, and respectable local dealers can provide good quality plants especially adaptable to Maryland climate and soil conditions. Usually, these firms can give personal guidance on how to get best results or have quick refund policies if a customer is not completely satisfied."

MDA regulations stipulate that ads must carry the scientific or approved common name of any plant offered (not its trade name), but Gimpel cautions, "Many times the scientific name in the ad (such as Fragaria, the scientific word for strawberry) is not the name of the specific plant being described. This technically fulfills compliance with the law, but we don't consider it a reputable approach."

Advertised refund policies can be misleading too. "For instance," Gimpel explains, "if the ad says the plant may be returned even a year or two after planting, the customer still loses if the company has gone out of business. Some mail order houses change their names on occasion for various reasons."

"Besides, the disreputable dealer plays on the apathy of his victim. Even when disappointed by results of the product, the customer seldom requests a refund and practically never takes court action to recoup just a few dollars."

Now, MDA plans to intercede. Copies of Maryland's Nursery Stock Regulations are being mailed to firms seeking mail order business in Maryland, and customers are being asked to help too. Gimpel requests anyone victimized by these ads to telephone him at his Annapolis office (269-2957) or write to William Gimpel, MDA Plant Protection Section, Parole Plaza Office Building, Annapolis, Maryland, 21401. When writing, he says to please state details of the case and, if possible, enclose a copy of the advertisement in question.

Gimpel says, "After a thorough investigation, any company found consistently violating Maryland's Nursery Stock Regulations can have its license or inspection certificate taken away. Where warranted, results of the MDA findings will be forwarded to other enforcement agencies for possible additional legal action."

Medicare Medical Insurance Premium To Increase July 1

The basic Medicare medical insurance premium will increase from the present $8.20 a month to $8.70 a month for the 12-month period beginning July 1, 1979, according to Frank Tomko, Asst. District Manager of the Social Security Administration in Cumberland.

The medical insurance program complements the hospital insurance part of Medicare by helping to pay physicians' bills and a variety of other medical expenses in and out of the hospital.

Over 25 million people have Medicare medical insurance.

The Medicare law requires an annual review of the cost of the medical insurance program. Based on this review, an estimate is made of the cost of this coverage for the following year. As the cost of the program increases, so does the premium amount.

However, the law limits increases in the beneficiary premium to the percentage that social security benefits increased in the previous year. Since social security benefits increased 6.5 percent in 1978, the Medicare medical insurance basic premium increase for 1979 was limited to 6.5 percent or 50 cents. More than two-thirds of the cost of the Medicare medical insurance premium is now paid from general revenues of the Federal Government.

Some people pay more than the basic premium amount for their medical insurance protection. This is because there was a period during which they could have had medical insurance but did not. Generally, for each year a person could have signed up for medical insurance, but did not do so, the monthly premium increased by 10 percent. These people will be notified by mail about the increase in their medical insurance premium amounts.

People 65 and over who have worked long enough under social security, disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for at least 24 consecutive months, and many people under 65 with permanent kidney failure have Medicare hospital insurance without paying a monthly premium.

Some people 65 and over pay a monthly premium for hospital insurance under Medicare because they didn't work long enough under social security. The basic premium amount for these people increased from $63 a month to $69 a month starting July 1, 1979. People who buy hospital insurance must also sign up for medical insurance.

People who didn't sign up for Medicare medical insurance when they were first eligible or who have cancelled the protection can now enroll through April 2 at the Cumberland Social Security Office.

Persons wishing to file an application for social security retirement, survivors or disability benefits, Medicare, Supplemental Security Income or Black Lung benefits, or persons wishing free information or free pamphlets about the above programs, should telephone the social security office at 724-0070.

For those wishing to write or visit, the Cumberland office is at 316 Paca Street and is open Monday through Friday, except National Holidays, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Highway deaths topped 50,000 in 1978 for the first time in five years since the 55 mph speed limit was enacted.

Planned Parenthood Of Maryland Ranks Third In Nation

Planned Parenthood of Maryland now ranks third nationally among 189 affiliates in the total number of patients it serves annually, according to a recently completed patient statistics report published in New York by Planned Parenthood Federation of America. The announcement was made in Baltimore by Daniel E. Pellegrini, executive director of Planned Parenthood of Maryland, who added that the local affiliate has risen to third place from 24th place within four years.

Mr. Pellegrini also notes that Planned Parenthood of Maryland's annual budget of $2.3 million is ranked 12th nationally, reflecting the cost effectiveness of the Maryland health agency.

The Federation's statistics are based on the number of patients receiving a wide variety of reproductive health care services. The first ten Planned Parenthood rankings by patient load, listed by their major cities, are Denver, New York, Baltimore, St. Paul, Milwaukee, New Haven, Phoenix, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Cincinnati.

Beekkeepers Are Asked To Register Hives With MDA

The Maryland Department of Agriculture has asked that beekeepers register their bee colonies with MDA.

The requirement to register bee colonies goes back many years according to the MDA, but due to the increased interest in beekeeping as a hobby which is the way most of Maryland's beekeepers do it, there is always the chance that some colonies might not be registered and thereby miss the inspection service offered as part of registration and required by State law and regulations.

I. Barton Smith, MDA Apiary Inspector, says there is an additional benefit to registration in that it provides a record of where bee colonies are so that when questions of pesticide use come up, bee colonies may be protected.

The number of beekeepers in Maryland and the number of colonies of bees has risen dramatically in recent years according to MDA. In 1974 there were 382 registered beekeepers and 8,156 colonies registered. In 1978, there were 1,459 registered beekeepers, and the number of honeybee colonies had risen to 10,638.

In addition to the invaluable pollination service provided by honeybees, man receives a direct dividend in that he harvests the excess honey and beeswax produced by bees, according to MDA.

In 1978 Maryland's bees produced nearly 500,000 pounds of honey and 12,000 pounds of beeswax with a cash value of almost $465,000.00.

Persons who have not yet registered their honeybee colonies with MDA should contact: Maryland Department of Agriculture, Apiary Inspection, Parole Plaza Office Building, Annapolis, Maryland 21401, or call (201) 269-2960. There is no charge for this registration service.

"Be fair, honest, friendly and you'll be admired and liked."

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service has an excellent bulletin available from the Extension Office, so if you are interested, please stop by the office in the Courthouse Annex or call 334-2145. To give you an idea of what is contained in this bulletin, I will include some of the information in this article.

When thinking about talking with young children, it's important that you realize that good communication helps children to develop confidence, feelings of self-worth, and good relationships with others. It makes life with them more pleasant and it helps them grow into caring adults. Here are some communication suggestions:

—Communicate acceptance to your child. When a child knows that he is accepted as he is, it is easier for him to grow, to change, and to feel good about himself. Also, when a child feels good about himself, he is likely to better get along with others.

—Use "door openers" which are invitations to say more and to share ideas and feelings. These tell the child you are listening and are interested and that his ideas are important.

—Get rid of distractions and listen attentively to your child. If you are busy at the time, tell your child that you will talk with him later and be sure to follow through with it.

—Use more do's than don'ts when talking to your child by telling the child what to do rather than what not to do. Ex: Instead of — Don't draw on the table, Say — You can color on this page.

—Talk with, not at, your child. Hold a two way conversation and listen to what your child has to say.

—Make simple requests since young children have a hard time remembering several orders at a time.

—Get the child's attention before speaking to him because children can only concentrate on one thing at a time.

—Communicate at eye-level. Eye contact improves communication and if you are at eye-level, the child doesn't look at you as a giant.

—Say "Please," "Thank you" and "You're Welcome" to children because they deserve the same common courtesies which adults use with each other. Also, children learn by imitating adults.

—Try not to interrupt and scold children when they are telling you their stories.

—Don't use unkind words which tear the child down for this will discourage the child and give him a poor self image.

—Use kind words to encourage and build up the child. Kind words give the child more self-confidence and help him to behave better, to try harder, and to achieve more.

—Add your personal experiences and understanding to these suggestions and perhaps it will help you in communicating with your young children.

FOOD NOTES

Potatoes have an image problem! Many feel guilty about eating this nutritious vegetable because they feel it is too fattening. The fact is that what you put on the potatoes makes the calorie count zoom and not the potato itself. Try these less fattening toppings: yogurt or cottage cheese with chives, scallions or watercress.

Here are some facts: a medium-sized baked or boiled potato has 100 calories — about the same as a large apple or orange. Potatoes are high in Vitamin C and B vitamins, and they provide some iron. The full nutritional value is gotten when the potatoes are steamed or baked. Also, eat the skin — that's where most of the nutrients are. Here's a very interesting potato recipe that you might enjoy trying:

SEAFOOD STUFFED POTATO
6 baked potatoes
1/2 c. chopped, cooked mushrooms
1 beaten egg
1 tsp. salt
1 c. chopped shrimp

2 tbsp. parsley (chopped)
1/2 tsp. Mayonnaise
1/4 c. grated cheese
Remove meat from potatoes, mash and combine with all ingredients except cheese. Return to shell, and bake at 375° for 10-12 minutes. Remove from oven and top with grated cheese. Return and bake until cheese melts and begins to bubble, about 3 minutes.

Student Financial Aid Book Available

"Financial Aid for Higher Education in Maryland," designed for student use, covers programs on financial aid, grants, scholarships and loans that will interest students who plan to attend college, vocational or trade schools.

It explains which financial aid programs are available in specific fields of education and which schools are eligible for these programs.

The booklet also directs the student to the proper sources for more detailed information on financial aid programs which they may be interested in.

Copies are available from guidance counselors and financial aid officers, or by writing to MHELC, Dept. N81 2100 Guilford Avenue, Baltimore, Md. 21218.

Goldstein Comments On Withholding Tax Table Change

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says any attempt to increase the standard deduction for State income tax purposes without changing the rates at which the tax is withheld from paychecks would deny immediate tax relief to more than 1.5 million wage earners. Mr. Goldstein says he is compelled by law to provide employers with State tax withholding tables which reflect the taxpayer's obligation as accurately as possible.

Currently, the State tax withholding tables are based on a combination of the personal exemption allowance and the standard deduction. An increase in the standard deduction would mean $75 in additional take home pay during the year for a single individual, $150 for a married couple.

"To require the withholding tables remain unchanged would have the effect of not granting the benefit of the increased standard deduction to the taxpayer in his or her paycheck. This is overtaxation, because it denies the taxpayer the relief to which he or she should be entitled," Mr. Goldstein wrote the leadership of the General Assembly.

TOUR PLANNED — Members of the Garrett Holstein Club will visit the farm of John and Sharon Rinehart on Friday, March 23. The feature attraction of the farm tour will be "Rinehart Apollo Dawlin," pictured above, that was All-American in 1974 and subsequently nominated again in 1975 and 1976. "Dawlin" is presently milking her fourth consecutive lactation over 1,100 pounds of milk a day with a top 365 day record of 29,133 pounds of milk. Thanks to a successful embryo transfer, "Dawlin" produced eight calves by recipient mothers in addition to her own by natural birth in 1978. All interested dairymen and youth are encouraged to join the car-caravan tour. Further information may be obtained from the Garrett Cooperative Extension Service, 334-2145, or by contacting tour director, Oren Bender.

Social Security Student Beneficiaries Must Complete Report

Social security student beneficiaries were warned this week that their monthly checks will stop if they don't complete and return a required school enrollment report.

Frank Tomko, social security assistant district manager in Cumberland, said reporting forms are being mailed to the more than 850,000 students, 18 to 22, whose monthly social security checks currently total $1.7 billion a year.

"This spring, for the first time, school officials are being asked to verify on the form that the student is enrolled on a full-time basis," Mr. Tomko said.

"If a student fails to return the form, or the form comes back without the necessary school certification, the student's monthly checks will be stopped."

Students 18 to 22 may qualify for social security payments if a parent is receiving retirement or disability benefits or has died, Mr. Tomko explained. Those students are required to report on their school enrollment status twice a year.

"We're tightening up on those reporting requirements because some students either are not returning the forms at all or they are stating they are in school when they are not," Mr. Tomko said. "Payments to students who are not eligible cost taxpayers millions of dollars a year."

Mr. Tomko said students will have 60 days to complete and return the reporting form.

If a student does not return the form, or fails to have the school verify enrollment as required, social security checks will be suspended and the student's eligibility for previous payments will be investigated.

"If a student received checks for months he or she was not a full-time student, then those benefits must be repaid," Mr. Tomko said.

Mr. Tomko encouraged any student who needs help in completing the form or has questions about it to contact the Cumberland office at 316 Paca Street. The telephone number is 724-0070.

Goldstein Says State Has No Immediate Gasoline Shortage

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein told a House of Delegates committee today that his office sees no immediate gasoline supply crisis in the Maryland marketplace. He said spot shortages which have occurred in Maryland have been more attributable to weather and transportation problems than actual supplies of gasoline.

Mr. Goldstein said shipments of gasoline along the Colonial Pipeline, the major source of gasoline for the State of Maryland, were up 13 percent in January 1979, over January 1978.

Mr. Goldstein also noted that current supplies of gasoline may be affected by the price companies are presently allowed to charge. "It is my understanding that the U. S.

Department of Energy has published regulations which will allow for increased prices, but not until April 1, 1979. Therefore, it is possible that some suppliers may be unwilling to sell gasoline or increase allocations to dealers until the price is raised on April 1st," Mr. Goldstein told the committee.

The Comptroller further noted that the allocation fractions are now based on the same month of the previous year. "This results in numerous problems. For instance, there are situations where a dealer's volume in March of 1978 was abnormally low, or the dealer may have added an exceptional amount of business in the last year," he said.

Mr. Goldstein noted that the gasoline supply situation is in a delicate balance, and can be affected by increased consumption or increased conservation.

Byron Seeking Tax Break For Persons Using Woodburners

Citing the need to reduce dependence on non-renewable fuels, Rep. Beverly Byron has joined with New Hampshire Democrat Norm D'Amours (pronounced DA-MOORES) in introducing a bill which would give a tax break to consumers who have purchased or installed woodburning stoves in their homes.

Legislation was passed by Congress last year providing individuals with up to a $300 tax credit on their 1979 tax returns if they installed energy saving devices such as insulation, storm windows, setback thermostats and certain furnace parts in their principal place of residence between April 20, 1977 and December 31, 1978.

According to Mrs. Byron, constituents — including the Allegany County commissioners — have urged her to seek remedial legislation qualifying woodburning stoves for such credits.

"The Treasury Department was given the authority under the 1978 law to make woodburning stoves eligible for an energy tax credit but did not do so," she noted.

"The measure I have introduced will help to achieve equity in the energy conservation program by putting further pressure on the Treasury to include these devices as part of the energy tax credit regulations."

"This tax break will also provide a very useful alternative to low and middle income energy-conscious families who cannot afford the expense of purchasing alternative energy sources such as solar units," Byron concluded.

Enough is enough! For years I've endured the cutesy cartoons that proclaim "LOVE IS..." Commercialism has capitalized on our favorite theme, and now there are "LOVE IS..." bumper stickers, stationery, desk sets, and greeting cards.

Unfortunately the manufacturers of these products have not done their homework. In order to define "Love" properly, I came up with the following examples:

LOVE is never having to say you're sorry — because your mouth is full of meatloaf that was burnt to a crisp.

LOVE is hiding the checkbook and credit cards during "Sidewalk Sale Days."

LOVE is having to readjust the front car seat and rearview mirror every time you get into the car, because your spouse is six inches shorter.

LOVE is buying an electric blanket with only one control and trusting your partner to not par-boil you during the night.

LOVE is giving up a sports documentary so she can watch "Little House on the Prairie."

LOVE is maintaining a smile on April 15 while you contemplate the tax saving you'd have had if you have remained single.

LOVE is getting up on Saturday morning to do the charity work she volunteered you for at the last meeting of the Garden Club.

LOVE is running out to the drugstore for razor blades with shaving cream on your face, because she used your razor on her legs.

LOVE is finding her overtime parking tickets in the glove compartment and paying them.

LOVE is pretending you're not aware of birthdays and anniversaries, just so you can surprise her.

LOVE is remembering all the anniversaries: "the first time we met; the first time you bought me a present; the first time you met my parents; the first time I dated the car."

LOVE is wearing pink underwear because she washed them with her red robe — and praying you won't be hit by a car and have to be taken to the emergency room.

LOVE is missing a few shots while you're teaching her to play tennis.

LOVE is deducting strokes from her miniature golf score, and then listening to her tell everyone about how she beat you.

LOVE is buying another pink plastic flamingo for the front yard to replace the one you backed over with the car — especially when you hate pink plastic flamingos.

LOVE is telling her how you've always wanted a moonhead, just like the one she bought that morning at a garage sale.

LOVE is listening to her explanation of how your 5-iron got bent — and patiently explaining that perhaps it wasn't the best tool to use in pounding tomato stakes into the garden.

LOVE is not telling her that the left shoulder seam of the dress she just made is higher than the seam on the right — and then suggesting that a shawl would complement the entire outfit beautifully.

LOVE is wearing the cologne she gave you even though you think its fragrance is "eau de chicken coop."

LOVE is attending her high school reunion and meeting her high school sweetheart — the Robert Redford lookalike with the Lincoln Continental and two coal companies.

LOVE is telling her that curlers, Noxema, flannel night gowns, and knee socks do something to you.

LOVE is drying her tears after King Kong dies during the climax of the late-late show.

LOVE is bringing her breakfast in bed, and telling her she won't have to get up and wash the car until eleven.

LOVE is wonderful.

MDA Reminds Milk Haulers To Obtain Permit

A West Virginia milk hauler who picks up milk in Maryland pleaded guilty in Garrett County District Court to charges of not having the proper permit and Maryland Department of Agriculture Weigher and Sampler's license to practice his trade.

Fines and courts costs totaling $65 were imposed against Bernard Arnold of Aurora, West Virginia, after he made the guilty pleas Monday, March 12. He has now secured the proper permit and become licensed by MDA.

Under Maryland Law, all milk haulers and samplers are required to be licensed by taking a test to demonstrate their competency to take milk samples and properly handle the sample during transit from the farm to the dairy plant where the milk is sold. Each truck used to haul milk in bulk from farm to dairy must also have an MDA permit.

The regulations, according to MDA's Chief of Weights and Measures, Richard Thompson, "are designed to protect both the seller, in this case a dairy plant. Farmers and buyers rely on the accuracy of the samples of the product taken at the farm when the milk is picked up."

Fee for the yearly truck permit is $10.00-$15.00, depending on size, and the Weigher and Sampler's license fee is $2.00 annually.

EQUINOX

This morning, the sun crossed the equator of earth at 22 minutes after midnight. This moment was the first time the sun was visible at the north pole since the equinox last September. This was also the only time that the sun could be seen from both poles at the same time. It was the last time the sun will be visible from the south pole until the September equinox. When all these things are possible as the sun moves northward in the sky, spring begins.

MOON

Last Quarter phase of the moon occurred today at 6:22 a.m. The position of the moon was 96 degrees west of the sun as viewed from the earth. New Moon phase will occur next Tuesday at 9:59 p.m. Last month at New Moon, earth, sun, and moon were in line so that the moon's shadow fell on the earth causing a solar eclipse. The moon's shadow will miss the earth this month. Moonrise was at 1:18 this morning. By Tuesday, the moon's rising will be delayed about 4 1/2 hours to 5:57 a.m.

Monday, the moon will be closest to earth as it will be this month. This perigee will be 361,990 kilometers (224,980 miles) away.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn are visible this week to the unaided eye. Venus rises about 1 1/2 hours prior to sunrise. Jupiter is visible during the first half of the night with the stars of Cancer. Saturn, among the stars of Leo, is visible until shortly before dawn.

DAYLIGHT INCREASES

Today is the 80th day of 1979. The sun will be at the same altitude above the horizon at noon that it will be on September 23rd. Sunrise was at 6:29 this morning. Sunset will be 12 hours 9 minutes later at 6:29 a.m. Tuesday the sun will rise at 6:11 a.m. and set at 6:36 p.m. There will be 16 more minutes of daylight than today.

Almanac

Today is Wednesday, March 21, the 80th day of 1979 with 283 to follow.

This is the first day of spring.

The moon is moving from its last quarter to its new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Mercury, Saturn and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

German composer Johann Sebastian Bach was born March 21, 1685.

On this day in history:

In 1790, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia became the first U. S. secretary of state. He later was the third president of the United States.

In 1918, American and German soldiers fought the key World War I Battle of the Somme.

In 1945, 7,000 Allied Planes dropped more than 12,000 tons of explosives on Germany during a World War II daytime bombing raid.

In 1962, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev pledged that Russia would cooperate with the United States in peaceful exploration of space. (A joint American-Soviet space mission was conducted in July of 1975).

A thought for the day: British novelist William Thackeray said, "Tis strange what a man can do, and women yet think him an angel."

Grants Program For Energy-Saving Ideas Announced

The U. S. Department of Energy has announced a small grants program soliciting ideas from citizens about energy conservation and the use of alternative energy resources. Bernard Snyder, Region III Acting DOE Representative, stated, "We urge citizens in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Virginia, and the District of Columbia to apply for grants up to $50,000 for their ideas about saving energy. Persons interested in this program should call 1-800-424-5141 toll-free."

The Small Grants Appropriate Technology Program will award approximately $1 million to individuals, local non-profit organizations and institutions, state and local agencies, Indian tribes, and businesses. "The Program is aimed at everyone," said Mr. Snyder, "including the professional, the amateur, the 'do-it-yourselfer,'" the technical expert, anyone who believes he or she has an idea about energy technology which is not being used. Applications have been simplified and a vigorous effort is being pursued to encourage broad public participation in the Program. DOE is committed to ensuring that a representative selection of grants will be made."

There are three categories of proposals eligible under the Program. They are Concept Development — an idea for using a new energy source or a new way to utilize an existing energy process or system up to $10,000; Project Development — systematic and practical development of a concept into a viable technology (up to $50,000); and Demonstration Development — testing technology under operating conditions for feasibility on technical, economic, and environmental grounds (up to $50,000).

The deadline for receiving grant applications is April 27, 1979. For more information or to request an application form, persons should call toll-free 1-800-424-5141 or in Washington, D. C. 783-4023.

Dairymen Question FDA Proposal

"The Food and Drug Administration (FDA), a government agency, has proposed a new food regulation which will promote widespread consumer deception." This is the opinion of Gordon Riehl, general manager of Milk Marketing, Inc., a dairy farmers' cooperative based in Strongsville, Ohio.

The FDA proposal would allow chemically fabricated foods which look like dairy products to carry the name of the real dairy item on the label. The "fake" food might be labeled "imitation cheese" or "cheese substitute," depending on whether or not the look-alike product meets the FDA's arbitrary "nutritional equivalency" standards.

In either case, according to Riehl, manufacturers of such "fake products" can further add to consumer deception by replacing normal ingredients with cheaper, non-standardized ingredients under the provision the FDA calls "safe and suitable."

"Dairy farmers do not object to the development of new products," says Riehl. "But, they feel these products should have their own names rather than the natural names of dairy products."

"Consider margarine. It carried a different name and reached its present sales under that name — not a substitute or imitation butter. Crisco made it on its own, not masquerading as lard. Coffee whitener describes a product accurately, without using a dairy name."

"If the FDA's proposal for imitation or substitute foods becomes final, manufacturers of fabricated foods will be able to legally tread on the name and reputation of dairy products produced by dairy farmers," he said.

Manager Riehl says that, "The FDA should withdraw this proposal because it is an ill-conceived attempt to 'legitimize' imitations and substitutes of traditional dairy foods to fool the consumers."

Riehl is using the public to contact the FDA and Congress. Comments may be addressed to: Food and Drug and Administration, Room 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857.

SWANTON

Traffic Safety Program Receives $80,000 Grant

Maryland will be one of the first to implement a new education program, "Discovering Traffic Safety," designed to make children in kindergarten through the ninth grade aware of potentially dangerous traffic situations.

Under an $80,000 federal grant administered by the Maryland Department of Transportation, the Department of Education will introduce the program into the teaching curriculum.

Traffic accidents are the leading cause of death for children in Maryland and throughout the country. "Discovering Traffic Safety" is based on a unique series of films, developed by the Automotive Safety Foundation of the Highway Users Federation. The series shows a child's perspective of traffic situations. Children are shown in traffic while pedaling a bicycle, walking and riding in a car. As children progress from kindergarten through the primary grades, they will see new films which reinforce earlier material and introduce more complex situations.

Donald LaFond, Safety Curriculum Specialist for the Department of Education said, "These films were designed to supplement the existing state and local traffic safety curriculum. We're developing a filmstrip to orient teachers to the concepts and use of the program." LaFond will help conduct a workshop to train regional education supervisors. The supervisors will then train the teachers in their districts.

Safety education must be continuous so that each phase relates to the child's growing experiences. The safety films will help the child identify dangerous situations, decide what to do and predict the outcome of his actions. "There is no adult narration," said LaFond, "the teacher guides the discussion, helping the child to draw upon his own experiences and discover the key concepts."

This program is part of a long range plan of the Automotive Safety Foundation to make survival-based traffic safety information routine in the nation's schools.

Elderly Warned Of Duplication Of Coverage

Persons eligible for Medicare health insurance benefits who seek to supplement their coverage by purchasing additional private insurance should be sure that they are not buying coverage already provided by Medicare, warns Frank Tomko, Asst. District Manager of the Cumberland social security office.

Mr. Tomko says the Philadelphia regional officials of HEW's Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), the federal agency that administers the Medicare and Medicaid programs, are concerned that many elderly Medicare beneficiaries are being sold duplicative or over-priced supplementary insurance policies.

According to Everett Bryant, HCFA's Regional Administrator, some Medicare beneficiaries are being taken advantage of by "a few unscrupulous insurance agents," often posing as representatives of Medicare or the Social Security Administration. Bryant has recently contacted state insurance commissioners asking their cooperation in identifying and controlling such sales practices.

The problem is a costly one, said Bryant, citing a recent report by the U. S. House Select Committee on Aging which estimated that senior citizens are "being taken" for $1 billion a year by a few insurance companies and their agents. The Committee report also noted that some companies which specialize in selling this type of insurance return an average of 50 cents on the premium dollar while others return as much as 90 cents for similar coverage.

Mr. Tomko urged senior citizens considering buying a supplemental plan to be sure that they are not duplicating existing Medicare coverage and to seek out policies that pay a high return in benefits.

He further warned that any insurance salesman representing himself as connected with Medicare or Social Security should be viewed with suspicion since no federal employee is authorized to engage in this activity. Mr. Tomko urges that the public report any such misrepresentation to the local Social Security office and to the state insurance commissioner.

The Cumberland Social Security office is located at 316 Paca Street and the telephone number is 724-0970.

Almost all social security business, from applying for benefits to reporting a lost or stolen check, can be handled by telephone, Mr. Tomko said.

A Real Mess . . .

Over the past few weeks our office has received calls, and a few letters, from individuals who have been rather rate about the condition of several of the garbage dumpster sites in the county. In a word, these sites were said to be an absolute mess.

So, we sent a photographer to several of these locations and he brought back evidence justifying the complaints (see photos at the end of this editorial, page 8).

Most people seem ready to slap all of the blame for this situation directly upon those persons responsible for regularly picking up this garbage, namely employees of the county Solid Waste Management Bureau. These individuals are accused of slacking on the job. "Why aren't these people doing what they are paid for? They don't seem to care. It's just another one of the many government inefficiencies at work."

We took the liberty to find out why these dumpster sites were in such a state. We found out that, of three Solid Waste Management trucks, two have been broken down recently. The County Roads Department has begun to assist in the cleanup and the Solid Waste vehicles are expected to be back to full working capacity by the end of this week.

It seems to us that much of the criticism for this situation should be directed at those persons who abuse the privilege of having these dumpsters at their disposal. They are provided as a convenience and too many people are taking advantage of this convenience. The containers are meant to take garbage only, but as one can see from the photos, many inconsiderate people think nothing of cleaning out their entire attic and dumping beds, couches, large appliances, easy chairs, and, yes, even the kitchen sink. It's no wonder these sites

Jury Returns Two Indictments

Indictments against two local women were returned by the March term of the Grand Jury March 14 as the jury concluded two days of deliberations.

Indictments were returned against Elene R. Tharp for welfare fraud, false pretense and false application. Martha Knox was charged with first degree murder in connection with the shooting death of her husband, Leslie Lee Knox, March 9 near Oakland.

Mrs. Knox remains in Allegany County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

When the jury convened for the first day, March 12, the group consisted of James F. Margoff, foreman, Karen L. Schell and Karen Sue Frazee as clerks, and Ben Shaffer as docketkeeper.

Later in the day, the jury board testimony from various county department officials and the county commissioners. Commissioner chairman Truman E. Fough, vice chairman H. Lester Hunter, member Ernest Gregg, Jr., and county administrator Marshall Rickett appeared and told the jury of the problems they anticipate during the coming year. They mentioned the new addition to the hospital, county wide zoning, and state and county funding for public schools.

The jury heard from Chief Deputy Frank Finch, who informed them of the various services provided by the sheriff's department, new equipment the department received and the merit system adopted this year.

Kenneth Bittinger from Northern High School and Luther Parrack from Southern High School discussed school situations and the maintenance problem at Southern High School, which was attributed to insufficient money budgeted for that purpose.

The report also stated that when asked about the drug problem, the two principals said that about four years ago there was a problem but as of now the problem seems to be almost non-existent. Discipline was also discussed but both principals feel it is no problem.

Arnell Parsons, county treasurer, explained her duties and showed a trial balance to illustrate how records are kept.

Kenneth Richmond, hospital administrator, discussed proposed new facilities at the hospital.

Courthouse coordinator Gary Mulick went over the building plans for the annex and remodeling. He also informed the body of a delay in completion of the jail area due to a problem in obtaining plans, and noted that a penalty will be paid by the contractor since work was not finished on schedule.

Herbert McCreole, administrator of the county department, discussed proposed new facilities at the hospital.

Courthouse coordinator Gary Mulick went over the building plans for the annex and remodeling. He also informed the body of a delay in completion of the jail area due to a problem in obtaining plans, and noted that a penalty will be paid by the contractor since work was not finished on schedule.

WRONG TURN — Chessie System crews have worked frantically since Friday to right a box car filled with corn that was derailed at the Bloomingville bridge over the Potomac River. Garrett Eligible For Federal Disaster Loans

Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties are among 14 Maryland counties that have been made eligible for federal disaster assistance because of last month's severe storms.

U. S. Senator Paul Sarbanes (D-Maryland) said last week both homeowners and businesses will be eligible for assistance through the Small Business Administration.

James DeCarlo, administrator of the Institute for Small Business at Frostburg State College, said that relief in the form of federal loans at seven and three-eighths percent will be available to those who suffered damage that is not covered by insurance. The loans can be written for up to 30 years.

DeCarlo explained that if physical damage to a home or business was incurred, the deadline for submitting the loan application is May 21. He added that if economic hardships occurred at a place of business due to the weather conditions, the last day to make application for a loan is December 31. He pointed out that such hardships could include forced closing of a business due to the severe weather conditions.

The announcement of federal aid comes after a second survey of the area involved. At Young's previous assistant Rep. Gladys Spellman (D-Maryland) said, "there were some problems in getting the aid."

Young said that after the first survey, officials of the Small Business Administration decided damages were not severe enough for the low interest loans.

Young said complaints from area residents prompted Mrs. Spellman to ask the SBA to take another look at the area. That second survey was conducted last week, and the SBA officials changed their opinion.

Claims can be filed with the SBA District Office, Room 601, Oxford Building, 800 LaSalle Road, Towson 21204. The office telephone number is 807-4292.

Local inquiries will also be handled at the Institute for Small Business at 684-417.

We have one bus in full service and will shortly have the second one operational. I am now studying the new federal program for rural transportation for additional funding and clearing up paperwork. Hopefully, the financial problems will be resolved shortly."

Deep Creek And Bittering Firemen Douse Two Fires

Fire caused extensive damage to a mobile home in the Lake Aire Trailer Park off Glendale Road last Wednesday afternoon, according to Robert Shiner, fire investigator for Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Mr. Shiner determined that the fire was caused by a short circuit in a hot tape near the water supply, and damage was estimated at $4,000.

The trailer was used as a summer residence for the Albert Link family, Upper Sinclair Pa.

Firemen from Deep Creek and Bittering volunteer fire companies responded to the alarm, along with two units from the Department of Natural Resources. No injuries were reported in the blaze, which was reported about 2:30 p.m.

The same two fire companies had answered a call earlier in the day to a fire at the Cecil Rinker residence near the intersection of Route 409 and Glendale Road. No damage was caused by the overhauled fire, according to a spokesman for the Bittering fire fighters. That alarm was called at just before 8 a.m. by a neighbor, Mrs. Richard Edwards.

Fire Destroys Home Near Kitzmiller

A family living near Kitzmiller lost all their possessions in a fire which destroyed their residence Saturday evening. Three fire companies and a rescue unit responded in the scene but found the masonry wood frame home engulfed in flames.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Tyler and their child were not at home at the time the blaze broke out. The house was owned by his uncle, Lester Bontner, who resides in Rockville. The Tylers are presently staying with relatives in Blaine, W.V.

Responding to the call were Kitzmiller, Deer Park and Elk Garden fire companies and the Southern Potomac Squad. Oakland firemen stood by for Deer Park. The call was turned in to the Central Alarm at 7:11 p.m. and firemen did not return to their stations until approximately 9:40 p.m.

A total of 47 men and eight pieces of equipment were on the scene, but rescue efforts were hampered by a lack of water supply close to the house.

Previous funding from FHA, received in 1971 and 1974, allowed construction of the accident water and sewerage system. A total of $20,000 in grants had been received from FHA prior to this latest project.

American RV-Test Systems, so far for the industrial park's only tenant, is presently on a septic tank with a temporary permit. The new extension will allow them to bypass the septic tank and connect directly to the accident system.

Potential businesses for Garrett County can now choose from the 31 remaining areas which have both water and sewer facilities in the Central Garrett Park.

After discussing budget needs with the departments, a preliminary budget will be drafted and reviewed, in time for a public hearing on the projected figures at the end of May. The draft budget is expected to be ready for review by the commissioners by mid-April.

The commissioners approved the sheriff's office and awarded a low bid of $6,302.00 per vehicle to Shaffer Ford Sales, Oakland.

Other car dealers submitting bids were Oakview Motors and Sharps Chevrolet of Oakland, and Cavalier Motors of Graceland.

A study, according to the members, was made of day-to-day operations of the sanitary unit during the past eight months before reorganization recommendations were made.

Present at the meeting were Charles Morris, commission chairman, Don Carstone, and Joanne Devine, members.

Head Board from the Community Action Committee, discussed upcoming legislation affecting the agency.

Herbert McCreole, administrative engineer for the county roads department, met in a regular board session with the commissioners to discuss current matters.

He noted that much concern had been voiced in recent days about the overflow at county trash dumpsters. He reported from John Farmer, sanitary engineer, that two of the county's packer trucks were broken down, and that only the backup packer vehicle and a ballast truck were operational at present. County roads workers have been assisting in a cleanup since last Thursday, and repairs are being made on the trucks by county mechanics. Mr. McCreole said the departments feel that the situation should be alleviated by late this week or early next week.

The commissioners then met with a group of citizens from Frost who comprise the County Park Committee. Members Edgar Lutz, Gary Pike, and Mrs. Rose Opel informed the board of progress made toward development of a small community recreation facility, and advised the commissioners that they are currently completing the agreements for purchase of the necessary land, using Open Space funds.

They plan to initiate a fundraising drive to pay for construction of a ballfield, playground and picnic facilities.

The Board has held one full day of hearings and plans two more days of preliminary budget hearings with county agencies and departments this week. Preliminary budget figures were submitted by agency heads the first of March.

Commissioners Approve Proposal To Reorganize Sanitary Commission

The Garrett County Commissioners met Tuesday with representatives of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, county roads department, Community Action Committee and a citizens group from Frost.

The Commissioners unanimously approved the reorganization of the County Sanitary Commission after hearing the group's proposal. The commission pointed out that the reorganization plan would centralize lines of authority and promote greater efficiency in the pooling of skills of the commission.

A study, according to the members, was made of day-to-day operations of the sanitary unit during the past eight months before reorganization recommendations were made.

Present at the meeting were Charles Morris, commission chairman, Don Carstone, and Joanne Devine, members.

Engineer for the Garrett County Roads Department discussed road maintenance procedures and condition of county roads. The jury noted that county roads workers should be praised for their work, especially for snow removal during the recent winter.

On March 13, dog warden Roy Arnold discussed tagging of dogs, and the Grand Jury recommended this practice be enforced due to destruction of domestic animals and wildlife.

After touring county facilities the jury had various recommendations and commendations to make.

The jury found that there are as yet no exhaust fans for the county roads department, as recommended last year by the Grand Jury. The group also felt another fan is needed in the paint room, and questioned the storage of oil and grease in the main garage.

The group made several recommendations following an inspection of the solid waste facility. They felt the shortage of compactors trucks should be resolved, the garage needs updated equipment, another man and dozer are needed at the landfill, and the heating system needs attention at the garage. Both the latter problems were also reported by the September term of the Grand Jury.

The jurors did find, however, that the drainage problem in the garage has been corrected and the garage floor repaired.

At the hospital, the jurors concluded that the facility seems to be run very well. They suggested that the hospital needs new equipment, more space for patients and office workers, improved ambulance area for the emergency room, better arrangements for a doctor on call, and arrangements made in the removal of trash from hospital.

There were no patients in the halls, but the jurors noted the private and semi-private rooms do need individual bathrooms and feel there should be better judgment in placing patients in their rooms.

The overall structure and layout of the hospital is very convenient to the staff as well as to the patients, they concluded.

On March 13, the jury toured the old and new sections of the Courthouse and jail. Marshall Rickert acted as a guide for the jurors.

The jury noted it was very impressed with the layout of the new facilities, and then appointed a committee to inspect the unfinished portion of the county office building. The committee was very concerned with the concrete on the northeast portion of this building and requested that this be looked into by the county commissioners, and noted that the general construction area should be cleaned up.

At the conclusion of its deliberations, the Grand Jury suggested that future tours of the county facilities should be made prior to any reports from county officials so the jury may be better informed. They also suggested that visits to county facilities should be pre-arranged so that someone in charge would be there to brief the jury.

Vacant Houses Are Targets For Larceny, Vandals

Vacant houses in the county were a target for wrongdoers over the past few weeks, according to reports from the Garrett County Sheriff's department.

Elta O'Brien, of Ohio, reported that her home on O'Brien Road was broken into and antique items removed sometime between mid-February and mid-March. A china cabinet and mirror valued at $1,200 had been removed.

A vacant farmhouse at Frick's Crossing near Deer Park was broken into recently, and $150 damage was done to the front door. The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Day, Bethesda, have not determined as yet whether any items are missing.

Two properties in Deer Park were damaged by BB shot or small rocks sometime between March 18 and 22. Twenty-two windows were broken in a house north of the old fire hall in Deer Park, and four windows were broken in the old fire hall. Both structures are the property of Raymond Dubinski, of Deer Park.

In other reports to the sheriff's office, Dorothy Stull, Mt. Lake Park, advised deputies that someone had removed an outdoor lantern from a post in her front yard between February 20 and March 4. Value of the lantern was $20.

A classroom window in Southern High School was broken during the night of March 18. Value of the window was estimated at $75.

Ralph Miller, Mason School Road, reported March 16 that his mailbox on Mason School Road had been vandalized. Estimate of loss was set at $20.

Night Of Magic To Be Presented This Saturday

Magician Ben Sincell will present "A Night Of Magic" Saturday, March 31 at 7:30 p.m. in the Southern Middle School cafeteria. The one and a half hour performance is a fund raising event for the Bethel United Methodist Vacation Bible School to be held June 18-22.

The show features Ben Sincell and his assistants in a variety of dramatic sketches, all written and designed by Sincell. The sketches, which will be intermingled with traditional table routines, will range from depicting a toy shop scene, in which a bum discovers that instant wealth gets him no where.

There will be an admission fee of $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children under 12.

The show is one of several events scheduled throughout the year to raise money to finance this year's vacation Bible School at Bethel United Methodist Church. According to Leanna Boal, one of the coordinators of the school, last year's cost reached $30.

Rather than charging the adults and children who would attend the five days of evening sessions, the Bible School coordinators planned various activities with admission fees. Some of the activities included a Wiener Roast, Halloween Party, Christmas Party, and a series of Recipe Exchange Nights.

Letters to Editor

Dear Editor,

I am a junior at Southern High School and I was informed that juniors are getting their senior pictures taken in April 1979. I do not like this idea one bit. Seniors get their pictures taken when they're seniors, not juniors!

I also do not like the idea of having to wear drapes or suits. Although we do not pay for the yearbook picture, we should be able to have our choice of the one we want put in the yearbook. I know that the yearbook staff would like all pictures the same (boys in suits and girls in drapes). Why didn't the juniors have a vote on this? We're the ones that should have a choice not the staff. Anyway, all people are not the same and I don't think their pictures should be made the same. Many other juniors agree with me.

As for the yearbook staff we don't care about how many points you received for your yearbook. We juniors should have our senior pictures put in the yearbook the way we want it, casual or formal!

A concerned junior,
Kim Green

Dear Kim:

While this page remains a forum for personal viewpoints and public issues, perhaps it would be better to direct grievances to the proper authorities, i.e. the yearbook committee, principal, "The Acorn," etc.

Sir:

The Sanitary Commission plans to chop Mountain Lake Park into five or six parts and charge different rates and assessments. Let's call it Operation Meat Axe.

Already we hear cries of outrage. We foresee more costly lawsuits lining lawyers' pockets, disruption of town growth and property values.

The Sanitary Commission has never understood or respected the rights and powers of incorporated towns. When citizens incorporate as a town, our State gives them strong powers to provide for safety and conveniences. They have the power to contract for water and sewerage services to insure good service, fair and equal rates. No Sanitary Commission can override that power. One town, one rate!

As described in other letters, our Sanitary Commission tried to override our town by contract breaking, arbitrary rate setting, evasion of court orders, refusal to serve parts of our town. When our Mayor and Town Council fought back, we were savaged with a costly lawsuit. Mountain Lake Park won a settlement saving us $27,000.

Now comes Operation Meat Axe, a scheme to make an end run around our Mayor and Town Council and subvert our contracts. It is up to our Mayor and Town Council and the County Commissioners to stop this Operation Meat Axe nonsense.

This cannot go on. The whole county is faced with serious sewerage and water problems and projects. We dare not leave them in the hands of five amateurs meeting once a month. Let the new County Commissioners show intelligent leadership by decisive action.

Stop Operation Meat Axe. Replace the nagging, obstructive lawyer. Replace the sanitary engineer, who buys equipment without bidding and claims sewers can "heal themselves." Replace the Sanitary Commission with a professional, efficient Department of Public Works. Its time has come.

Joseph B. Bowen,
Mountain Lake Park

I would like the general public to recognize those private citizens, the Deep Creek Fire Department, the police officers (particularly TFC Riggelman) and the Southern Rescue Squad for their prompt and professional handling of a situation subsequent to our automobile accident on the morning of March 18 on the Glendale Road. The performance of these volunteer units that morning was one of which all Garrett Countians should be proud and continue to support with contributions when possible.

The firemen were on the scene in a very short time and immediately took steps to reduce the probability of fire in and around the vehicles. The rescue squad was not far behind and they demonstrated effectiveness in several areas. The rapid diagnosing and stabilizing of terrible injuries sustained by the driver of the car in which I was riding and their having the hospital prepare to treat all our injuries prior to arriving there were of primary importance to me. It should also be noted that the rescue squad must occasionally treat abusive or truculent people with tact and consideration. These tasks were accomplished with patience and understanding by Southern Rescue members Helen Sanders, Frank Eberly, Lottie Shiner, Ben Sincell and Eugene Jacks.

Oftentimes these groups do not get proper recognition for the essential public services which they perform (occasionally with risk to themselves), and I hope that this letter will provide some of that recognition and encourage material support for our local volunteer groups in public service.

The project, which will be financed under the Farmers' Home Administration, will be built at an estimated cost of $60,000, and will consist of one and two-bedroom units.

I also want to thank all others who aided us that morning in any way. I will perhaps never know your names or how you were of help, but both Connie and I do thank you all sincerely.

With respect,
W. I. Welch,
Swanton

P.S. — Doctors Alvarez and Pope, the nurses and all the staff were just excellent in their treatment of me at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Jury Finds Man Guilty Of Driving While Intoxicated

A jury convicted a man of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, at a trial last week, Judge Fred A. Thayer presiding.

Dennis Eugene Sisler, RD 2, Terra Alta, W. Va., made a motion of directed verdict in his favor but the motion was denied. The jury then found Sisler to be guilty on three counts: driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, driving or attempting to drive while ability was impaired, and failing to keep to the right side of the road. Sentence is withheld pending filing of a motion. The case was transferred from District Court when Sisler prayed a jury trial in August. The incident occurred in July.

Garrett County Scenery??

SLOPPY SCENERY — The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council is not likely to have photos like these in their tourism literature, and yet the scenes pictured here are often among the first witnessed by visitors to the mountaintop. The four top pictures were shot at garbage dumpster sites along are so difficult to maintain.

Rt. 39 near Crellin, Rt. 135 just west of Bloomington, and the Craneyville Road. The Solid Waste Management Bureau has been bearing the brunt of public criticism for this situation, but they certainly don't deserve all the blame (see editorial, page 1).

Also, anyone who works with machinery knows that machines break down. It takes time to repair them and there is only so much money to go around.

The solution? There is no solution for man's selfishness and inconsideration. However, perhaps the county government should budget more money for this project. If the money is not available, maybe citizens should be required to pay a few dollars a month for the service.

Maybe several of the dumpsters could be done away with entirely, a few new trucks purchased and some interested individuals (perhaps some of our welfare recipients) could then be hired to drive the trucks along some of the more populated county routes and pick up the garbage.

Perchance the dumpsters should be moved away from the main highways to more secluded spots. We boast about the beauty of our county to outsiders, but this type of "scenery" does not exactly create a beautiful impression in the minds of our visitors.

The problem is "literally" a real mess and needs some immediate attention.

HEAT AS A PIN — This photo of a dumpster site along the King's Run Road is proof that the sites don't always look like WARNING — One distinct advantage of the garbage dumpster sites is that people are less likely to violate the law which is indicated on the above sign. Still, much illegal dumping occurs and the law should be more strictly enforced, as should the law against littering. Garrett County depends on tourism and it can't afford to have its landscape and roadways marred with heaps of garbage and trash.

those pictured above. However, mechanical breakdowns and public abuse make it difficult to keep the sites neat and clean.

Farm Bureau Directors Hold March Meeting

The Garrett County Farm Bureau Directors appointed members to two committees during the March 22 meeting held at Northern High School.

Those appointed to the By-laws committee were I. William Umbel, Randall Harmon and Merrell Wilburn. Those appointed to the Resolution Committee were I. William Umbel, William Merrill, Randall Harmon, and William DeWitt.

An announcement was made that Alan Musselman from the University of Maryland will meet with the board at a future date to explain an update in the Agricultural Land Preservation Program.

President Clark Kolb reminded the directors to think about a person to speak at the Annual Farm Bureau Meeting and Dinner. The board meets on the fourth Wednesday of each month.

DNR Hunting Clues To Deer Habits, Population, Food Supply

By Carol Canan

Another winter has been officially routed by the calendar, leaving in its wake the usual human complaints about high heating costs and snow and ice damage. Imagine what complaints deer and other wildlife might have about the deep snow and scarcity of food.

The Department of Natural Resources is not among those who simply try to "imagine" the plight of the animals. Using snowmobiles and snowshoes, its employees have actually been in the woods during the winter, checking the condition of food supplies and animals so they can plan better wildlife management practices.

Over the past few years, the Department of Natural Resources has been taking advantage of deer habits to learn more about the number and condition of the deer herds in the county.

Traps are set up adjacent to known wintering places, in sheltered areas in lowlands where the social deer gather to spend the severe months. Deer yards are usually in conifer areas which serve as wind breaks. Snow is not as deep in these protected areas, making it easier for the animals to move around to feed.

Using rectangular box traps baited with apples, DNR has captured, tagged and checked physical condition of the deer. The DNR personnel, headed by wildlife manager A. Bourgeois, can also get some indication of the deer population with the traps.

The traps are checked every day by DNR wildlife personnel and deer are released immediately after they're tagged. Contrary to many people's belief, the deer are released at the same spot where they have been trapped. Twenty-one were caught this past winter and released in Garrett County. The traps are the safest possible for the animals, and in Allegany County DNR caught the same size doe approximately 15 times, after she learned there was no harm and good apples in the boxes.

Although trapping has stopped for this season, DNR cooperated in a tour last Friday of the trapping sites and deer feeding areas in county woods. Taking part were representatives of the state forestry department, Garrett Community College Wildlife Management Techniques instructor Hugh Trimble and his class of wildlife management sophomores.

The deer have moved into the uplands again, but the students were given a chance to see the traps, winter environments, browse cuts and clear cuts in the forests, and even a beaver baffle.

Findings over the past few years have seemed to indicate that perhaps the deer population in the county is becoming a problem. Average weights of the animals are less each year by a few pounds, indicating that perhaps herds have reached their peak as far as food is concerned. Even though there is an apparent abundance of food in the woods, deer are creatures of habit and return annually to their wintering places. These small, sheltered areas can support only a certain number, and herd increases produce weakened animals and overbrowsing which can stunt plant growth or even kill the food supply.

This begins a vicious cycle since there will be a further reduced supply of food for the herds, which are by then weakened and susceptible to disease and such predator as prowling dogs and poachers.

An even-larger number of local farmers have begun complaining more vocally each year as herds feed on their fields and cause severe crop and pasture damage. Even pine tree growers have been hard hit as the deer head for the first fresh greens in the spring and are gobbling up the young and crucial terminal buds of the young pine trees, halting growth of the trees.

In attempts to do everything the state can to assist the deer in winter, wildlife personnel have been making browse cuts so the deer can feed naturally. This involves cutting out the larger trees in small areas of forest adjacent to winter herding areas, so the deer can eat the woody undergrowth which follows such a cut. Red Relating wildlife management practices Friday in a deer wintering area of the county were, left to right, Hugh Trimble, instructor of wildlife management techniques at GCC, Ray DeVone, Maryland forestry service, Butch Zimmerman, wildlife technician, and Al Bourgeois, wildlife manager for this county for the state. Students in the wildlife management technique course at Garrett College spent most of the day touring a deer wintering area and learning about browse habits, browse lines, clear cuts, and other facets of deer lore.

Explaining deer feeding habits and overbrowsing is Al Bourgeois, county manager of wildlife for DNR, with his back to the camera lens. Listeners include Ray DeVone, with the Maryland forestry service, and Butch Zimmerman, a graduate of the GCC wildlife management techniques class, and several members of the present sophomore class at GCC.

maple, oak, service, sassafras, and larch are the most sought after woody materials for deer during the cold months, when the deer are forced to change their diets from summer's herbaceous grasses to woody stems and twigs.

This winter diet change is the reason that deer are not helped by kindly offerings of hay by concerned individuals. The deer is a ruminant animal, which must chew its food before food is taken into the rumen of its stomach. During the fall, the animal's microorganisms in the rumen gradually adapt to woody diet from the summer's herbaceous foods. These microorganisms cannot change suddenly to digest hay and often deer are found dead of starvation, even though they have a stomach full of hay.

Anyone with woodlots who desire to feed the deer should make browse cuts, allowing young growth to fill in an area once shaded out by the larger trees. Information is readily available from the DNR local office.

Wildlife personnel and the state forestry department often work together, although for different purposes. The wildlife people make browse cuts as they are concerned mainly with the benefits on deer herds and other forest dwellers, while forestry workers are aiming at helping the forest growth with Timber Stand Improvement (TSI) which incidentally turns out to be perfect browse cuts.

The forestry representative Ray DeVone pointed out that larger trees, particularly oak and black cherry, are often top heavy and no longer productive members of the forest. These giants hamper young straight growth of the smaller trees. When cut out according to a long range plan, these make way for new generations which can then grow uniformly straight and potentially productive as lumber and pulpwood.

The remnants of trees from cuts are available as firewood to the public. Anyone desiring to get the wood should contact the local forestry office, which charges $1 per cord and provides information on boundaries and which areas are most easily accessible.

The class also saw an example of forestry practice called "clear cutting," in which all trees are removed from an area, and the area is allowed to regenerate naturally, or is sometimes seeded with such grasses as Kentucky 31, providing food for turkeys and other birds. The cleared areas are ordinarily mowed annually for several years to maintain their benefits to wildlife.

Mr. Bourgeois has been studying the available herd statistics and says that the herds in fact are larger than they have been in the past ten years, and most of the deer seem to have survived the past winter in good condition. This growth leads to more complaints from farmers who are losing money from deer raids, and who are not pacified with the DNR's only recourse — issuance of crop damage permits which entitle the farmer to kill one deer.

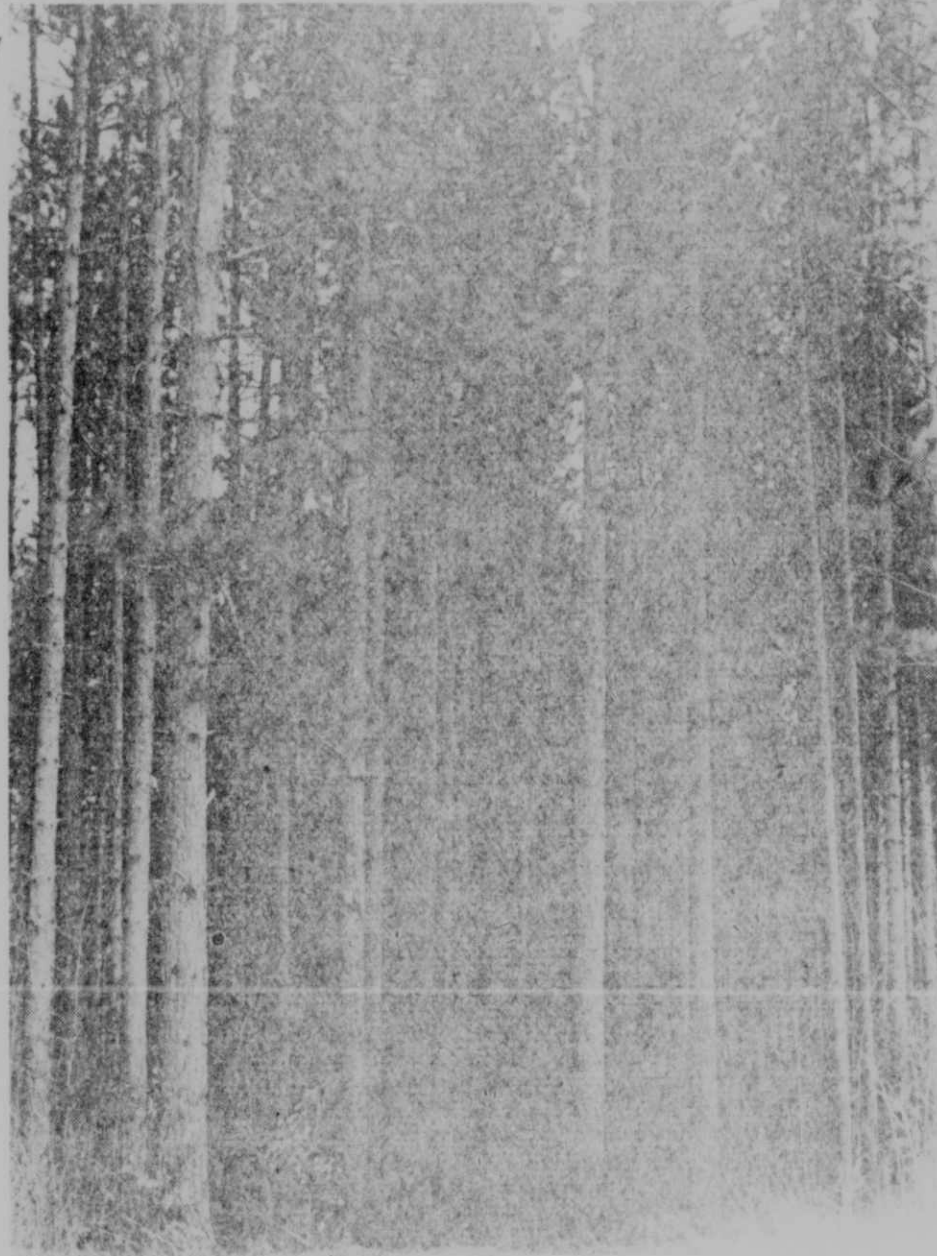

One possible, but extremely controversial, solution proposed by DNR is the annual doe season. Recent DNR hearings in the area on the subject indicate that opinion is divided and divided on that issue, and further meetings will be held before a decision is made on the doe season.

Incidental to the subject of browse cuts and deer herds was the beaver baffle. These handy little structures are inserted in beaver dams that are causing flooding problems for farmers or roadways, and so far no beaver has figured out how to block the flow.

The baffles are constructed of three 14-foot long, 1x12's nailed together. The fourth side is made of screening. One end of the baffle is placed on or in the stick dams, while the other end, 14 feet away, is placed under water upstream.

Although pleasing to the human eye, these closely planted pine plantations are a veritable desert for wildlife. The trees, planted during the 1920s as part of experimentation with tree growth and production, offer no shelter or food to foraging creatures like deer, rabbits, turkeys, grouse, or other birds.

The bone marrow of a freshly killed deer can tell a great deal about the animal's condition to knowledgeable wildlife personnel. Here Butch Zimmerman, right, with the state wildlife department, explains what to look for to a group of students from Garrett Community College, Garrett's wildlife management instructor Hugh Trimble, and his boss, Al Bourgeois, at left. Firm marrow indicates good physical condition, while watery marrow shows that the animal had been starving.

Beavers are brilliant natural engineers, but sometimes their work can cause a great deal of "dam problems" for human neighbors. Humans have gotten even, however, and are no doubt causing a rash of sleepless nights for the busy rodents with their ingenious "beaver baffles." See story for details.

This is what a browse line looks like for the first year or so. This cut was made approximately one week ago, and already some deer have nibbled at the new woody growth cut down for their use. Such cuts assist deer in their food supply, and are usually located next to sheltered wintering areas so the animals can feed more easily. Quite often in bad weather, the deer go without food for several days at a time to help conserve their energy for keeping warm. DNR researchers are learning more about the deer habits, and have discovered that the average deer roams an area of only one to one and a half square miles. Tagged deer reported killed during deer season are almost always yearling males, says the DNR after years of comprehensive study of habitat and habits of the animals. Another little-known fact is that the animal's worst predator is the dog, whose instincts urge him to chase a deer, and there have been many instances where the dogs have run the deer to death. Particularly susceptible are those animals already weakened by efforts to get around in heavy snow.

The animals know their dam is leaking, but so far none have figured how to block the upper end of the form.

However, at the spot visited Friday, there were supposed to be two beaver baffles but only one could be found. Beavers, like deer and all wildlife, are not so dumb.

Winter Returns

To Mountain Top

Winter made another return engagement the past week, making roads slick for a time Monday. Spring-like weather had prevailed previous to this.

Road crews were out Monday morning sanding and treating slick spots.

Wednesday was clear followed by mostly clear on Thursday. There was some sunshine Friday morning but skies became cloudy in the afternoon followed by rain at night. Saturday began cloudy with rain beginning before noon. Showers continued throughout the day. Temperatures had dropped during the night with some snow flurries blowing around Sunday morning.

The balance of the day was cloudy with the exception of occasional sunshine in the early afternoon. By Monday morning about an inch of snow had covered the ground and roads. Snow flurries continued to blow around most of the day. The evening remained cloudy with more snow flurries yesterday morning under overcast skies. A clearing trend began late in the evening. Skies were mostly clear this morning.

Temperatures averaged 4.6 degrees above normal due mostly to the Spring-like weather last Wednesday through Friday. Highs averaged 54 degrees or 6.6 above normal. The high was last Thursday, 70 degrees. It was 69 the following day. By Sunday the mercury had dropped to colder readings. Temperatures got no higher than 36 degrees Monday and 35 yesterday. Lows averaged 26.9 degrees or 2.6 above normal, due mostly to weekend mild readings. The low was this morning's 12 degrees. Saturday it was a mild 44 degrees.

In the story, "Clean Water Act, Water Quality Plan to Be Discussed" on page 38 in the March 21 issue of The Republican a report was made that "A public hearing on the 208 Water Quality Management plans will be held Tuesday, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Multi-purpose Room of the Emma K. Cumberland Cuts Back Work Force To Reduce Deficit CUMBERLAND, Md. (UPI) — Cumberland city officials have decided to lay off 10 city workers and cut the salaries of another 20 to reduce the city's deficit.

The layoffs are expected to result in a job action by unionized fire fighters angered by the cuts. Union president John C. Keller called the layoffs "cut-throat politics" and warned of a job action by his membership.

Mayor Frank Nethkin said the layoffs will begin Friday along with 10 percent salary cuts for all remaining employees, including himself.

Nethkin said City Hall will also be closed one out of every 10 working days to help cut costs.

Nethkin said the cuts will affect 10 regular employees and 22 CETA employees and save the city between $30,000 and $60,000 a week.

The city is expected to have a $300,000 deficit by June 30. Most of the deficit results from sewer and water rates that were not high enough to pay for a new sewage treatment system.

Cleaner Harbor May Draw More Shipping Traffic

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (UPI) — City officials say the dredging of the Cambridge harbor is expected to boost shipping traffic.

A Virginia firm has begun preparations to begin dredging next week after finding two sites to dispose of the project's silt.

City officials said they hope the harbor, which is only being used to 30 percent capacity, will attract more shipping after the dredging is completed.

Frank Hall, project manager for Catrell Engineering Corp. of Norfolk, Va., said Tuesday a hydraulic dredge must be towed from Norfolk by tugboat and be serviced for several days before the project can get underway.

A U.S. Army Corps of Engineers spokesman, C. Monty Franklin, said the dredge should arrive in Cambridge by the end of the week.

The dredge will remove 30,000 cubic yards of silt and other material that is shoaled in the bottom of the Potomac River near the Cambridge harbor to permit heavier flat-bottomed ships and barges to enter the harbor.

Franklin said Catrell will have until May 31 to finish the job in order to stay within environmental guidelines set by state and federal officials. The deadline was set to migrating fish will not be diverted.

The project has been delayed for months following the failure of another company, Super Marine, of Littleton, S.C., to complete work it began last year.

Tax On Cigarettes May Fund National Health Insurance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new tax on cigarettes might fund a new national health insurance.

Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., Tuesday suggested: "Why not put the burden on the people who are increasing the health burden in this country?"

Danforth said during a meeting of the Senate Finance Committee the government share of any new catastrophic health insurance plan could be picked up by an additional 10 cent tax on cigarette packs that would raise $2.9 billion.

This would be more than enough to offset the costs of a health insurance plan Danforth and two other Republicans have introduced.

There are over 300,000 tobacco-related deaths a year in the United States, Danforth said. "Smokers as a group are more likely than nonsmokers to be afflicted with such catastrophic illnesses as cancer and emphysema."

"I think it is only fair to make these people pay a greater share of the cost of catastrophic insurance," he said, noting that the federal levy on cigarettes has not increased in more than 25 years.

Danforth addressed his suggestion to HEW Secretary Joseph Califano, who promised to bring the matter up within the administration.

Middleman Blamed For Alleged Coal Fraud At Potomac Edison

CUMBERLAND, Md. (UPI) — The President of the Maryland Coal Association says middlemen, not coal companies, may be criminally liable for irregularities in coal burned at a Western Maryland power plant.

Mather Skidmore said Tuesday he does not expect any coal companies to be prosecuted in the FBI investigation of an alleged coal fraud at Potomac Edison.

The FBI is looking into reports that the Williamsport plant of Potomac Edison paid for high-grade coal and received an inferior grade coal that was high in sulfur and other pollutants.

Skidmore said most of the coal companies in Western Maryland sell their coal to a broker, who then sells it to a company like Potomac Edison. He said middlemen could be responsible for the alleged fraud.

He said it may be likely the brokers involved have undercut the coal companies by falsifying chemical analysis reports to lower the grade of coal bought from the coal companies, and to raise the grade when the coal is sold to the power company.

He said either the broker, or an "inside man in the power company," could be responsible.

Former Employee Of GSA To Serve Prison Sentence

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A former General Services Administration employee has been sentenced to 60 days in prison while another faces a possible 90-day term for his guilty plea to kickback charges.

U.S. District Judge Alexander Harvey Tuesday sentenced Gertrude R. Blackwell, 42, of Baltimore, to 60 days in prison. The former assistant store manager was sentenced on her guilty plea to charges she filed false purchase claims to return for bribes from a government contractor.

She was indicted Nov. 3, 1978. Another former GSA assistant store manager changed his innocent plea to guilty before another U.S. District Court judge.

Mrs. Blackwell is one of two individuals in the investigation who do not have to make restitution because she returned everything she received from private firms in return for falsifying invoices from Jones Hines Associates, of Westminster, Md., to the GSA, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Daniel Clements.

He told Harvey that Mrs. Blackwell took about $1,000 in television sets, stereos and barbecue equipment.

Her lawyer, Robert Baker, said the bribery scandal was "a system she fell into."

They told her, "Hey, you want anything, ask me, ask Hines, it's yours," Baker said.

She felt these were gifts but I think she also felt this was wrong. She didn't understand the government's conspiracy thing, the scope of the whole thing, but she knew what she was doing was wrong," he said.

Harvey noted she had worked her way up during 12 or 15 years with the government and had returned everything voluntarily.

"You did occupy a position of trust with the federal government for 15 years," Harvey told Mrs. Blackwell. "You violated that trust for your personal gain and a short jail term is necessary as a deterrent to others."

He sentenced Mrs. Blackwell to 60 days in jail and 2 years probation. She is to surrender in about three weeks at the Harford County Detention Center.

Al Allen, 36, of Washington, D.C., Tuesday changed his plea to guilty before U.S. District Judge James H. Miller. He originally had pleaded innocent to a 19-count conspiracy indictment.

Allen, former assistant manager of a GSA store in Parkville, changed his plea in accordance with an agreement with prosecutors who indicated they will recommend a 90-day sentence.

Allen pleaded guilty to conspiracy to defraud the government, filing false claims and aiding and abetting fraud. The deal was made in return for Allen's testimony in the upcoming trial of Matthew Smith, owner of a Baltimore office supply firm that did business with the GSA.

plant" could be tampering with the chemical analysis.

He said the FBI told him the primary reason the coal companies were subpoenaed is to find out what they were paid for their coal and what the broker said about the grade of the coal.

"There is no law in the world against selling low grade coal," Skidmore said. "But it is against the law to burn coal with certain proportions of sulfur and ash, because they pollute the atmosphere."

"I don't really believe there's going to be one coal company prosecuted, but I do think about five people are involved," Mather said.

Sara Jane Moore To Stand Trial For Prison Escape

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — Would-be presidential assassin Sara Jane Moore faced her first day of trial in U.S. District Court today on a charge that she escaped from a federal prison in West Virginia last winter.

Mrs. Moore, a matronly radical who was serving a life term for firing shots in 1975 at former President Gerald Ford in California, was to be driven to Charleston from the Federal Correctional Institute for Women in Alderson by federal marshals.

Mrs. Moore, 48, once an FBI informant who ultimately turned against the government and sided with the same radical forces upon whom she had spent, allegedly escaped Feb. 9 with fellow inmate Marlene Martino, only to be recaptured hours later about 25 miles away in White Sulphur Springs.

A separate trial at a later date is planned for Mrs. Martino. Each has pleaded innocent.

Mrs. Moore has met with her attorneys at Alderson to prepare a defense.

"I talked with her yesterday," Associate Warden Mark Garrett said Wednesday. "We just kind of talked about things in general. Just chatting. She didn't even mention the trial."

Personal items removed from the defendant after the escape have been returned, according to the associate warden. In a court appearance following the escape, Mrs. Moore told U.S. District Judge Dennis Knapp, "The prison has taken everything I own."

Knapp ordered attorneys in the case to have the woman's belongings returned.

The two women were charged with sealing a chain-link fence in subfreezing weather in a short-lived escape.

"I was happy to be out," Mrs. Moore later told reporters.

Mrs. Moore, a Charleston native and former upper-middle-class housewife, took Sept. 22, 1975, at Ford, during a presidential visit to San Francisco.

The target wasn't the individual, but what the government stood for," she later explained, adding that she felt no remorse for making the attempt on Ford's life.

Burch Portrait May Be Removed From State House

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The Maryland State House Trust will meet April 17 to discuss removing former state Attorney General Francis B. Burch's official portrait from the State House.

State Archivist Edward Papenfuss said Tuesday that no attorney general's portrait hangs in the State House solely because he held the position.

Papenfuss said the $2,500 portrait may be removed from its place of honor because it has no historical significance.

The painting, which was hung Feb. 1 in the capital's Old Appropriations Room, depicts a younger Burch, who is 60 and served 12 years as attorney general, holding a scroll with a document with Blind Justice looking on from the sky in the background.

It was hung in the State before the State Commissioner of Artistic Property had approved the location. The commission has called for its removal.

The portrait was painted by Ralph Waldo Cowan.

Papenfuss said the artistic property commission found the portrait lacked historical and aesthetic significance.

Steel Corp. Chairman Denounces Competitors For Unethical Tactics

MONESSEN, Pa. (UPI) — The head of Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. has denounced U.S. Steel Corp. and Bethlehem Steel Corp. for seeking to block federal loan guarantees to his firm to finance construction of a new rail mill.

While he did not specify U.S. Steel and Bethlehem by name, Dennis J. Carney, chairman and president of Wheeling-Pittsburgh, said "our two largest competitors" sought to block the guarantees with "threats and intimidation."

"This time has come for Wheeling-Pittsburgh to speak out publicly on this matter and expose those tactics for what they really are," Carney said here Tuesday as ground was broken for the new $100 million rail rolling mill complex, first such facility to be built in the United States since the 1920s.

"Anyone knowledgeable in the rail business," Carney said, "knows that three companies (U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, and Colorado Fuel & Iron) have controlled the production and marketing of rail products for over 30 years."

"Their blatant attempt to block our loan is one of the most obvious and shameful exhibitions of greed on the part of major U.S. corporations in recent years."

Carney said the opposition to the Wheeling-Pittsburgh loan should be investigated by the steel caucus, a congressional group representing states with steel interests, and "should warrant the attention of the Senate Judiciary Committee and the antitrust division of the Justice Department."

At the same time, Carney defended his firm's purchase of Japanese rolling mill equipment and technology. He said Wheeling-Pittsburgh is borrowing $10 million from the Japanese export-import bank at an 8 percent interest rate, compared with 10+ percent his firm would have had to pay for a private loan in the United States.

Carney said his firm was forced to turn to Japan because of the low-interest financing and the high state of rail mill technology there.

The Monessen project, backed by government loan guarantees, is expected to save about 3,000 jobs in the steel and railroad industries. Construction in this Westmoreland County community about 35 miles from Pittsburgh will be completed in 2 1/2 years.

Carney told a gathering of about 100 public, industry and union officials at the groundbreaking the mill will add "a new element of economic vitality" to his firm, eighth largest steelmaker in the country.

Wheeling-Pittsburgh is expected to receive from the federal government a $100 loan guarantee. The state already has agreed to provide a $10 million loan.

CF&I said it will go to court to stop Wheeling-Pittsburgh from getting the federal loan guarantee.

Wheeling-Pittsburgh expects rail demand to reach 1.5 million tons annually in the 1990s.

The Monessen facility, which eventually will produce 800,000 tons annually, will be located on a site formerly occupied by rail and wire mill facilities now dismantled.

Beneficial Faces Charges on Illegal Sale of Insurance

BALTIMORE (UPI) — In order to collect on $4 million worth of loans, Beneficial Finance Company must disprove state charges that it illegally sold insurance to customers.

Alan T. Fell, Maryland consumer credit commissioner, charges that Beneficial illegally required thousands of state residents to buy insurance as collateral on loans they received and then sold them policies through an insurance company it owns.

Fell charged Tuesday that the underwriting company assigned the policies to a second company, owned by Beneficial Corporation, the holding company that also owns Beneficial

John Evans Does Not Want To Be A Hero

ATMORE, Ala. (UPI) — John Lewis Evans III is ready to die in the electric chair, but he doesn't want anyone to think him a hero.

"A lot of kids out there are associating with this thing and they think a life of crime is great," Evans said in an interview Tuesday. "This is wrong and they need to be told that right now. I'm fixing to die because I was stupid enough to take a chance on losing my freedom."

The execution April 6 will be the first in Alabama since 1965 and the second in the United States since Gary Wayne Gilmore's 1977 death by firing squad in Utah.

Evans, 29, was convicted in 1977 of shooting a Mobile pawnbroker in the back after robbing him. The pawnbroker's two young daughters witnessed the shooting.

The Besoument, Texas, native said he has been deluged with letters from young people, especially teenagers, who see him as a hero.

"I want them to know that there are laws in society and there always will be," he said. "If they think they can beat the system, they're wrong. This is the only place they can end up."

Evans accused reporters of trying to sensationalize his case.

"The wrong message is getting across. Everybody is worried about making a buck off me going to the electric chair. They have made it into a glorious affair and turned it into a circus."

Evans never fought his death sentence, except for a brief period in 1978 when he wanted to change the execution method to injection of drugs. Lawyers, acting against his wishes, have been unsuccessful in appeals to the state and U.S. supreme courts.

"The easy part of the whole thing is dying," he said. "The wait is the hard part. I just want to get it all over with."

The condemned man chain-smoked as he answered questions in a brick room, freshly painted mint green, from which witnesses will view his execution in Holman Prison's bright yellow electric chair.

As he talked Tuesday, prison officials reviewed procedures for his execution and checked on the operation of the chair.

Evans said he invited several of his friends to witness his death, but did not expect them to watch "anything so gross."

He said he did not want his family to attend.

Bethlehem Steel Workers to Receive Special Benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Workers at the Bethlehem Steel Corp.'s Baltimore shipyard are the first to be certified for special fund for firms hurt by foreign competition.

Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., said Tuesday as many as 2,000 employees may be eligible for benefits from the fund administered by the U.S. Department of Labor.

The funds from the Trade Adjustment Assistance Act will allow unemployed and underemployed workers at the Sparrows Point yard to receive up to 70 percent of their average weekly wage to a maximum of $250 for up to one year. Workers employed between last July 3 and July 1, 1966, are eligible to apply.

An aide to Long said the amount of money available to the workers will be determined by the amount of business Sparrows Point does in the two year period. Applications will be accepted at the plant beginning Thursday, he said.

Bethlehem officials said last October they might be forced to close Sparrows Point because of a lack of business. The yard was awarded three new ship contracts, which will be built with federal assistance, in January.

President Carter To Propose New Energy Measures Next Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, facing "largely unpleasant" options from his top energy advisers and weighing the impact of the latest foreign oil price rise, will wait until next week before proposing new energy measures.

The president originally had planned to address the nation this week, but on Tuesday he ordered changes in some of the proposals.

The proposals were being drawn up to meet new energy pressures while Congress still was considering his request for standby authority to impose mandatory oil conservation measures and before Tuesday's decision by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to hike oil prices by 9 percent.

Some of the steps the president has in mind will require congressional action, press secretary Jody Powell indicated Tuesday.

The president had been expected to announce he favors lifting controls on crude oil prices — most likely through a gradual approach, with total decontrol by September, 1981. There was no indication whether that decision was one of the proposals he ordered rewritten.

During a White House meeting Tuesday, Carter told Energy Secretary James Schlesinger and other administration officials he was "less than completely satisfied" with some of their recommendations.

"The president is considering a series of rather difficult and largely unpleasant options. He has today indicated less than complete satisfaction with some of the proposals that have been submitted to him," Powell said.

"He asked that they be reworked," he added.

Sources said Carter wants to consult further with Congress to determine the extent of support for some of the options.

The OPEC decision for a 9 percent increase, plus surcharges by individual members presented a major complication in energy planning.

The increase means an imminent jump in U.S. gasoline and heating oil prices. An additional decision to permit surcharges makes the final cost of crude oil unpredictable, resting on the whim of each of the 13 OPEC members.

U.S. energy officials said initial calculations showed the basic increase alone might lift gasoline prices by 2.4 cents a gallon, add $2.4 billion to the nation's trade deficit, increase overall inflation by almost one-half of 1 percent and add perhaps three-tenths of 1 percent to the rate of inflation.

Supreme Court Bars Police From Randomly Stopping Motorists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new Supreme Court ruling reaffirms the right of Americans "to drive on highways without being stopped by police," Civil Liberties Union lawyer Charles Sims said today.

But Delaware state prosecutor Charles Oberly said loopholes in Tuesday's decision, allowing for stopping traffic at roadblocks for drivers' registrations, actually could result in more stops instead of less.

The justices ruled 8-4 that the Constitution bars police from selecting and stopping cars without a specified reason, for the sole purpose of checking driving licenses and car registrations.

The court ruled in a case involving a Delaware man who was arrested on marijuana possession charges after police found the substance when they stopped his car.

Sims, lawyer for the American Civil Liberties Union, said the "court recognized that the Fourth Amendment protects all of us."

"What (the ruling) really indicates is the right of Americans to drive on highways without being stopped by police," he said.

Justice Byron White delivered the majority opinion, which said the Constitution's guarantee against unreasonable search and seizure bars officers from stopping cars at random unless they have an "articulable and reasonable suspicion" of a violation.

But he made it clear that states are not precluded from using other "less intrusive" methods of enforcing licensing and registration laws, such as stopping all traffic at checkpoints instead of random cars in traffic.

Justice Harry Blackmun said he thought "it is also would be permissible for police to make other kinds of systematic stops, such as detaining each 10th car which passed a green point."

Oberly, commenting on the court's opinion, said "if you can stop every 10th car or every 100th car, why can't you stop every car on the hour?"

He predicted "it is almost impossible for stops to be less intrusive," and said the court's opinion raised practical questions concerning the standards for stopping cars and the monitoring of such operations.

Courts in Nebraska, North Carolina and Texas, as well as several federal courts have in the past issued opinions viewed as upholding such random stops, but courts in Pennsylvania, New York, Arizona, Hawaii, Maryland and California, like the Delaware Supreme Court, have ruled them unconstitutional.

Pump Malfunction Forces Evacuation Of Nuclear Plant

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The Pennsylvania State Police said today there was a "general emergency" at the nearby Three Mile Island nuclear power plant owned by Metropolitan Edison Co.

Thomas Lyon, spokesman for the state police, said Met-Ed requested state police assistance for the emergency and authorities said the plant site was evacuated.

"At this time the report is that there is no radiation leak," Lyon said.

A Met-Ed spokesman said the 900-megawatt nuclear reactor No. 2 automatically tripped off at 4 a.m. due to what was described as a malfunction of a water feed pump, which pumps water into the unit.

The federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission said it was sending Philadelphia representatives to the site.

Lyon said four state police troopers were sent to the power plant site to expedite traffic through the area.

He said a state police helicopter was provided to Met-Ed for use by a "monitoring team."

The plant is located 10 miles southeast of Harrisburg along the Susquehanna River in Dauphin County.

One of the nice things about investing in land is that it rarely presents management problems. However, since it will produce no income, it should be bought only if you are financially able to carry the debt.

For the typical investment, you have to put down cash amounting to 25% to 50% of the total cost of the land, with regular payments on the remainder until the entire debt is paid. But if you prefer to pay taxes on a long-term capital gain, rather than ordinary income, then land can be an attractive investment.

It there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

WFRB Power Increase Set For Easter Morning

Radio Station WFRB, of Frostburg, announced today that power increase from 1000 to 5000 watts will officially take place at 6:00 a.m. on Easter Sunday morning, April 15.

According to D. C. Loughry, president and general manager, all of the necessary equipment, including two new transmitters, has been installed and all of the necessary engineering has been completed to effect the change.

The station will continue to maintain its daytime schedule, but it was announced that, with 5000 watts, listeners will be able to hear the station twice as far as they now can, with the outer limits being Columbus, Ohio, to the west and Baltimore to the east.

After four years of preparation, the Federal Communications Commission granted WFRB-AM the authority to increase power on December 12, 1978, and construction was begun soon thereafter.

WFRB-AM went on the air in 1936 on 740 Kc with 250 watts. In 1962, facilities were moved to 560 on the dial, and power was increased to 1000 watts. WFRB-FM was added in 1965, with FM-stereo included in 1974.

Mr. Loughry stated that no station in the United States, operating on 560, is permitted to have more than 5000 watts of power. This increase in power will give Western Maryland a maximum power broadcast facility.

POET'S PODIUM

By Jim Willis

The old oak piano sits cold and lifeless, a pedestal for memorabilia and a monument to the music of long ago.

The violins and chords awaiting leaning anxiously below, on ledges of oak they stand and cry out symphonies of old; ivory keys lay placid, unpaired, while murmuring sweet tunes and vibrant waltzes echoing through smoke-filled rooms now nestled in sunlight shadows; Camp Town Races and Rag Time blues play rampant scores.

How the closed oak covers, how long before they come to life, to dazzle ears of youth, to spurn the dance and song again, to cease its echoing tales.

Wineries Seeking Grape Growers

Maryland's seven wineries have issued a plea for more grape producers recently, according to Richard Parsons of the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

"There is money to be made in grape production here in Maryland," said Parsons. "Two decades or so ago, commercial wine production was almost unknown in the state. Now there are wineries in operation in Baltimore, Carroll, Frederick, Montgomery and Washington counties."

"It is surprising to learn that wine grapes are now being grown in 19 of the 23 counties and while our production, although tiny compared with California or New York, is something on the order of 25,000 gallons per year. The potential is great."

Parsons reports that there are already 83 known growers of wine-type grapes in the state, 36 of which are classified as commercial growers having 125 or more vines in production.

"Grape growing presents a welcome new agricultural bonus for the state. One does not need prime farmland to grow good grapes. Hillsides and other small pieces of land are in many cases, ideal for grape production. Grape production lends itself to small operators and people with a strong desire to produce a crop in which they can take personal pride and pains to produce," Parsons concluded.

Prospective growers who wish to contact the Maryland wineries may request a list by writing to, Division of Marketing, Maryland Department of Agriculture, Parole Plaza Office Building, Annapolis, Maryland, 21401.

RAVAGED BY TIME . . . and Garrett County winters, this simplistic survey near Bloomington stands as an informal monument to early means of transportation. It only lacks a matched team of dapple-grey steeds to pull it to life again, or instead, as Ralph Waldo Emerson offered, "hitch your wagon to a star."

Open Line

by Rep. Beverly Byron

This regular column provides citizens the opportunity to ask Congresswoman Byron any questions that happen to be on their mind. Inquiries should be sent c/o U.S. House of Representatives, Room 1216 LHOB, Washington, D. C. 20515.

What did you discuss during your recent visits with area officials?

During the last several months I have met with the Howard County Council and the County Commissioners of Carroll, Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett Counties to discuss area problems and what assistance my office might lend in expediting funding for local projects involving Federal grants and loans. Visits are also being planned with the Baltimore and Montgomery County Executives.

Among the issues covered were revenue sharing, renewal of the Appalachian Regional Commission, the National Freeway, local road construction, agricultural land preservation, health facilities and area water and sewerage projects. The location of the National Fire Academy was also discussed and, as you are probably aware, St. Joseph's College in Emmitsburg was selected as the site.

What are your views on re-instituting Selective Service Registration?

This issue came before the House Armed Services Committee recently and my feeling is that I would favor such a move if it were proven to me the country would be in military danger without it. As you may know, Army Chief of Staff, Gen. Bernard Rogers, last week urged Congress to start up the draft immediately. Army Secretary Clifford Alexander strongly disagreed. From these comments alone it is obvious to me the issue must be explored further before a responsible decision can be made. I certainly support additional testimony on this complex matter at the earliest possible date and look forward to continued hearings before the Armed Services Committee on which I serve.

Recently the U. S. Senate passed legislation raising the outside earnings limitation for Senators from $8,600 to $25,000. Do you favor such a move for House Members?

I do not. The $8,600 ceiling is sufficient and should not be raised.

Please explain your bill which would give a tax break to consumers who have purchased or installed woodburning stoves in their homes?

Legislation was passed by Congress last year providing individuals with up to a $300 tax credit on their 1979 tax returns if they installed energy saving devices such as home insulation, storm windows, set-back thermostats and certain furnace parts in their principal place of residence between April 20, 1977 and December 31, 1978. My bill will qualify woodburning stoves for this same tax credit.

What are your committee assignments and how will your work on these committees affect central and western Maryland?

I am pleased to report that I am serving the Sixth District as a member of the House Armed Services Committee and the House Select Committee on Aging. As a staunch supporter of a strong national defense posture this first post is allowing me to continue Goodloe's efforts on behalf of many defense-related programs affecting the citizens of Central and Western Maryland.

As many of you know, the Fairchild plant in Hagerstown is doing much of the work on the A-10 and other planes and the area employment picture is brighter because of it. The Westinghouse plant in the Baltimore region is where the E-3A Airborne Warning Control System is made. In addition, the Sixth District is the home of Fort Detrick in Frederick, Fort Ritchie in Washington County, Allegany Ballistics Laboratory near Cumberland, and Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory in Howard County.

Selection to the Committee on Aging will also benefit our area. Many problems face older Americans including housing, health, employment and rising fuel costs and this committee will be seeking solutions to these and other plights of those who are trying to live on a fixed income. I am looking forward to facing these problems head on and, in this regard, would appreciate any ideas or comments you may have to better the quality of life for our senior citizens.

Last month the Federal Department of Transportation recommended that daily runs on the Blue Ridge train from Washington - Brunswick - Harper's Ferry be cancelled. What are you doing to prevent this?

Everything possible is being done to maintain daily runs on this rail line. New Amtrak revenue and ridership statistics show the Blue Ridge is more successful than any other short-distance train in the system and also several trains that Amtrak will retain. In short, a lot of people depend on it and to cancel daily runs in light of the need to conserve energy makes no sense to me at all.

You may be assured I will continue to work with the Maryland and Federal Departments of Transportation to seek funding for this line so that service will not be interrupted. I have also co-sponsored legislation in the House to repeal the DOT recommendation and plan to testify in support of the Blue Ridge before congressional hearings later this month.

Fashion, Modeling Workshop Stated For April 7

A workshop on fashion and modeling for youth is being sponsored on Saturday April 7, by the Western Maryland District Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H and Youth program. The 10:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. workshop will be in the continuing Education Center on the Allegany Community College Campus, Cumberland.

Dr. Eleanor Young, Clothing and Textiles Specialist for the University of Md. Cooperative Extension Service will present the program on spring fashions and fabrics, a review of sewing techniques for spring fabrics, and preparation for fashion shows including modeling, accessorizing and grooming.

"Although examples and references used during the workshop will be related to youth and teens," commented Alice Hevner, Extension Agent, 4-H and Youth, the information presented should be of value to fashion conscious individual or home sewer and we invite them to attend.

There will be no charge for the program but participants will need to provide their own lunch. Persons interested in attending and in need of transportation should contact the Extension Office at 334-2145.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service offers its programs to persons regardless of race, color, national origin, sex or handicap and is an equal opportunity employer.

Mathias Bill To Help Financial Status Of Amtrak

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) will introduce legislation this week to put a price tag on the social value of the nation's 27,000-mile passenger rail service and wipe out Amtrak's chronic operating losses.

Mathias's bill, The Amtrak Cost Allocation Act of 1979, provides an innovative funding formula for subsidizing the country's passenger rail service. It is based upon the social value of paying for passenger service rather than upon the present system of federal underwriting of Amtrak's losses, which reached nearly $600 million last year.

The Mathias proposal consists of two components: 1. Payment by the federal government of one-half of the costs of operating each of Amtrak's passenger routes throughout the United States.

2. A ticket subsidy to encourage and promote ridership on Amtrak's more cost-effective routes.

Under the first component, the bill calls for a contribution which would remain constant thereby providing a partial hedge against inflation. The ticket subsidy would be directly tied to the number of riders carried on each route.

"In the eight years since the creation of Amtrak," Mathias said, "We have been unable to define the level of service or what a reasonable cost might be. Until these definitions are explicitly stated, understood and agreed upon, there can be no improvement in our national rail passenger service."

He said his legislation provides guidelines for evaluating Amtrak's service. "It provides the formula which explicitly defines the social value of rail service to the federal government," he explained. "For the first time, Congress and the Administration would specify what should be an acceptable subsidy level for each route and each passenger carried on the Amtrak system." The bill provides Amtrak management with a clear objective for evaluating and determining route and service changes and eliminates politicization. As a result, all route register deficits, some more than others.

The Mathias bill addresses this situation. Under the social value formula, Amtrak would be required to adopt an accounting system based upon total number of passengers carried per route.

Under this new accounting procedure, at least half of the existing routes would show a profit annually," Senator Mathias said. "We could then take steps, such as fare restructuring, schedule changes or equipment improvements which could turn the situation around on the remaining routes."

In introducing the legislation Mathias cited several benefits of the social value approach to funding:

1. Congressional and executive branch agreement on the value of Amtrak service, specifically the level of ticket subsidy per passenger.

2. Amtrak management could, for the first time, establish marketing goals in terms of ridership for each route failing to show a social profit, so that the routes can be developed to make them socially profitable.

3. Amtrak management could be rewarded for performing better than anticipated by permitting the Corporation to invest excess profits (where fares plus appropriated funds exceed expense in capital improvements).

4. Congress would be able to determine the amount of ticket subsidy annually.

5. Capital improvements, such as the Northeast Corridor Improvement Project, and other corridor development programs could be evaluated against benefits derived.

6. Amtrak route and service decisions would be aimed at increasing ridership rather than focusing on cost-cutting, regardless of service consequences.

7. Amtrak's performance could be measured in terms of the difference between profits from ticket revenues and the federal subsidy.

Mathias said the adoption of the legislation would "bring order to an otherwise chaotic process." It would, he said, clearly establish goals and objectives for Amtrak; provide an incentive for efficient management and the generation of additional ridership; give Congress a yardstick to measure route performance; provide a mechanism for identifying routes which cannot, under any circumstances, provide a positive social profit; and permit Amtrak to develop a five-year plan that "reflects the concern of Congress in containing costs and providing maximum service per dollar."

Senator Mathias is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee's subcommittee on transportation, which oversees Amtrak's budget.

Animal Giveaways

Now that Spring is here many people start thinking about animals, and some even want to give them away as prizes, merchandise incentives and so on . . . and there, according to Maryland Agriculture Secretary Wayne A. Cawley, Jr., is the problem.

"State Law," Cawley said, "prohibits persons from giving away animals as prizes in certain instances except upon approval from the Secretary of Agriculture."

"The purpose of the law, which has been on the books now for several years, is to avoid cruel treatment of animals. Therefore, without approval from the Maryland Department of Agriculture, a person may not give away any animals as a prize for, or an inducement to, enter a contest, game, or any other competition; as an inducement to enter a place of amusement, or as an incentive in any business agreement where an animal is given for the purpose of attracting trade."

"Exceptions are provided for persons who give away animals as prizes for agricultural or conservation projects, or for slaughter. Any person who violates this law is subject to a $500 fine."

AVMA Warning

The American Veterinary Medical Association urges you not to give your children rabbits, chicks, or ducks for Easter. Excitement and enthusiasm over the gift often result in broken legs and crushed wings.

The injury or death of the animal is a traumatic experience for the child. Animals that survive generally end up in an animal shelter. It is impossible to place them all and many have to be destroyed.

The veterinarians remind parents that these are outdoor animals. They cannot be housebroken and may cause serious housekeeping and health problems. Public health authorities warn that children and adults in close contact with these animals may be exposed to salmonellosis, a severe gastro-intestinal infection.

Salmonellosis is rarely fatal, but often requires medical treatment including hospitalization. Other pets as well as family members may become ill.

Because of the problems surrounding these animals, many communities have passed laws prohibiting the sale of rabbits, ducklings, and chicks as pets.

Easter and the coming of spring should be a time of joy and rebirth, not a period of physical illness, psychological trauma, and the needless deaths of young animals. The American Veterinary Medical Association urges parents to leave rabbits, chicks, and ducks on the farm and give their children stuffed toys instead.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the Office of the Secretary, Maryland Department of Agriculture, Parole Plaza Office Building, Annapolis, MD 21401.

USDA Issues

A Decision To Amend Milk Order

If at least two-thirds approve, milk producers now operating under the Middle Atlantic federal milk marketing order would be assured of continuing to share in the order's market "pool."

P. R. Smith, a U. S. Department of Agriculture assistant secretary, said this final decision, still subject to approval by dairy farmers in the market, is based on a public hearing last October in Philadelphia, Pa. To determine producer approval, the department's Agricultural Marketing Service will poll dairy cooperatives.

Pooling, Smith said, is a method where all dairy farmers supplying the market share in the higher-valued Class I sales of the market and the lower-priced reserve milk that is used in manufactured dairy products. This is accomplished by combining the "class-use value" of all milk that handlers use and then paying all dairy farmers an average price, regardless of how their own milk was used.

The decision would reduce the pooling standards for both distributing plants and reserve processing plants and permit a federation of cooperative associations to operate a pool reserve processing plant. The decision also would increase the number of days' milk production of a producer that may be diverted to nonpool plants when it is not needed for fluid use at a distributing plant.

The decision denies a proposal that would require Middle Atlantic order handlers to pay not less than minimum order prices for milk that is received by transfer from cooperative association supply plants pooled under another federal order.

Copies of this final decision are available from Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine, 300 N. Lee Street, Rm. 320, Alexandria, Va. 22313; or from the Dairy Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250.

SALE

Special prices on Masland Carpet now thru April 16.

UPSTAIRS-DOWNSTAIRS

When buying carpeting, an important rule to remember is: Always choose the very best carpeting you can afford, especially for the heavy traffic areas of your home. Since stairways are often the most walked-on areas of all, this rule is particularly important when buying carpeting for this area. Here are some hints to help you protect your stairway carpeting.

Buy an extra foot of carpeting for stairways. Have the extra length folded in under one or two risers at the top of the stairs. Periodically, shift the carpet down and place the less worn carpet on the treads. To keep your carpeting attractive longer.

Mathias Bill To Allow Appeal Of Federal Fines

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has introduced a bill to set up a new review court where small business owners may appeal fines by federal regulatory agencies.

A Small Business Administrative Review Court with limited jurisdiction would be established under the Executive Branch. It would hear only cases involving federal orders, citations and fines of $2,500 or less.

"The small and independent business owners in this country can hardly keep up with the growing number of regulation-promulgating agencies, much less the regulations themselves. Many businesses find themselves in violation of regulations they consider unfair or unrealistic," Senator Mathias explained.

When confronted with a federal order, citation or fine considered unjustified or inequitable, a business generally has two avenues of redress. It can appeal to the administering agency or it can take the matter to federal court.

"Regrettably, in many of these instances, neither of these options offer an expedient resolution," the Maryland Senator said. "Appealing to the administering agency is difficult and burdensome and the cost of appealing through federal court is often more than the original fine."

The Small Business Administrative Review Court concept is based on the highly successful experience of the U. S. Tax

Court in the conduct of small tax cases, according to Senator Mathias. Established in 1924, the Tax Court created a forum where taxpayers could obtain independent review of their tax liability without prior payment of the deficiency. Time between trial and disposition is usually 90 days.

To preserve due process and make certain the new court has only limited jurisdiction, the Mathias bill has the following features:

—A determination by the court would be final and could not be reviewed by any other agency.

—The petitioner, if not satisfied by the ruling of the court, would have the option of requesting further review of the case through normal administrative channels.

—Petitioners would be encouraged to represent themselves, thereby keeping the form as well as the procedure of the court simple and straightforward.

—A nominal filing fee of $10 would encourage small business owners to seek remedy when they consider they have been inequitably treated.

"If the Small Business Administrative Review Court succeeds in alleviating regulatory inequities currently faced by small business, as I believe it will, then we will have taken a significant step in achieving due process for a group of citizens whose enterprises are vital to our society and economy, but who often find their concerns neglected," Senator Mathias emphasized.

Preston County Health Council To Hold Elections

The Preston County Health Council will soon be holding election meetings throughout the County for the purpose of filling its open Board seats for 1979. Health Council Bylaws provide that half of the 16 elected Board seats are to be open for election each year. Each magisterial district has two consumer seats, for a total of 16 seats countywide. Eight additional seats are appointed, for a full Board of 24. In preparation for the elections, the Board's Nominating Committee is currently developing a nomination slate of people who are interested in serving on the Board. Board members are elected for a two-year term by the general membership of the Council. Those elected this year will serve until July of 1981, at which time they may run again for reelection. All Board members are volunteers. They receive no money for their time and services.

The Health Council was formed in 1974 as a non-profit community organization. Its purpose is to help meet the physical, as well as environmental health needs of county residents. It is currently operating four primary care clinics in the communities of Bruceton Mills, Eggon, Newburg, and Kingwood. Its 24-member Board is made up of both health professionals and consumers of health care. They set policy for the clinic facilities, as well as discuss ways to improve other health services. The sixteen elected consumers on the Board attempt to represent their own areas of the county, as well as see things from a countywide perspective.

COLLEGE RESOURCES LISTED — To commemorate National AAUW Week March 25-31, the Garrett Branch of the American Association of University Women is presenting to the guidance offices of Southern and Northern High Schools a list of resource people who can talk to high school students about the colleges from which they graduated. Miss Anna Bishop, left, and Mrs. Pam Peddicord, right, guidance counselors at Southern, look through college catalogues and the AAUW Resource List with Denise Grimm, a senior. Other interested people in the community who would like to be included as resources should contact Miss Bishop at Southern.

Any Preston County resident interested in becoming a general Health Council member may do so by sending in their name to the following address: Preston County Health Council/Membership, 425 E. Main Street, Kingwood, WV 26337. No dues or fees are charged for being a member.

In May, district meetings will give the membership of the Health Council from each district a chance to meet their candidates, and vote to determine who will represent them on the Countywide Board of Directors.

Any citizen of Preston County interested in being considered as a nominee on the slate now being prepared is encouraged to send name, address, telephone number, residential district and signature to the same address listed above. All forms must be postmarked no later than April 3.

"Count your assets and stamp out self-pity."

As food prices continue to rise, we are all becoming more and more concerned with how we are going to make ends meet and still feed our families nutritious meals. Therefore, I thought it would be good to pass along some food shopping hints to help to fight inflation and to stretch the food dollar. Follow these suggestions and perhaps you'll feel more successful as you leave the grocery store.

—Plan your menus before you shop and shop for at least a week at a time. Follow the Basic Four food guide in planning menus: 2 servings of milk daily, 2 servings of meat daily, 4 servings of fruits and vegetables daily and 4 servings of breads and cereals daily. Be planning ahead, you can often plan to use your left-overs in another day's meals.

—If your family enjoys snacks, try to include them on your menu plans. Plan nutritious snacks such as oatmeal or peanut butter cookies and milk-based drinks, fruit juices or vitamin fortified fruit drinks. Homemade snacks are often less expensive than store-bought snacks.

—Check newspapers and circulars for weekly specials and sales. You can save money buying the specials that your family will use. Use coupons when available.

—Make a shopping list. Write down items you think of throughout the week and use your planned menus. Group "like" items together. Check off items as selected. Add up prices as you go through the store so you don't spend more money than planned. Always check your cupboards before shopping.

—By staples such as flour, sugar and cornmeal only once or twice a month if possible. Most grocery products cost less per serving when larger packages are purchased.

—Remember: non-food items like laundry supplies, cosmetics or magazines, should be kept separate from your food budget even though they are often purchased at the grocery store.

—Compare costs of different forms of food (fresh, frozen, canned, dried, etc.). To find the best buy, divide the price by the number of servings.

—Store brands usually cost less than name brands, but watch for specials on name brands, you may get a bargain.

—Prices of fresh fruits and vegetables change with the season. Buy seasonal fresh foods when they are most plentiful.

—Read labels to learn quality, size, and weight of food products. The largest amount of ingredient in the product is listed first and the smallest amount last. The family must be satisfied with the quality for it to become a bargain, for it's not a good buy if it goes to waste.

—In buying meats, cost per serving is the best measure for value. For example, a boneless pot roast gives more servings than a bone-in pot roast. Use meat substitutes: peanut butter, cheese, beans, eggs, etc.

—For cooking and baking, use dry milk or evaporated milk mixed with water. If your family doesn't like this milk, mix it half and half with fresh milk.

—Grow your own vegetables, even a few plants can help lower your food bill.

—If possible, eat before you go shopping. If you go to the store hungry, you may buy things you don't need and spend more money than planned.

Good luck on your next shopping trip!

Two-Day Nurses' Workshop Slated

Also included will be skills and behavioral modification, problem-solving abilities and value clarification.

The workshop will run from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. each day. A registration fee of $2.00 per nurse will be collected to cover cost incurred by the college.

Mathias Introduces Bill To End Taxation On Interstate Electricity

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has introduced a bill that could save Marylanders $8 million in taxes on electric bills, according to a release from his office. The Generated Electricity Tax Equity Act of 1979 introduced by Mathias is aimed at eliminating the tax on electricity generated in one state but consumed in another.

He said, "Maryland, particularly Western Maryland, uses significant amounts of electricity generated in West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Both states impose gross receipts taxes on such electricity; the taxes are levied on electricity exported from the taxing state. Their own consumers do not pay it."

Maryland consumers are paying higher rates because utilities in West Virginia tax electricity consumed in Maryland. Marylanders have been temporarily relieved from paying the Pennsylvania tax, pending the resolution of a law suit brought by Maryland electric utilities.

"As a result of this unfair tax," Mathias said, "Marylanders may potentially pay an extra $8 million on their electric bills each year. The tax not only creates hardship for individuals but it also hurts Maryland commercial users and makes their products relatively more costly and therefore less competitive."

Senator Mathias became concerned about the electricity tax when Maryland utilities had to import large amounts of power generated out of state during last year's coal strike. At that time Mathias asked the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) to investigate how utilities purchase power from interstate electric connections.

"The discriminatory tax borne by Maryland consumers is exactly the type of discrimination that must end," he said.

He added that Baltimore Gas and Electric Company customers "may pay 15 percent more in taxes for electricity generated in Pennsylvania than do the residents of Pennsylvania." He said the additional cost is due to the "unfair, discriminatory tax imposed by Pennsylvania."

Residents of Virginia, New York, New Jersey, Arizona and other states also pay higher electric rates because of similar interstate utility tax laws.

"It is unfair that many of my constituents in Western Maryland, particularly the elderly and others on fixed incomes, have to cut their food expenditures to subsistence levels and keep their homes at a chilly 60 degrees so they have money left over at the end of the month to pay their electric bills," Mathias said. "While I am convinced that these tax laws violate the Commerce Clause of the Constitution, I think we should not await a court decision on this issue. These cases often take years to work their way through the courts, and Western Marylanders want and need relief right now," he said.

Suds Tax Revenues Up For Month, Year

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reports that revenue collected from alcoholic beverage and tobacco taxes for February 1979 was $5,678,370, up 1.03 percent over February 1978 receipts.

Distilled spirits and beer tax revenues displayed an exceptional 13.39 percent and 10.6 percent growth respectively over the corresponding month of the last fiscal year. Wine tax receipts declined 2.09 percent and cigarette tax revenues declined 4.43 percent.

Net receipts over the first eight months of Fiscal Year 1979 totaled $52,915,033, exceeding revenue for the same period of last year by $24,459, or a growth of 1.19 percent.

Distilled spirits and cigarette tax revenues were almost identical to revenues for the same period last year. The overall increase resulted from substantial gains from wine and beer tax receipts. The eight month wine tax collection of $2,131,979, represents a 3.06 percent growth and beer tax receipts increased 11.15 percent to provide $6,416,335.

Extending A Helping Hand —

Senior Citizens Find New Friends, Interests Through Services Program

People helping people is the way it should be, and the way it is at the Senior Citizens Service Program in the county. Seniors who are in good health are paid to assist those who are less fortunate. The program in its first thirteen months had enlisted and assisted 1,150 elderly, particularly with transportation problems. For further information on helping or being helped, contact Mrs. Marilyn Metheny, 334-3314 or 334-3399.

By Carol Canan

There are basically three types of elderly — those who are in good health, those in frail health who wish to maintain their independence within their own homes, and those who require skilled nursing care provided by a loving family or in a nursing home.

For those in the first two categories, the ideal solution would be for those enjoying good health and mobility and with time on their hands to help those who are less fortunate, such as those in the latter two categories. And in the year and a half the Garrett County Commission on Aging has operated a Senior Citizens Service Program, local people have been working toward the ideal.

Simply stated, the Senior Citizens Service Program has as its chief goal help for all senior citizens, particularly those who wish to remain independent as long as possible. The help is provided through a network of services, some offered within the organization and others through cooperating agencies such as Social Services, Community Action, the Health Department and the House of Hope.

In the first thirteen months of the program 1,150 people were in the programs in some way.

One of the most important functions of the Senior Citizens Service Program is providing transportation to doctors, shopping, ophthalmologists, or other outings. For older persons who are housebound unless they have the services of a family network or good neighbors, this can be an important part of their lives.

The program maintains a station wagon, provided for by federal monies and an assist from local fund raising and the county commissioners. The wagon is driven by one of the Senior Aides, who picks up those in need of a ride and delivers them to their destination, and then returns them to their homes.

Program director Mrs. Marilyn J. Metheny and her aides try to coordinate doctors' visits, particularly those in other towns such as Morgantown or Cumberland. In this way two or more patients may make use of the transportation and cut down on duplicate trips.

The service program also provides aides throughout the county who will assist with homemaking chores such as vacuuming, dusting, washing windows, etc. Right now there are four women in various parts of Garrett County who help several elderly people with general household chores.

For the male aides in the program, there are the handyman chores, too small for most contractors, needed around homes of the senior citizens. Minor plumbing repairs, window replacement, step repair, and other general, light maintenance work is offered, with the person receiving the services providing the materials and the aides providing the expertise.

The Senior Aide program helps keep two aides in the senior activities center in Garrett Community College's Oakland Center. Their wages are paid, and they work with arts and crafts, bingo, and other phases of the center to help keep activities rolling smoothly.

Through the Senior Citizens Service Program, a mini center is operated two days a week in Grantsville, and work is progressing on a center in Friendsville. Ample interest has been demonstrated by the citizens, who are presently joining together at a Friendsville restaurant for lunch and then gather to play bingo or cards, to socialize, or to work on arts and crafts.

Several of the Senior aides are presently working in an outreach program, following up leads on people who may be in need of help and visiting homes to tell more people about the services available. The aides also assist with out-of-town runs for the Meals on Wheels program, carrying two meals a day five days a week to frail, housebound elderly.

One project which is destined to receive more attention from the program in the near future is the telephone reassurance segment, in which volunteers call homebound elderly to make sure they are well, and to give them a contact with the outside world. There are presently six women who call eighteen people each day to give them a link with someone who cares about them.

Additional services are financial, with an emergency utility fund for those experiencing difficulty coping with high utility or heating costs. The Senior Citizens Service program also offers senior citizens discount cards and Golden Age passes.

Social activities are important at any age, and the program includes the annual picnic at Herrington Manor, bowling at Par-Matt Lanes, cooperation with the Hot Meals program under the direction of Mrs. Vivian Tasker, day trips, a day at the Fair, and cheer visits to Cuppet-Weeks Nursing Home.

A bi-monthly newsletter is another facet of the program, including such items as the formation of a Legal Aid Bureau, changes in the food stamp program requirements, pharmacy assistance program, recognition of birthdays, and many other changing items of interest to seniors.

The Senior Citizens Service Program knows just where to look for help if they cannot meet a need for an older person. They have handy the functions, phone numbers and names of agencies which can be counted on to give assistance wherever and whenever required.

Currently, there are two main divisions of workers under the Senior Service Program heading. Some of the workers are employed through the Pennsylvania Green Thumb program, which provides funds and sets its own hiring requirements, and the remainder work through various Maryland funding programs such as Title III and Title VII.

The Green Thumb program has 24 openings and is one of the larger agencies providing services of this type. To be eligible to work as an aide in this program, income must be no more than $4,300 for a couple or $3,300 for a single. Aides receive $3 per hour. There are presently seven openings for aides.

The Title III or Title VII funds come through federal and state programs, through the Western Maryland Agency on Aging, a division of Tri-County Council. Financial criteria are similar to those of the Green Thumb program. For further information on becoming an aide, contact Mrs. Metheny at 334-3314 or 334-3399.

The money coming in to support the programs is channeled through the non-profit Commission on Aging, since federal funds may go only to private, non-profit corporations. Robert Ford is chairman of the county Commission on Aging.

There is approximately $100,000 coming into the county each year for services to older Americans, principally divided between the Hot Meals program and the Senior Citizens Service Program. Seven Green Thumb people are working "on loan" from the senior citizens program to the Hot Meals program to enable Mrs. Tasker and her cooks to continue their meal centers in outlying areas — Crellin, Jennings, Kitzmiller, and Deer Park.

Mrs. Metheny is the only full-time staff person employed in the Senior Citizens Service Program. Senior aides are Mary Browning, Oakland; Fannie Sullivan, Mt. Lake Park; Reginald Rodeheaver, Oakland; Ellen Humberson, Friendsville; Evelyn Bowman, Star Route, Frostburg; Beryl Foy, Friendsville; Lena Broadwater, Swanton; and Milton Knotts, Oakland.

Title III workers are Thomas Fraley, Oakland, and Retha J. Durst, Grantsville.

In the Green Thumb segment are Eleanor Compton, Mt. Lake Park; Emma Jane Shaffer, Crellin; Betty Wilt, Oakland; Edwin Carlson, Oakland; Robert Cogley, Oakland; Anna Mann, Mt. Lake Park; Genevieve Meyers, Friendsville; Marietta Paugh, Oakland and Charles Herring, Oakland.

Title VII employees are Ada Shaffer, Crellin; Freda Handwork, Grantsville; Ida Carr, Oakland; Mildred Barrick, Kitzmiller; Norma Butts, Kitzmiller, and Lena Shahan, Deer Park.

Many accomplishments of the aides and Green Thumb workers are tangible, such as the program to help pay emergency fuel utility bills for those in need. This year $2,800 was budgeted for this purpose, allowing 50 people to be helped in amounts of up to $50.

But many more of the accomplishments are intangible but none-the-less important. For two brothers who are in their 70s and who must share a walker, for wheelchair patients, for someone just home from the hospital, this program can mean the difference between living and existing. The program can help provide elderly with continued independence and enjoyment in living, and quite often the gratitude of these people is heart-touching and a reward in itself.

There need be no idle hands at the senior citizens' centers in the county when arts and crafts projects are offered on a regular basis. The various projects are all part of the Senior Citizens Service Program which is open to all senior citizens in the county.

Harry Fox Certified As Church Assistant

Harry M. Fox, Oakland, was recently certified as a lay assistant of the Western Pennsylvania-West Virginia Synod of the Lutheran Church in America.

The position involves serving as worship leader in congregations in the absence of an ordained pastor. He will serve in the West Virginia and Maryland parishes of the Synod.

Byron To Send Representative To Oakland Monthly

Citing a desire to better serve the citizens of Garrett County, Rep. Beverly Byron has announced that she will be sending Margaret Barkman, her Cumberland office manager, to Oakland the first Monday of each month to assist constituents who may be experiencing difficulty in receiving government benefits justly due them.

"These monthly staff visits will supplement my own regular tours of the area and hopefully will provide greater continuity and convenience to the citizens of Garrett County," Mrs. Byron said.

The first staff visit is slated for April 2 at the Oakland Senior Citizen Center at 104 Center Street from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. No appointments are necessary.

VERNAL EQUINOX

Procession of the earth's axis causes the celestial equator (the projection of the earth's equator out from the earth) to move so that its intersection with the ecliptic (the plane of the earth's orbit) also moves. The two points of intersection of the celestial equator with the ecliptic are the equinoxes. Once, the spring equinox was in the constellation, Aries; now it is in the constellation, Pisces. The Tropic of Cancer was named when the summer solstice occurred in the constellation, Cancer; however, this point, halfway between the spring and autumn equinoxes is now in the constellation, Gemini. Slowly the zodiacal constellations seem to be moving eastward as the equinoxes move westward through them. Slowly too, the seasonal constellations advance into the preceding season because of the precession of the equinoxes.

MOON

No phase of the moon occurs this week although the moon is waxing all week. The moon will be waxing all week. Moonset will be at 7:22 this evening. Tuesday moonset will be at 35 minutes past midnight.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn are visible during the night. Venus rises about 1 1/4 hours before the sun rises. It is moving into a more unfavorable viewing position each day. Jupiter sets about midnight with the stars of Cancer. Saturn is visible most of the night among the stars of Leo. It sets before dawn.

DAYLIGHT INCREASES

Today is the 87th day of this year. The sun appears higher in the sky as the earth continues its revolution around the sun. At noon the sun appears to be as high above the southern horizon as it will be at noon on the 14th of September. More daylight occurs each day as the sun appears higher in the sky. Sunrise was at 6:10 this morning. This evening, the sun will set at 6:37 p.m. Next Tuesday sunrise will be at 6:09 a.m. Twelve hours 43 minutes later the sun will set at 6:43 p.m.

Higher Income Increases State Revenue Estimates

The Maryland Board of Revenue Estimates, consisting of State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein (Chairman), State Treasurer William S. James, and State Budget Secretary Thomas Schmidt, told Governor Hughes recently that it expects Maryland personal income to be an additional one percent higher for Fiscal Year 1979 than was anticipated earlier. Stating that the higher personal income will result in more General Fund revenues, the Board increased official Fiscal Year 1979 revenue estimates by $69 million, and projected Maryland's General Fund surplus as of June 30, 1979 to be $26.9 million. Tax relief measures now pending in the General Assembly would be funded from the Fiscal Year 1979 surplus, leaving a projected surplus of $63.75 million or less as of June 30, 1980.

The Board anticipates Fiscal Year 1979 Maryland personal income to increase 9.5 percent over the $32.73 billion received during Fiscal Year 1978. In its report to the Governor, the Board noted that Maryland's economy surged during October, November and December 1978.

"Recognizing the continued growth of Maryland's economy, especially in personal income, and the strong record of our revenue collections to date, we are increasing estimates of individual income tax revenue for State purposes for Fiscal Year 1979 by $10 million, to $977.5 million. We are also increasing the Fiscal Year 1979 retail sales and use tax estimates by $10 million, to $697.1 million," Comptroller Goldstein reported to Governor Hughes.

Citing the sales records of new and used automobiles, the Board of Revenue Estimates increased its Fiscal Year 1979 estimate of the General Fund portion of the motor vehicle titling tax by $1.5 million, to $38 million. One-fifth of the automobile titling tax goes into the State's General Fund.

State Lottery revenues are also expected to increase by an additional $15 million for Fiscal Year 1979, to $135 million, partly due to a change in accounting and partly because of continued growth of the ticket sales.

Additional revenue increases are anticipated in the interest earned on State investments because of the continuing high interest rates and additional funds available for investment due to a slowdown in spending for public school construction. "There continue to be conflicting opinions on how long interest rates will remain at current levels, but based on present information, we are raising the Fiscal Year 1979 estimates of interest earnings to $50 million, a $20 million increase and four times what the earnings were just two years ago," Mr. Goldstein said.

The Board's new estimates predict General Fund revenues to total $2,384,027,000, a three percent increase over the $2,315,027,000 estimated on December 11, 1978.

The various increases in revenue estimates also affect Maryland's projected General Fund revenue surplus. At the Board's meeting on December 11, 1978, the surplus was projected to be $302 million as of June 30, 1979. This is a combination of the unappropriated $79 million surplus from Fiscal Year 1978 and the revenue increases during Fiscal Year 1979.

In arriving at a new projected surplus, the Board reduced its previous estimate by the revenues needed to fund deficiency appropriations for the current fiscal year. The resulting $108.5 million figure was then increased by the latest increased revenue estimates, providing a projected General Fund surplus on June 30, 1979 of $206,573,000.

In projecting Maryland's General Fund surplus for Fiscal Year 1980, the Board accounted for a reduction in State revenues of $68.3 million which would result from passage of legislation now being considered by the General Assembly, including increases in the standard deduction for State income taxpayers, distribution to the subdivisions of unclaimed income taxes withheld, a sales tax exemption for machinery and equipment and a further reduction in portion of residential fuel bills subject to sales tax.

The Board also considered $91.7 million in supplemental appropriations now being submitted to the General Assembly as part of the Fiscal Year 1980 budget, including various tax credit programs, use of part of the surplus to fund capital projects, and grants to the 23 counties and Baltimore City.

These result in a projected surplus on June 30, 1980 of $63.7 million.

In revising Fiscal Year 1980 revenue estimates, the Board increased original individual income tax estimates by $10 million and retail sales and use tax estimated by $8 million.

While the Board increased its original Fiscal Year 1980 estimate of State Lottery revenues by $10 million, the new estimate at this time calls for no growth between Fiscal Year 1979 and 1980. Maryland Lottery revenues may be affected by the outcome of a study of legalized gambling now being conducted for the Washington, D. C. City government.

In addition, the Board is projecting no growth in the motor vehicle titling tax for Fiscal Year 1980 because of the uncertain fuel supply situation and the uncertainties of the economy.

The Board anticipates a fall-off in revenues from interest on investments, and projects those earnings to be $30 million for Fiscal Year 1980, due to the expected decline in interest rates.

"Published reports indicate that California is expecting a $2.5 billion surplus, Texas a $743 million surplus, New York a $601 million surplus, Indiana a $469 million surplus, and Florida and Washington State are expecting more than $300 million each," Mr. Goldstein said.

Is Ring Around The Collar Discriminatory?

By Joan Hanauer
UPI Television Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Watching television from a sickbed gives the viewer a different perspective and poses new questions.

Why is it only men are afflicted by ring around the collar?

In all those ads, it's always the man with the problem and the wife who looks guilty. Instead of looking at the subject, why doesn't she tell her husband to change his shirts more often?

As if there weren't enough guilt to go around, daytime television advertising appears to concentrate on giving women a new veneer of guilt — sort of a waxy yellow build-up of the soul.

Just about the time she gets her bathroom disinfected and wiped clean of imaginary mildew, she's supposed to worry about having her kitchen smell like a rose garden.

If her husband likes garlic, he'll have to eat out. And use mouthwash that doesn't leave him with medicine breath.

The children's clothes provide a real gold mine of guilt. There is no way to keep a small boy clean — he has a built-in magnet for mud and his center of gravity is such that the shortest distance between two points is a pratfall.

So why should she knock herself out getting the ground-in dirt out of his knickerbockers? From the sound of the pitchmen, dirty dungarees are next to Godless atheism and a mother who would send her kid out in the morning in a stained T-shirt probably can't answer the threatening voice-over who asks where her children are at 10 o'clock at night.

How about the husband who complains that his deodorant soap is always the smallest soap in the house? Didn't it ever occur to rest of the family to buy the same soap if they like it so much?

Along with guilt goes insecurity. Maybe your husband really cares about the softness of his toilet paper and you never realized it, like you never knew he preferred packaged stuffing to mashed potatoes with his chicken.

And if he drinks the neighbor's coffee but won't touch yours, how long will it be before he decides that coffee isn't the only thing that's better next door?

Most unsettling of all is the way program content carries on the guilt campaign against the housewives of America.

Just pick a soap opera — any soap opera. No matter whose home you enter, whether it's the heroine or the home-wrecker, there isn't a magazine out of place, a thread on the carpet or a couch cushion unplumped. For most women, the house stays picture perfect for about five minutes after a major clean-up. For a more exact figure, multiply the time elapsed by the size of the family and you can come up with the approximate size of the mess.

But don't worry. An ordinary woman can turn into super-wife. All she has to do is include an iron supplement in her diet.

Extra Tax Assistance Offered As April 16 Deadline Approaches

"As the deadline grows nearer for taxpayers to file their State tax returns, and more people are hurrying to complete those returns, the Maryland Income Tax Division is extending its office hours as a convenience to taxpayers who need assistance," State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced recently.

All of the regional State income tax offices will remain open Saturday, April 7 and Sunday, April 14, from 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. to provide weekend help to taxpayers working on their returns.

In addition, taxpayers can call for advice after regular hours on Monday, April 2 and Monday, April 9, from 4:30 p.m. until 7:00 p.m.

All Maryland income tax offices will also remain open on Friday, April 13th, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., when most other State offices are closed in observance of Good Friday.

On Monday, April 16th, the filing deadline, all offices will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 9:00 p.m. to provide last minute taxpayer assistance.

"I remind taxpayers that our tax experts in these returns, the Maryland Income Tax Division is extending its office hours as a convenience to taxpayers who need assistance," State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein added. "All you have to do is bring along a copy of your completed Federal return and any necessary W-2 statements."

In 1942, British forces led by "commandos" raided Nazi-occupied St. Nazaire, France; and blew up harbor instal-

Social Service Plan Being Distributed For Public Review

Kalman R. Hettelman, State Secretary of the Department of Human Resources, has announced that Maryland's proposed plan for the provision of social services under Title XX of the Social Security Act for the program year July 1, 1979 — June 30, 1980 is now being distributed for public review and comment.

According to Secretary Hettelman, the State's plan is designed to enable individuals, families and children residing in Maryland to restore, maintain, or enhance their capability for self-support, self-care, independent living and improved family life.

Specific services to be provided to accomplish these goals include: adoption, services to drug addicts and abusers, community home care, day care for children and adults, family planning, foster care for children and adults, and legal services. Also included in the plan are multi-purpose senior citizen centers, protective services for adults and children, single parent services, and special services to the handicapped.

Recipients of public assistance under the Aid to Families and Dependent Children (AFDC) program and recipients of federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) or state supplementary benefits are eligible for these services.

In addition, persons whose gross income does not exceed certain limits in relation to family size may also be eligible. Group eligibility will be instituted for persons receiving home-delivered congregate meals or who are participating in multi-purpose senior citizen centers. Fees will be charged for certain services including day care for children, community home care, and homemaker/chose services. Detailed information on fees is available in the Title XX plan.

A copy of the plan is available without charge from local departments of social services. The proposed plan is available for public review at all local departments of social services beginning April 2, 1979, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

The public is invited to review and comment upon the contents of the proposed plan for Fiscal Year 1980. In addition, public participation in early-stage planning for the Fiscal Year 1981 Title XX Plan, as well as discussion of federal legislation which may have an impact on Title XX funding, will be solicited at a public hearing on May 4 in Annapolis.

Comments from the general public will be received from April 1 to May 18, 1979. Written comments should be submitted to: Ms. Geraldine Aronin, Assistant Secretary for Program Planning and Evaluation, Department of Human Resources, 1106 North Eutaw Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

ASC Committee Says 1978 Farm Programs Successful

"The results of our 1978 programs are in and they are good," Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said.

Farm prices closed the year nearly 23 percent higher than in 1977, despite record world and domestic supplies. Net farm income rose nearly 40 percent to more than $28.1 billion. The book value of farmers' assets increased $82 billion in 1978 to $790 billion. However, the farm debt also increased a record $17 billion, leaving farmers with a net equity of $960 billion, up $66 billion from last year.

The ASC official said: "The programs are designed to build stability into agriculture so that farmers can plan and profit. We raised target prices to provide income and price protection based on actual cost of production. We established price supports for major crops at levels that would ensure their competitiveness on world markets. And, we have a handle on surpluses."

Designed to give farmers the freedom to make their own economic decisions, farm programs have strengthened prices and assured consumers of adequate food supplies.

The 1979 voluntary programs are about the same as they were last year. "They will help sustain farm production, maintain stable prices, and keep inflation down," Crowl said.

Most Forfeit

Collateral In

District Court

Most cases noted on the docket of District Court were of those who forfeited collateral. A few stood trial before Judge Lewis R. Jones.

The "not guilty" plea of Ernest B. Swiger, RD 1, Oakland, was sustained. He had been charged with failing to yield the right-of-way from a private drive.

Mental Health Program Unveiled

A comprehensive nine-point program to deal with a host of problems facing the nation's mentally ill has been unveiled by the National Mental Health Association.

The program covers such areas as mental health research, community services, long-term mental disability, patient's rights, and insurance and is part of the Mental Health Association's effort to lead a major campaign to insure adequate mental health services for the estimated 30 million Americans who need them.

The Association's 850 affiliates across the country, including the Mental Health Association of Maryland and its twelve area chapters, will assist the national organization in carrying out the wide-ranging program.

"The time has arrived," said Maryland Association President Jeff VanSickle, "when those of us who are concerned deeply about the plight of the mentally ill must use all of our resources to actually bring care and treatment into the 20th Century."

Mr. VanSickle said the program fits very closely with the recommendations made by the President's Commission on Mental Health for improving the nation's mental health care. Those recommendations were outlined last month by First Lady Rosalynn Carter in her appearance before the Senate Subcommittee on Health and Scientific Research. Mrs. Carter was honorary chairman of the Commission and is a Board Member Emerita of the National Mental Health Association.

The Mental Health Association is a non-profit, voluntary citizens' organization that works for the prevention of mental illness, the promotion of mental health and the improved care and treatment of the mentally ill. The Association receives its financial support from the public and is now gearing up for its annual "Bellingrath" fund drive to be held throughout Maryland in May—Mental Health Month.

Volunteers wishing to assist in the fund drive are asked to call their local Mental Health Association or the State Association at 235-1178.

In loving memory of our mother, Grace Reck, who passed away March 30, 1971.
Leaving our family on earth broken hearted. We often think why these things be. We do not think God's will, but mere mortals are for we know in His wisdom and wondrous grace God has planned for us all a more glorious place. So God called her to heaven and the blue, and later will call each of us to be with Him, too.
Sadly missed by 12 children, family and friends

Winter Ban On Utility Shut-Offs To Be Removed

The Public Service Commission's (PSC) winter ban on utility shut-offs will be removed April 1, according to Columbia Gas of Maryland local manager, W. C. Deems.

Mr. Deems asks that any residential customer with delinquent gas bills to contact the utility immediately to try to work out a payment plan, if he has not already done so.

He said Columbia Gas wants to help any customer who has fallen behind in his gas bill payments. Special, individualized payment plans can often be worked out to ease payment problems for financially troubled customers.

"We are willing to try to work out special payment plans with any customer having a difficult time paying for gas service. We can only help, however, if the customer contacts us," Deems said.

Arbor Day To Be Observed On Wednesday, April 4

Arbor Day will be marked in Maryland this year on April 4, the first Wednesday in April, according to a proclamation issued by Governor Harry Hughes.

In the proclamation Governor Hughes encourages the citizens of Maryland to participate in the observance of Arbor Day by planting ornamental and forest trees for the benefit of the State's environment.

The Maryland Forest Service joins in the recognition of Arbor Day and encourages the planting of trees for the benefit of all people.

This year marks the 100th observance of Arbor Day in the Nation. Arbor Day calls attention to the forest of Maryland, the State's most valuable renewable and recyclable resource, according to the Maryland DNR. Forests provide timber for industry, habitat for wildlife, watershed protection, clean air, improved water quality, recreational opportunities and aesthetic beauty, the DNR said.

The first Arbor Day was celebrated in Nebraska in 1872. Julius Sterling Morton, a reporter for the Nebraska City News, glorified the virtues of planting trees to his readers and finally convinced the Nebraska Board of Agriculture to proclaim the world's first Arbor Day and encouraged the planting of over a million trees on the first Arbor Day. Morton appreciated the value of planting trees to prevent the loss of soil, the erosion of windbreaks and other conservation activities. For early leadership in tree planting, Nebraska became known as "The Tree Planter State."

The Maryland Forest Service was created in 1896 when John and Robert Garrett gave the State nearly 2,000 acres of woodland in Garrett County for use as a demonstration of forest management. An agency of the Department of Natural Resources, the Maryland Forest Service observes Arbor Day by taking part in ceremonies throughout the State.

Peck OPEC Right Back, Peck Plus Per Peck

It is downright disgusting to hear everyone from the President of our country on down, saying that there is nothing that can be done except to acquiesce to the greedy oil price demands of the OPEC countries.

The OPEC countries are just as dependent on our foods and manufactured commodities as we are on their oil. In fact, they may be even more so.

The increases in oil prices are not due to increased costs for producing the oil, but due to the personal whims of the political leaders of those countries, who are personally accumulating vast fortunes for themselves. The Shah of Iran is a typical example. And similar leaders exist in all the OPEC countries.

The vast amounts of money being drained from the industrial oil importing countries is not being used for the benefit of the majority of the citizens of the OPEC countries, but only for the few in high government positions. All the OPEC leaders are fearful of revolutions such as recently occurred in Iran. They want to get all they can get before the revolutions start.

What can we do? It is very simple!

If our President can get such politically opposed countries as Egypt and Israel to get together and sign a peace treaty, he should have no difficulty at all in getting the oil importing industrial countries together to take united action against the OPEC countries.

One very simple action would be for each oil importing country to impose an export tax on commodities going to an OPEC country proportional to, but 1½ times the percentage increases in the oil prices. A 1.1 increase would only start an escalation race.

In fact, united action by the oil importing countries could probably bring oil prices down to reasonable levels, around $7.00 to $9.00 per barrel. This would have a major benefit in equalizing international trade balances, holding down inflation, and stabilizing the whole world economy, and, ultimately helping the people of the OPEC countries.

Senate Approves Three Property Tax Relief Bills

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The Senate Friday passed three property tax relief measures, but killed a fourth that sponsors said would have ended uniformity in property tax assessments to help homeowners.

Debate was begun on a bill, proposed by Gov. Harry Hughes, to extend circuit breaker property tax relief benefits now available to the elderly to homeowners under age 60.

Currently, elderly homeowners can receive up to $900 in refunds, while those under 60 can receive up to $450. The Hughes proposal would raise to $900 the possible relief for those under age 60.

The Senate voted 22-23 against a second bill, offered by Sen. Fred Malkus, D-Dorchester, that would have asked voters to amend the Maryland constitution to allow disparate tax assessment rates on property.

"We ought to do something for the homeowners, we haven't done anything so far," Malkus said.

He said property tax relief through the circuit breaker program that allows refunds when property taxes go above certain levels does not provide help to those homeowners who really need it.

But Sen. Arthur Helton, D-Harford, said allowing distinctions within classes of property owners is not what the Senate wants to do.

However, final Senate approval was given unanimously to a bill that would require the state comptroller's office to inform property owners that they are eligible for circuit breaker tax relief. Proponents said the circuit breaker program is not being used by all those eligible.

Another bill passed by the Senate 43-2 would prohibit the 23 counties and Baltimore city from setting an assessment inflation rate lower than that of the state. The state rate of 50 percent means property can be taxed at least half its assessed value.

Another bill given final Senate approval would give tax breaks to people who receive lump sum retirement benefits so they would not have to pay high income taxes when they receive the money.

The three bills passed by the Senate now go to the House of Delegates for approval.

Another Hughes Administration bill passed by the Senate and sent to the House would provide an extra $2 million in education aid. The measure would increase the state's share of current expenses for public schools throughout Maryland.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor a measure that would prohibit the use of automated telephone dialing systems for the purpose of taking surveys used to solicit purchases.

Currently, companies take telephone surveys through the use of systems that automatically dial telephone numbers and play pre-recorded messages urging people to buy certain products.

Reporters would be guaranteed the right to protect their news sources under a bill passed unanimously by the Senate.

The bill, offered by Sen. Edward Conroy, would protect a news reporter's unpublished notes from search and seizure by authorities.

The measure was supported by the Maryland-Delaware-D.C. Press Association.

Four Companies Called To Brush Fire Wednesday

Four fire companies, one from Allegany County, were called last Wednesday to a brush fire on Westernport Road.

Five acres on the Marshall Broadwater property on Westernport Road burned March 28 during the fire, which was halted by volunteers from Grantsville, Lonaconing and Eastern Garrett. Bittinger was also called out, but the call was cancelled after other firemen arrived on the scene and brought the blaze under control.

The fire, which was reported to Grantsville at 2:22 p.m., was first reported to be burning over 30 acres. Grantsville responded with 14 men and three trucks, and the companies were on the scene one hour.

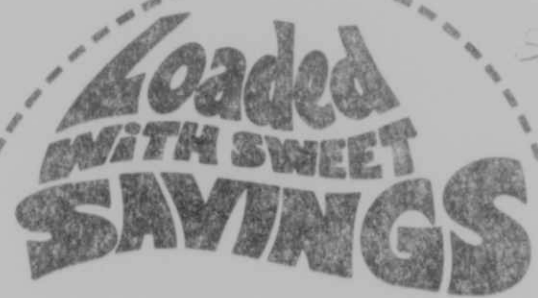

Just prior to the call on Westernport Road, Grantsville had been called to a car fire in the eastbound lane of Route 48, at the Lower New Germany exit. Damage was reportedly minor to the vehicle, which belonged to Julius Carey, Frostburg.

Ten men and two trucks responded to that fire. On March 30, a field fire was reported at 12:45 p.m., at the Bernard Merrill residence at the intersection of the Westernport-Lower New Germany Roads. Twelve men and two trucks from Grantsville responded to the scene, and were assisted by members of the forestry department. Bittinger volunteers were also called, but that call was cancelled before the men arrived. Firefighters remained at the scene one and a half hours, containing the fire to approximately three acres.

Prepared Childbirth

A New Beginning For Today's Family

By Beverly J. Sincell

Gone are the days when an expectant mother goes into labor not knowing what to expect and comes out of the delivery room not really knowing what happened. Gone too is the scene of the expectant father nervously pacing the floor in the waiting room with no idea what was happening while his wife gives birth to their child. That familiar, but antiquated, scene is finally leaving the stages in America's hospitals and is being replaced with a much healthier and happier scene.

The new scene still involves the expectant mother and father and the doctor and nurses. All the action occurs in the labor and delivery rooms, with both the expectant mother and father alert and actively involved in giving birth to a new life. The idea is called Prepared Childbirth and any couple who has been through the training and delivered their child using this method will say one thing about it, "It's fantastic!"

In Garrett County, the number of couples opting for Prepared Childbirth as the way to give birth to their child is growing and Garrett County Memorial Hospital and its physicians and nurses in the Obstetrics ward are "going the extra mile" to cooperate with these couples.

Doctors William Pope, Paul Williams and Herbert Leighton all will voice their support for the program.

Dr. Pope, who was instrumental in bringing the program to Garrett County, stated that "Parents who have taken Prepared Childbirth Classes have definitely had an easier time with the labor, have enjoyed the delivery more and have grown more with the birth of their child."

Dr. Williams, mentioned the difference between the couples who have had the training and those who haven't is obvious in the delivery room. "Those who have taken the classes show less fear and anxiety," he explained. "Basically, I think it is very beneficial for all those involved."

"The classes," says Dr. Leighton, "are a definite bene-

QUESTIONS PLEASE — The combination of Sara's good humor, sincerity, and expertise make her Preparation for Childbirth classes interesting as well as enjoyable. She encourages questions from her students because, as she says, "That way the classes are not so much what I want them to know, but what they want to know." The two hour classes are divided into time for lecture and time to practice various techniques to be used during labor and delivery. Through her classes, Sara aims to expose parents to the various choices they can make about how they want their childbirth experience and to encourage them to feel free to make those choices.

fit to the people who have taken them. They seem to be better motivated and have a better understanding of what is happening."

There's a lot of enthusiasm generating from many people for the program, but the main source comes from the course instructor, Sara Fredlock. Without Sara's efforts and dedication Prepared Childbirth would not be an option for Garrett County couples. Sara, a certified childbirth educator, has devoted many of her evening hours to instructing prepared childbirth classes in Garrett County for the past two and a half years.

The classes Sara instructs are a part of the Parenting Classes offered free of charge by the Garrett County Health Department in cooperation with the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Sara receives no monetary compensation for her services, her work with the program is strictly voluntary. "I don't want to put a price tag on having babies," she says. "If I charged for my classes, I would only be getting to a small percentage of those having babies." Sara's main concern is reaching as many expectant parents as she can throughout the county and she believes a charge for her classes would only drive them away.

To Sara, who has been teaching childbirth education classes since the 1960's and who is a registered nurse with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Nursing, prepared parenting

IT'S JUST LIKE AN ATHLETE — Sara Fredlock, Garrett County Childbirth Educator, explains to her class of expectant parents the importance of practicing the exercises and techniques they are learning. "It's just like an athlete," she says, "unless he goes out and practices, he can't expect to perform to his ultimate capability. It's all a part of the idea of Planned Childbirth, the belief that childbirth is a family affair and the family should understand it, enjoy it, and become actively involved in it. Sara's classes involve both lecture and practice. When the time comes to practice, the couples place mats, blanket and pillows on the floor and get ready to begin.

is an idea which did not come too soon to the United States. She points out that this country is the last in the world to accept the principles involved in prepared parenting.

One of the major ideas of prepared parenting is family involvement in the childbirth experience. "Before the 1920's," Sara explained, "most people had their children at home." Though this was an ideal way to involve the family during childbirth, it was not ideal for health reasons, as high death rates during childbirth proved. But when the majority of women were moved into the hospital for delivery, the idea of family involvement was more than forgotten, it was discouraged. "They kept the mother confined and kept her sterile," Sara said.

"Since the sixties we have combined the hospital care with the family," says Sara. "We have tried to keep the idea of the family unit. Now, more and more, the family is physically getting involved and participating."

This is as it should be to Sara. After all, she points out,

A REAL TREAT FOR THE EXPECTANT MOTHER — Sara, center, demonstrates a technique which brings relief for the back pain expectant mothers often experience. Husbands, or whoever will accompany the mother at the time of delivery, are taught various techniques to make the expectant mother

CONTRACTION BEGINS — Dave and Lu-Jean Bosley, Oakland, practice a simulation of a contraction. The idea is for the coach to apply intense pressure to a sensitive area of the woman who uses various breathing patterns designed to help withstand the pain while simultaneously concentrating on relaxation. Through this type of practice, the couple ultimately will be able to use the techniques more effectively during actual labor and delivery.

FINDING THE PRESSURE POINT — Sara finds the pressure point, an area of sensitivity, on Joan Parker, to begin an exercise which simulates a labor contraction, while husband Larry observes. Sara tries to work with each couple in her class to help them practice their techniques and exercises properly.

THE LAST RESORT — Madeleine Collins, right, who assists Sara in teaching the Prepared Childbirth classes, observes as Chris Sines practices the Pattern Pain Blow technique, the breathing technique designed to help withstand the greatest amount of pain during labor and delivery. Husband Gary serves as her extra support.

Not all came tumbling down, but an unscheduled slip toppled part of the pyramid at the physical education show Monday at Southern Middle School gymnasium. Students from Broad Ford Elementary School, under direction of Phil Caruso, instructor, performed varying gymnastic feats in a show for parents following the April PTA meeting at Broad Ford. The final pyramid brought about an impromptu game of "Guess who this is?" for two youngsters on the right.

Brenda Buser Is New Broad Ford PTA President

Mrs. Brenda Buser, Swanton, was elected president of the Broad Ford Elementary School PTA during elections Monday evening.

She will be assisted in the coming year by Mrs. Ann Giotfelty, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Inhoff, treasurer; and Mrs. Lucy Burnett, secretary. The new officers will be installed at the May meeting.

John Hill, outgoing president, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Rayetta Bettel, secretary, read the minutes and Ann Giotfelty gave the treasurer's report.

Those attending were told that the $400 contributed by the PTA had been used in conjunction with a physical fitness program instigated by phys ed instructor Phil Caruso, and that trophies, merit patches and other items had been purchased. When Mr. Caruso tested the children for the program, he discovered that every child was below his or her fitness level. So far, only one child in the school has earned the president's physical fitness medal. This is one of the few physical fitness programs for elementary students in the country.

Two applications are available to attend the summer PTA conference June 20-22 in Ocean City.

Appointed to a committee to plan programs for next year's meeting were Louella Friend, Carolyn Hill, and Marianne Green.

Kindergarten registration will be held April 9 and 11 at the school. Parents needing forms may contact Mr. Johnson, principal.

All students are or will be taking the Metropolitan or Iowa Basic Skills achievement tests, to determine what they are doing in comparison with what they can do. The results will assist in grouping youngsters next year.

Following the meeting, students from the school provided a physical education show under the direction of Mr. Caruso at the Southern Middle School gymnasium. Events included demonstrations by three Southern Middle gymnasts who have been assisting Mr. Caruso: Jim Flanigan, Beth Sanders, and Lisa Savage; and demonstrations by various students in tumbling, vaulting front flips and dive forward rolls, cartwheels Cartwheels were performed by all sizes and ages of youngsters from Broad Ford School during Monday evening's physical education show. Various types of gymnastics, ranging from simple to very difficult, were part of the show for parents who attended following a PTA meeting. Phil Caruso is physical education instructor at Broad Ford.

and round-offs, and forward and backward rolls. Refreshments were served at Broad Ford at the conclusion of the show.

Two Brush Fires Reported Thursday

Two fire companies in the northern sector of the county were called out last Thursday afternoon to douse brush fires. At 3:15 a fire was reported on state highway property at the underpass of Route 48 in Friendsville. Friendsville firefighters responded and remained on the scene approximately one-half hour. No damage was reported.

Two and one-half hours later, Accident volunteers responded to the scene of a brush pile fire on the James Fratz property one mile north of the town, near Hamburger House. Fire was contained at the brush pile, and firemen kept watch for approximately one hour before returning to the station. Accident responded with two pieces of equipment and 25 men.

Garrett County Health Center, where Sara works, and they will be enrolled in the series scheduled closest to the last two months of pregnancy.

In her first class in Garrett County Sara taught seven couples. Now she averages from 16 to 25 couples in each class. But she is still not reaching all she would like. In 1978, she taught 130, of those, 114 delivered at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, yet there were 311 births at Garrett Memorial last year.

In the prepared childbirth classes, as Sara describes them, "The mother is taught physical and emotional means of dealing with the labor process and the father is taught to coach and support his wife. They learn to minimize the need for medication and maximize the meaning of the experience."

Through learning what to expect and how to deal with it the parents can overcome the fear-tension-pain cycle which Sara says has scared people for years.

Dr. Williams observed that the classes help the couples know as much about the labor and delivery as can be taught. "You can't teach them everything, because every delivery is different."

Sara emphasized that couples can not compare their labor and delivery to another couple's because "everyone experiences it differently."

"There is no such thing as failure or success," she states, "you do the best you can with what you have."

The classes also are aimed "at producing healthy mothers and healthy babies."

Dr. Pope commented that more alert and healthier infants have been born at Garrett Memorial because more mothers have taken the prepared childbirth classes and have required less anesthesia. He pointed out though that cases do arise when medication is necessary even when the mother has taken the classes.

Sara's classes are composed of both lecture and practice of breathing and exercise techniques. Through lecture and films, Sara covers a variety of topics all concerned with the labor and delivery. "There is so much lecture to be given," she said, "but I much prefer to answer questions. That way the classes are not so much what I want them to know, but what they want to know."

Sara conducts her classes informally, especially during the last half of each evening's session. That is when the couples hit the floor to begin practicing the various breathing patterns and exercises designed to help the mother work with her body and to make the birth as meaningful and painless as possible.

Some of Sara's students include couples who are having their their second, third or even fourth child. "The classes are great whether you are having your first one or not," says Elmer "Butch" Redinger, Oakland. He and Paula, his wife, took the classes when they were expecting their second child, and both agree prepared childbirth made a great difference in the type of birth experience. Their description of the birth of their first child is identical to the traditional picture. "With the first," said Paula, "I was medicated and was groggy. I really had no realization that I was a mother until the next morning." Butch, of course, was pacing outside in the waiting room and had no participation in the birth of his son.

The birth of their second child was a different experience. "It was great," said Butch, "being a part of it." Madeleine Collins, McHenry, thought the classes were worthwhile enough to agree to help Sara teach them. She and her husband, George, took the classes before giving birth to their first child. "We hadn't had that much contact with babies," Madeleine stated. She and George were the first in either family and among their friends to begin a new generation. "We found the classes to be a tremendous help."

Madeleine believes her experience in giving birth helps her to answer questions posed by expectant parents. She is working to receive certification to also be a childbirth educator and, perhaps, in the future, lighten Sara's teaching load.

Sara hopes to increase the number of childbirth educators in the area. "I would like to train more teachers," she said, "to make the classes smaller, more personal."

Sara prefers her classes to be as personal as possible. She is truly interested in those who have attended her classes, as any who have taken her class will verify. She asks all her students to send her a birth report describing their own child's birth and their observations of the event. One comment she frequently receives from the mother's concerns their ability to withstand the pain. "I didn't think I could do it," many of them have said.

But, of course, they all have made it, just like their own mothers. Just like all mothers. The major difference is they have learned to see pregnancy as a natural state and have learned to understand it and to work with it. They have learned it because Sara has taken the time to teach them.

As Dr. Leighton said, "Without Sara's interest and dedication the Childbirth Education Program would not have been as successful."

Yet, Sara sees that there is more work to be done, more expectant parents to be reached. She emphasizes that the class is for all expectant parents, whether married couples or those who choose single parenting.

She believes giving birth to a child is an important family affair—she has devoted her life to helping families to understand and enjoy it.

NEW COACH — Bill Hunt was recently appointed the new baseball coach of Southern High School. He began this first full year of teaching and coaching in Garrett County by assisting athletic director, Tom Woods, with the SHS football team. Hunt then inherited the 9th grade basketball team and directed the Junior Rams to a 12-4 record. Bill was a 1972 graduate of Valley High School where he lettered in baseball. He then attended Frostburg State College, also playing ball, and graduated in physical education.

Southern Athletic Association To Hear Proudfoot April 11

The Southern Garrett Athletic Association will meet Wednesday, April 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Proctor Kidder American Legion Post #71 in Oakland.

Speaking that evening will be O. Delbert Proudfoot, a member of the Allegany County Board of Education and one of the organizers of the Fort Hill High School Athletic Boosters' Association. Mr. Proudfoot will relate the factors which made their organization a success, and a question-answer session will follow.

The S.G.A.A., working with the Garrett County Board of Education, is in the process of planning an athletic complex to be constructed over a four-year period. This complex, if funded by money appropriated by the County Commissioners, will include a complete relocation of fields, development of tennis facilities, track, parking, and a rest room-locker room building.

The goal of the S.G.A.A. is to offer support to the Garrett County Board of Education for the improvement of the overall athletic program for boys and girls for Southern High School. Since their organization in 1976, some of the major accomplishments of the S.G.A.A. include the purchasing and installation of new lights at the Southern football field; the purchasing of new uniforms for the various team sports; a pitching machine, and a universal gym; operation of a concession stand for football, basketball, and wrestling events; and sponsoring the annual sports banquet. All of this was done by holding barbecues, operation of a food stand during the Autumn Glory Parade, raffle sales, operation of concession stands, and bake sales.

Parents of Southern athletes, Southern Alumni, coaches, and all other interested persons are invited.

Officers of the S.G.A.A. are Max Messenger, president; Dennis Colaw, vice president; Doris Goldsborough, secretary; and John Toston, treasurer.

Ram Baseball Challenges New Coach

With two losses under their belt already, the Southern High Baseball team offers first year coach, Bill Hunt, a rebuilding challenge. Last year the team posted a 5-11 season ledger, with nine lettermen returning this season.

Returning lettermen include John Sanders, Joe Patterson, Jeff Colaw, and Craig Sullivan. Frank Lewis and Corky Sweitzer are two-year veterans of the batmen. Lewis batted .439 last year and Sweitzer hit a .320.

the youngest in SHS memory. The 21-man roster sports four freshmen, five sophomores, eight juniors, and four seniors.

Coach Hunt has great expectations for his team, though he said success hinges on two factors — "how quickly our young players mature and how our players adjust to my system."

A 20-game schedule sees the Rams playing six double-headers and eight single games as they compete in the PVC Class B action this season.

Rams Drop First Two Of Season

In their first game of the season, the Southern Rams baseball team, under the direction of new coach, Bill Hunt, was defeated 2-0 by the Keyser Golden Tornado last Thursday at Clark Field.

The Tornado tallied in every inning as winning pitcher Randy Crowe went the distance with a seven-hitter, while Keyser's John Kruk crossed home plate on five occasions. Jim Simms was the losing pitcher.

The Rams then dropped the season's second game this past weekend, 5-4, to Tygart's Valley on the West Virginian's diamond.

First baseman, Corky Sweitzer, connected on two hits including a double for Southern whose four errors aided the winner in their five runs.

Joe Patterson pitched for the Rams while Tygart's winning pitcher was Butch Womley.

The Rams challenge St. Francis High in Morgantown, W. Va., this afternoon.

Water Colors By Elizabeth Patton Displayed In Denver

Eight water colors by Hollywood, Fla. artist Elizabeth Patton were featured recently at the Denver Museum of Natural History. Celebrating the artistry of the American Indian, the museum included the artist's works which depict Seminole domestic life on the Brighton reservation.

Mrs. Patton and her husband, W. Duncan Patton, were among the early settlers on Deep Creek Lake, owning and occupying a cottage on Rock Lodge Road for a number of years beginning in the early 30's.

The eight paintings are owned by the Denver museum. The series included such Seminole scenes as patchwork sewing, cooking and washing and the chopping and bundling of palmetto fronds.

Mrs. Patton enjoyed special recognition some years ago when she was commissioned to paint her now well-known scenes "Harvest for Palm Sunday," for Ford Times magazine.

The watercolors told the story of Seminole squaws cutting, preserving and packaging palm spikes used in churches on Palm Sunday. The paintings were placed in the Ford Collection of American Art.

Mr. and Mrs. Patton have been Hollywood residents near Miami for more than 34 years. A daughter, Mrs. Harold Cox, resides in New Orleans, La.

Water Colors By Elizabeth Patton Displayed In Denver

Eight water colors by Hollywood, Fla. artist Elizabeth Patton were featured recently at the Denver Museum of Natural History. Celebrating the artistry of the American Indian, the museum included the artist's works which depict Seminole domestic life on the Brighton reservation.

Mrs. Patton and her husband, W. Duncan Patton, were among the early settlers on Deep Creek Lake, owning and occupying a cottage on Rock Lodge Road for a number of years beginning in the early 30's.

The eight paintings are owned by the Denver museum. The series included such Seminole scenes as patchwork sewing, cooking and washing and the chopping and bundling of palmetto fronds.

Mrs. Patton enjoyed special recognition some years ago when she was commissioned to paint her now well-known scenes "Harvest for Palm Sunday," for Ford Times magazine.

The watercolors told the story of Seminole squaws cutting, preserving and packaging palm spikes used in churches on Palm Sunday. The paintings were placed in the Ford Collection of American Art.

Mr. and Mrs. Patton have been Hollywood residents near Miami for more than 34 years. A daughter, Mrs. Harold Cox, resides in New Orleans, La.

Missionary Will Speak At Rocky Drean Assembly

The Reverend David W. McCulley, an Assemblies of God missionary to Nigeria, will be a guest speaker this Friday, April 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the Rocky Drean Assembly of God, located on the Bray School Road, the Rev. Robert Mayfield, pastor, has announced.

During their last term of missionary service, consisting of four years and six months, Mr. McCulley and his wife, Lois, served as administrators and house-parents of the Assemblies of God high school hostel located in Jos, Northern Nigeria. There are nine large hostels in the city of Jos, all housing students from throughout West Africa who are attending Hillcrest School. Hillcrest School was built and is staffed by fourteen different mission boards who minister in West Africa.

The McCulleys, along with other missionaries, were active in the evacuation of Biafran refugees during the Civil War in that country. When Mr. McCulley first went to Africa in 1960, he and his family were stationed at Cape Palmas, Liberia. Mr. McCulley served as business agent and secretary-treasurer of the Liberian Field Fellowship — the group of A/G missionaries in that country. Later they transferred to Eastern Nigeria where Mr. McCulley was business manager and Nigerian Field Fellowship secretary-treasurer. They did extensive evangelistic work among the rivers' tribes and served as missionary advisors in that area.

Both Mr. McCulley and his wife are graduates of Southwestern Bible College located in Waxahachie, Texas.

Mr. McCulley pastored in Baltimore and Fairmont, W. Va., where he was presbyter of the Western Section of the Potomac District and served for a short time as District Missionary Secretary.

The McCulleys will be returning to Nigeria for their seventh consecutive term of service. They will assist in office administration for the International Correspondence Institute.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

Compare these two descriptions of your pet: a healthy, loving animal that offers protection and friendship to family and friends, or a neighborhood pest that destroys property and creates ill will. In most cases, the deciding factor is the pet owner — you.

Statistics from humane societies demonstrate that many pet owners don't understand their responsibility to provide proper animal care and control. As a result, city and county agencies spend 200 million dollars annually to collect stray animals and investigate animal attacks and abuse.

Pet owners could effectively control the mushrooming companion animal population, and the related problems of animal waste and animal attacks. The solutions lie in responsible pet ownership, confining the pet to its own property, and spaying or neutering household pets that will not be used in a planned breeding program.

Many pet owners confess to a lack of enthusiasm when faced with a new litter of puppies or kittens, but fail to see the benefits of a neutered pet.

In addition to reducing the numbers of dogs and cats abandoned to street life, a neutered pet stays closer to home and is more affectionate. Contrary to popular belief, a neutered animal need not become obese. With less food (since its energy requirements are less), the neutered pet can stay trim and slim. Some cities even subsidize spaying clinics to reduce the cost to pet owners.

In large urban areas, the presence of hundreds of thousands of wanted and unwanted dogs has created a health hazard. New York City spotlighted the problem when officials recently estimated that 20,000 tons of animal feces and 1 million gallons of urine were deposited yearly on city streets and in parks. In an attempt to control the problem, New York City now requires dog owners to clean up solid waste deposited by their pets on public property, or be fined from $25 to $100.

New York City is not alone in this regard. Denver, Phoenix, Washington, D.C., and Chicago have similar laws, even though they are not strictly enforced. Numerous other cities are waiting to see the effects of the east coast ruling.

Unsupervised pets in the more rural areas create a different problem — increasing numbers of them attack humans as well as livestock. Newspapers often report incidents of young children bitten and mauled by roaming neighborhood dogs. Both game animals and commercial livestock are sometimes slaughtered by packs of dogs allowed to roam free.

Free-roaming dogs that terrorize a neighborhood are not all strays. It's not uncommon for household pets that are turned out for the night to form aggressive hunting groups.

Again, the answer to this animal problem is responsible pet ownership, including neutering and spaying. AMERICAN HUMANE MAGAZINE reports that castration was recognized as the answer to canine aggression as early as 1880 by a Dr. Alexander Hadden. A more recent study in the JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN VETERINARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION confirmed that castration reduced roaming by more than 90 percent. Aggression and urine marking by males were reduced by one-half to one-third.

If pet owners do not attempt to control their pets, we may be faced with governmental restrictions on pet ownership. A total ban on pet ownership in highly concentrated urban areas (now law in Tokyo), a limit on the number of pets per family, or automatic euthanasia for any pet found running the streets are some of the alternatives. These may seem needlessly harsh, but represent real future possibilities unless we make progress in limiting the size of our pet population in this country.

Larcenies, Poison Attempt Noted In Deputy Reports

Two larcenies involving destructions of property and an attempt to poison a family pet were reported in recent days to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

On March 29, Guy William Hinesbaugh, Oakland, reported the larceny of a pair of leather hiking boots and two sets of keys from his vehicle. His mailbox was also damaged by a blunt object, apparently a club of some type. Estimated loss value, including damages, was set at $140. The incident had occurred March 9, but was not reported until the end of the month.

Curtis Lee Miller, Route 2, Swanton, reported to Deputies that during a 20-minute time span on March 29, someone had tried to poison his dog. He had left his property about 3 p.m. and returned at approximately 3:20, when he noticed that someone had put poisoned material beside his pet's house. The dog apparently did not eat any of the poison, and the police report did not indicate what type of poison had been used.

Carl Cassidy, Railroad, Pa., who owns a cabin in the Swanton area, reported March 29 that someone had ransacked his property. Entry was made by breaking a window. No items were determined to be missing inside the cabin, but an outbuilding had also been entered and several gallons of gasoline were missing. The incident occurred sometime between the Christmas holidays and March 29.

Two Are Slightly Injured In Mishap

The drivers of two vehicles apparently were only slightly injured in a collision at the intersection of Rts. 135 and 560 last Tuesday.

Harvey C. Friend, 56, RD 1, Oakland, was stopped on Rt. 560 waiting to make a right turn onto Rt. 135, Verne Virginia Groves, 62, Pocahontas Street, Mt. Lake Park, eastbound on Rt. 135 turned into Rt. 560 at a speed too great to negotiate the curve and struck the left front of the Friend pickup. Sgt. H. W. Graham investigated.

Natural gas has no odor of its own. We add one for your protection. Here's what you should do if you smell gas.

If the odor is slight, and it's near an appliance, it may simply mean a pilot light is out and needs relighting. But if there's any doubt, give us a call.

If the odor is strong, leave the building. Don't flip the light switches. Don't use any other electrical equipment. Don't light a match or candle or try to find the leak yourself. Be sure everyone is out, and call us from a neighbor's phone.

If the odor is outdoors, call us immediately. Don't wait for others to do it.

You can reach us anytime. If you smell gas, one of our servicemen will come right to your home and make a thorough inspection.

Natural gas is one of the safest energies you can use. And together we'll keep it that way.

Lutherans believe IN THE RESURRECTION OF THE BODY

Miracle, did you say? If surely is! That's the glory of the Christian faith. Death is not the end. Hope is not limited to this life. The Christian lives in sure and certain hope of the resurrection of the body, because Christ—who arose from the dead—promises this same resurrection to every one of His followers.

Explain it, if you say? Who can explain a miracle? Lutherans make no attempt to explain the mechanics of the resurrection of the body. It's a matter of faith. Their only touchstone is Scripture.

Christ has promised, "I go to prepare a place for you. And when I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, that where I am you may be also."

In what manner will this be? St. Paul offers a glimpse saying, Christ "will change our lowly body to be like His glorious body," and that means a resurrection, a new body, one that is everlasting and will never suffer. This resurrected Christian will praise God eternally.

Would you like to know more of this confessional and ecumenical church? A cordial welcome will be yours.

Snow Causes

Several Mishaps

Several accidents occurred last Monday, March 26, due to slick, snowy roads. Most were in the southern part of the county.

Linda Lou Bray, 28, and her two passengers, Theresa, 10, and William Bray, 7, of Rt. 496 west of Swanton, were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad. She was westbound on Md. 135, when she lost control on the extremely icy roadway, crossed the center, struck some guard rails, and continued on down the embankment. Tfc. L. R. Rosage investigated.

About an hour later two cars collided head-on on U. S. 50 just east of Table Rock. Henry W. Moats, Aurora, WV, was eastbound and noted the car driven by Roger Carl Lenhardt, Cleveland, Ohio, stopped in the eastbound lane. The road was extremely slick due to fallen snow. Moats skidded into the Lenhardt car, not being able to pass it due to other traffic in the westbound lane.

Two hours later an accident occurred on the snow-slicked

Cranesville Road near the bridge over Muddy Creek. Harold Blaine Teets, Terra Alta, WV, was southbound at about 35 m.p.h., slid on the slick road and overturned.

Earlier in the morning, James A. Swinson, P Street, Mt. Lake Park, was northbound on Sand Flat Road just south of Pergin Farm Road. He met a vehicle on the wrong

Grantsville Students Present Spring Program

Each child in Mrs. Harris' and Mrs. Norris' kindergarten classes at Grantsville Elementary School had a speaking part in a spring program March 28, and the entire group sang several songs in praise of the season. Shown above as they took part in "The Chicken" poem are Laurie Stanton, Diana Platter, Kevin Beltzel, Beth Durst, Cindy Stanton, and Timmy Thomas.

A "Good Morning" poem gave four youngsters in Mrs. Harris' and Mrs. Norris' kindergarten classes an opportunity to show dramatic skills March 28 at Grantsville School. Assisting with the program about spring were Susan Cuper, David Butler, Todd House and Tracy Edwards.

"Roar, Said the Lion" and roar these youngsters did as they presented their part of a spring program at Grantsville Elementary School. Portraying the lion was Gretta Bittinger, while the part of the lion was presented by Brian Hunt.

A SUCCESS — The passive solar home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morris, Pennington Street, Oakland, proved its worthiness this winter when the Morris family paid only $150 to heat the 3000 sq. ft. structure, from April 1, 1978 to April 1, 1979. The home, which was featured in an earlier edition of The Republican, makes use of energy conservation features. The owners attribute their savings to the design of the house as well as their own conservation measures. "Our living patterns were important in keeping our heating bills down," Mr. Morris said. The home features a unique system of "Paneldrapes," which are closed in the evening to lock in the passively stored solar energy.

Dear American Cancer Society:

Well, you've got yourself another convert. This week, after almost six years and a pack a day, I finally quit smoking. I want your ad campaign with a picture of a dirty ash tray and the caption, "Do your kisses taste like this?" that did it. It wasn't your bumperstickers that provoked. "If you smoke only one pack a day, you may only have cancer in one lung," that did it. It wasn't even those cute little placemats you distribute to your restaurants... the ones with pictures of diseased lungs, that did it.

Now, one night I was sitting in bed contemplating the pros and cons of smoking. I weighed the pros (gratification against the hole burnt in a $90 jacket, the "trench mouth" I woke up with every morning, and the three rounds of chemotherapy as my doctor's "treatment") and the cons (the fact that I was smoking only one pack a day, you may only have cancer in one lung, that did it. It wasn't even those cute little placemats you distribute to your restaurants... the ones with pictures of diseased lungs, that did it).

Everyone has been so wonderful throughout my ordeal. They've all been giving me helpful hints. One lady told me how she quit smoking 15 times over the past three years. Some of my friends have even been helping me chewing gum. It's supposed to help. Having never had a cavity in my life, I'm thrilled to death to be repairing a $20 a month cigarette habit with $600-worth of dental bills.

One does not undertake to quit smoking lightly. It requires a certain amount of finesse... and just a smattering of ceremony. First, before I quit, I smoked my last cigarette. While the burning enders smoked the charcoal filter, I flushed the darn thing down the commode. I thought of it as similar to being "baptized" in water. I then took a shower and exorcised the customary "breaking of the albatross" ceremony. Later, I phoned all of my friends to tell them the good news. They met the announcement of this auspicious occasion with some skepticism.

"Hey, Dave," I belatedly exclaimed, "this is Jim. Guess what? I've given up my worst vice."

"Someone hit you with a gnatcatcher suit?" he exclaimed.

"No, idiot — I quit smoking."

"Terrific! I'll sleep much better knowing that."

"Look," I said, "I wanted you to be the first to know. Aren't you glad for me?"

"To the brink of tears, when did you quit?"

"Oh, about an hour ago," I chuckled.

"What will power?" he asked.

"Smart aleck."

Anyway, I think you people at the Cancer Society should warn the public that quitting is not easy. Withdrawal is also very unpleasant. I was so irritable that I had Captain Kangaroo to shut up my morning.

Then came the physical problems. The cold sweat and dry mouth.

Five Local Women Attend Workshop In New Windsor

Five Garrett County women attended a statewide workshop for Farm Bureau Women's Committee members and directors on March 30 at the New Windsor Brothers Center, New Windsor.

Y. D. Hanes, past secretary of the Maryland Farm Bureau, was the guest speaker. He spoke on women's roles in the food industry and what women can do to oppose certain regulations in using pesticides and food preservatives in producing and processing foods. He said this may be accomplished by sending representatives to meetings and hearings.

Mrs. Joyce Huges of Penn-Stevens, gave a monologue on the farmer and his wife in today's world.

Committee reports were given by Mrs. Martha Clark on the Farm City Festival, Mrs. Macklin Price on the Farm County Contest and Mrs. Carolyn Downing on Rural Health Updates.

After lunch at the Center, the group was given a tour of the service center area where church, dentists, and doctors are located, and a snack was served. Hanes also stopped for a talk to the women on the subject of "How to Reach to Recovery."

Each woman has had a personal support group. Hanes, past secretary of the Maryland Farm Bureau, was the guest speaker. He spoke on women's roles in the food industry and what women can do to oppose certain regulations in using pesticides and food preservatives in producing and processing foods. He said this may be accomplished by sending representatives to meetings and hearings.

Reaching to Recovery Program Explained By Local Volunteer

"We like to think of ourselves as making advertisements for the fact that a woman can look wonderful and have an active enjoyable life after breast cancer surgery," says Helen Carleton, volunteer for Garrett County American Cancer Society's Reach to Recovery Program.

Garrett County's Reach to Recovery volunteer is among some 10,000 women nationwide who have been carefully trained to help new patients. Each volunteer has had a mastectomy, mastoid breast removal or cancer treatment and each has reportedly adjusted well to her surgery.

"We are all different ages and have different interests and talents," Mrs. Carleton said, "but our basic message and our way of helping is the same: with the permission of the patient's attending physician, we make a hospital visit in those first, often very trying days after surgery. We give a new patient a chance to express her feelings about her surgery and to ask highly important, non-medical questions — How will my husband react to me? What should I tell my children? Will I have to buy all new clothing?"

Each Reach to Recovery volunteer brings a special kit to the patient as a gift from the ACS. The kit includes a temporary artificial breast from that a woman can wear in the hospital; information for special exercises that some women may need; and a manual of practical advice and sensitive encouragement written by Mrs. Teresa Lasser, founder of the Reach to Recovery program. Reach to Recovery volunteers also provide up-to-date information about testing suits that are particularly attractive for women who had breast surgery and a listing of the great variety of artificial breast forms available today.

Reach to Recovery is but one aspect of the Garrett County American Cancer Society's program of service and rehabilitation for cancer patients. In addition, the ACS supports cancer research, helps train and informs medical professionals who deal with cancer, and teaches the public how to safeguard against cancer through many public education programs.

reduction programs on pesticides, early detection and facts about prompt treatment.

He said the help of every one in Garrett County is essential in the fight against cancer.

Reaching to Recovery Program Explained By Local Volunteer

"We like to think of ourselves as making advertisements for the fact that a woman can look wonderful and have an active enjoyable life after breast cancer surgery," says Helen Carleton, volunteer for Garrett County American Cancer Society's Reach to Recovery Program.

Garrett County's Reach to Recovery volunteer is among some 10,000 women nationwide who have been carefully trained to help new patients. Each volunteer has had a mastectomy, mastoid breast removal or cancer treatment and each has reportedly adjusted well to her surgery.

"We are all different ages and have different interests and talents," Mrs. Carleton said, "but our basic message and our way of helping is the same: with the permission of the patient's attending physician, we make a hospital visit in those first, often very trying days after surgery. We give a new patient a chance to express her feelings about her surgery and to ask highly important, non-medical questions — How will my husband react to me? What should I tell my children? Will I have to buy all new clothing?"

Each Reach to Recovery volunteer brings a special kit to the patient as a gift from the ACS. The kit includes a temporary artificial breast from that a woman can wear in the hospital; information for special exercises that some women may need; and a manual of practical advice and sensitive encouragement written by Mrs. Teresa Lasser, founder of the Reach to Recovery program. Reach to Recovery volunteers also provide up-to-date information about testing suits that are particularly attractive for women who had breast surgery and a listing of the great variety of artificial breast forms available today.

Reach to Recovery is but one aspect of the Garrett County American Cancer Society's program of service and rehabilitation for cancer patients. In addition, the ACS supports cancer research, helps train and informs medical professionals who deal with cancer, and teaches the public how to safeguard against cancer through many public education programs.

reduction programs on pesticides, early detection and facts about prompt treatment.

He said the help of every one in Garrett County is essential in the fight against cancer.

After lunch at the Center, the group was given a tour of the service center area where church, dentists, and doctors are located, and a snack was served. Hanes also stopped for a talk to the women on the subject of "How to Reach to Recovery."

Each woman has had a personal support group. Hanes, past secretary of the Maryland Farm Bureau, was the guest speaker. He spoke on women's roles in the food industry and what women can do to oppose certain regulations in using pesticides and food preservatives in producing and processing foods. He said this may be accomplished by sending representatives to meetings and hearings.

State Announces Eleventh Grade Scholarship Program

The Maryland State Scholarship Board is now considering 1979 applicants for the Distinguished Scholar Program. High school juniors with a grade point average of at least 3.70 on a 4.00 scale who have taken a scholastic aptitude test may inquire at their high school guidance office for possible consideration for the program.

Financial need is not a factor for qualification, and 100 of the top applicants will receive $500 scholarships for four years if they choose a Maryland post-secondary institution.

The deadline for filing with the state through the high school guidance office is July 15. Further information is available at high school guidance offices, or by calling the state scholarship board at 363-4095.

Grantsville Dairy Farmers Selected For MCMP Award

Seven dairy farm families were honored by fellow members of Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc. for producing milk of exceptional quality during the 44th annual meeting and banquet of MCMP at Hunt Valley Inn, near Baltimore, March 24.

The awards program was created by MCMP in an effort to recognize those producers who make extra effort to produce milk of the highest quality. The program is also designed to encourage the members to continue their efforts and to motivate others.

The quality production awards are divided into three categories: Excellence, Gold and Silver. The most prestigious of the awards and consequently the hardest to earn is the Award of Excellence. During 1978, only seven members of the Cooperative Milk Producers organization earned this recognition.

The seven winners included

Rufus and Driscilla Yoder, of Grantsville.

There were 35 producers earning the Gold awards and 83 the silver awards.

Criteria for selection of the recipients of the Excellence award include: all standard plate bacteria counts under 10,000 for 1978; no off-odor rejections; no positive antibiotic test results; no unsatisfactory sediments; no somatic cell counts in excess of 1,500,000/ml. and, a 99 average on all farm inspections by the health department and the cooperative in 1978.

Two Graduate From Dean Tech

Brian Hinebaugh, son of Donald Hinebaugh, Oakland and Eugene Durben, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Durben, Oakland, are both recent graduates of the Dean Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa. The two received certificates of recognition in combination welding.

Both are graduates of Southern High School. Brian is a veteran of the U. S. Navy.

"It takes both rain and sunshine to make a rainbow."

Spring is in the air and we are all anxiously beginning to assess our spring and summer wardrobe for any adjustments that need to be made. Therefore, I thought some ideas from the spring fashion forecast I recently received from Dr. Eleanor Young, Extension Textiles and Clothing Specialist from the University of Maryland would definitely be of interest to you. Hopefully, the following information will help you swing your wardrobe into spring.

Padded shoulders will be seen in both men's and women's clothing. Narrower lapels and neckties will be coming more into the scene for men. Hemlines will be stabilizing fairly well at two to three inches below the knee. Full-length skirts which have been popular for evening wear are on the way out and are being replaced by dressy knee-length dresses with fuller skirt or by shorter disco skirts. Deep slits in women's skirts seem to be a passing fad and appear destined to be replaced by pleats.

The trend toward billowing skirts and small waistlines will bring back the bouffant petticoat. Some popular fabrics this spring will be—cotton, rayon, kettle cloth, textured weaves, polyester gabardine, Crepe de Chine, and chambray.

Women who tuck in their shirt and wear a wide shiny belt will be in fashion.

Popular colors for spring and summer will be: spots of white with bright sun colors, black and white combinations, and soft chalky colors such as peach tones, lavender, and mint green.

Navy blue is less dominant these days as an exclusive spring color, rather it is a popular year-round color.

Sportswear is more tailored featuring a slimmer down silhouette with broad shoulders. Pants are no longer as popular as skirts.

Bright, vibrant colored accessories such as lacquered-look earrings and bracelets are "in."

Pillbox, fedora, and wide-brimmed hats are again entering the fashion scene.

High-heeled sandals are the "in" look for women's feet.

Other details for the current fashion look are: push-up sleeves, full shoulders, Peter Pan collars, and string ties at the neckline.

With all the fashion ideas available, it is still necessary for each person to decide what look she best likes. As Dr. Young says: "Nowadays, women are not the slaves to fashion that they were in earlier years." Dress the way that you feel most comfortable and enjoy wearing your clothes!

Vietnam Veterans To Lose Entitlement To GI Bill Benefits

Approximately 19,000 Vietnam Era veterans in Maryland will lose their entitlement to GI bill benefits during the next year.

VA Regional Director, John W. Rue, said the figure represents the total number of veterans who will have reached the tenth anniversary of their separation from military duty. The law provides veterans with a ten-year time limit to use educational and training benefits.

Mr. Rue said that while some 47 percent of Maryland veterans have used some or all of their GI Bill rights, there are thousands who can still make at least partial use of their remaining time.

VA estimates that on a nationwide basis more than half the number of veterans who have GI Bill eligibility today will lose it by 1984. "What we're emphasizing here," Mr. Rue said, "is the time factor. To make maximum use of GI Bill rights a veteran must be aware of the ten-year limit and get started well before time runs out."

A typical Vietnam Era veteran, for example, might have left the service in 1973 having earned maximum training or education entitlement. If that same veteran were to embark on a full-time, four-year college program, it should be started this year so that it could be completed by 1983 when the veteran's eligibility expires. In any event, benefits would be payable only until the veteran reached the time limit no matter how far along the program was.

There are so many ways the GI Bill can be adapted to individual needs and circumstances," Mr. Rue said, "I hate to see anyone lose their rights to this program simply because they let time slip by."

Veterans May Now Seek To Have Discharges Upgraded

The Veterans Administration wants to alert veterans who received undesirable discharges more than 15 years ago that they may now seek to have their discharges upgraded if they apply by the end of the year. The new Department of Defense review process will waive the normal application time limit through 1979, according to VA Regional Director, John W. Rue.

VA and major veterans service organizations are cooperating in the program by providing forms and information to assist persons in making discharge review applications, Mr. Rue said.

Normally, veterans have 15 years after they leave military service to seek reviews that determine the propriety and equity of the discharge. The defense Department action allows veterans with undesirable discharges issued before 1965 to a review if they apply before January 1, 1980.

Each case is judged on its own merits in consideration of all relevant information available for the review. Discharge upgrading to "general" or "honorable" may entitle the veteran to certain Federal benefits that previously were denied, according to Mr. Rue.

Biological Station Near Terra Alta Will Not Open

The Terra Alta Biological Station (TABS) will not open this year, and unless the College of Agriculture and Forestry at WVU decides that it wants the facility, TABS may remain inactive for years. The decision to not open the station was made by former Terra Alta resident Bill Collins, who is dean of the WVU College of Arts and Sciences, which has authority over TABS.

In making his decision, Collins pointed out that biology today is easing away from the study in the field to a more sophisticated study in the lab, with emphasis on cellular and molecular biology. Also, an 18 percent budget cut forced him to review programs and this then helped lead to his decision.

As early as last year, Collins had offered the station to the College of Agriculture and Forestry in hopes that it could utilize the station. But Dale Zinn, Agriculture and Forestry dean, said his department also is feeling the pinch of a budget cut and noted that there is no way economically that his department can take it over the present time.

"To justify a move like that, we would have to be able to use it on a near-continual basis, such as for six months a year," says Zinn, and he continued by stating that in order to use TABS to that extent it would require the formation of programs that aren't now in existence in his college.

Routine maintenance and other chores at TABS will continue to be performed by the University as the station remains in a "standby" situation.

Associate professor of forestry Bill Wylie had been conducting training sessions for interpretive naturalists employed at state and national parks at TABS, and Wylie has indicated that he is prepared to try to change the school's stand regarding the TABS facility.

Beginning April 3 and continuing each Tuesday through May, Wylie will be conducting bird study walks through the WVU Core Arboretum, from 7 to 9 a.m. Participants are taught to identify birds by sight and sound, and walkers should bring binoculars. This will be the 13th consecutive year the WVU has conducted the bird study walks for the public.

CBMC Announces Banquet Speaker

Charles E. Lenker, high school guidance counselor and assistant football coach of York Springs, Pa., will be the guest speaker at the Meyersdale area Christian Business Men's Spring Senior High and Family Banquet on April 14. The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Meyersdale Fire Hall.

Mr. Lenker graduated from Moody Bible Institute, 1955, Wheaton College A.B., 1958, and Arizona State University M.A., 1964, with honors from each institution. He has done additional graduate work at Penn State University, Millersburg State College and Shippensburg State College.

Mr. Lenker has a broad background of experience in teaching, counseling and speaking. Area seniors and their families are invited to the banquet.

Reservations should be made by Sunday, April 8. Grantsville residents should call 895-5129.

Extra State Tax Aid Offered As Deadline Nears

"The deadline for filing your Maryland income tax returns is only about two weeks away and extended taxpayer service will continue to be available for those taxpayers still working on their returns," State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein has announced.

All of the permanent offices of the Maryland Income Tax Division will remain open on Saturday, April 7, from 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. Taxpayers can either call or walk in for assistance.

In addition, taxpayers can call in for help on Monday, April 9, from 4:30 p.m. until 7:00 p.m.

"It's a good time to ask about the new tax-saving measures affecting working parents, students, retirees and others."

"Our taxpayer assistance personnel will be glad to answer any questions about these changes, and they will provide you with all the forms you may need. They'll even complete your Maryland income tax return free of charge, if you like.

Just be sure to bring along a copy of your completed Federal return with all the necessary W-2 statements," Mr. Goldstein said.

The addresses and phone numbers of the permanent offices of the Maryland Income Tax Division are listed both in the telephone directory and on the back of the Maryland tax packets.

Antique Car Show Set For May 19 In Terra Alta

Antique car buffs and owners are invited to participate in the first annual Terra Alta Spring Fling car show slated Saturday, May 19, in that mountain-top community.

Over 300 invitations to car owners in the tri-state area have been mailed out and response has been coming at "a good rate" according to Jo Ann Teets, one of the show's organizers.

"We're expecting a good turnout," she said, "with most of the cars on display probably coming from the 30's, 40's and 50's."

There will be two trophies for each of the 18 classes in the show, plus pre-registration dash plaques for entrants.

Entry fee is $2 per car, with registration from 9 a.m. to noon on May 19 and judging at 1 p.m. For a registration form persons should send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Jo Ann Teets, Highland Avenue, Terra Alta, WV 26764.

Some of the other activities during the Spring Fling will be the arts and crafts show and sales, homemade quilts display, flea markets, fiddling contest and country music, plus a 10-mile distance run that morning.

There will also be a variety of dinners served during the day including soup beans and cornbread, ham, spaghetti and an ox roast, plus a number of snack foods.

The evening will be capped off by a square dance in the streets.

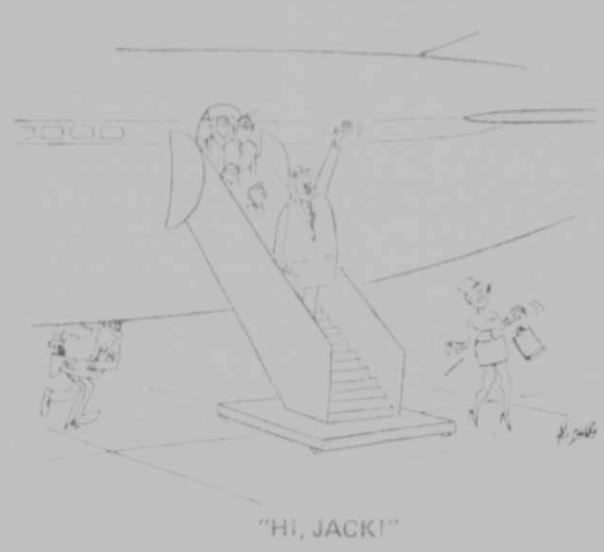

January Gasoline Usage Up 10%

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced this week that gasoline consumption in the State jumped nearly 10 percent in January 1979 over the same month of 1978.

"The milder winter weather experienced during January 1979 caused an unusually large increase in the growth of gasoline consumption," Mr. Goldstein said. "These statistics follow the trend of State sales tax revenues, which also reacted to the milder weather because consumers were able to shop more easily this January than during the same month last year."

Gasoline consumption totaled 167,060,448 gallons during January 1979, compared with 152,850,771 for January 1978.

For the first eight months of Fiscal Year 1979, motor vehicle fuel tax revenue totals $137,021,389, up 4.5 percent from the $131,066,129 collected for the same period of Fiscal Year 1978.

Revised Pension Plan May Benefit WWI Veterans in Maryland

Certain World War I veterans in Maryland may qualify for higher pensions that include an extra $600 a year in Veterans Administration payments under a revised VA pension plan approved by Congress last year.

According to VA Regional Director, John W. Rue, the special add-on pension increase was co-ordinated by Congress for certain needy, elderly veterans for whom VA education and loan guaranty benefits had not been made available.

There are almost 300,000 World War I veterans currently on VA's nationwide pension rolls, but because of changed income eligibility criteria under the improved pension program, VA believes about half of them will benefit from the new program.

Mr. Rue explained that the changes will mean much higher pension rates for many World War I veterans, even before the $800 add-on is included. But the income of all family members will be counted for the first time in determining pension eligibility.

Under the current program, for example, the earned income of a veteran's wife is not counted in determining eligibility. In addition, many of the income exclusions in the current program will not be allowed under the new program.

Mr. Rue reminded World War I veterans that they have until October 1 of this year to decide whether to remain under the current program or switch to the new one if they are to be paid increased rates from January 1, 1979.

An explanation of the provisions of the new program will accompany the March VA pension check, Mr. Rue said, and further assistance in deciding which plan to choose is available from local units of National veterans organizations and from any VA office.

Sandra L. Bartholomew, daughter of Mrs. Geraldine R. Bartholomew, 1035 High Street, Oakland, has been awarded a United Methodist scholarship to attend West Virginia Wesleyan College, Buckhannon, WV.

Recipients must rank in the top 20 percent of their graduating class, have satisfactory pre-college test scores and be members of a Methodist church.

Miss Bartholomew will graduate this spring from Southern Garrett High School where she is a member of band, chorus, Future Teachers of America, bowling team, National Honor Society and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

At Wesleyan, she plans to major in mathematics.

ASC Urges Farmers To Sign Up For Set-Aside Program

As the wheat and feed grain season enters the final month, Paul A. Crowl, Chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, advised farmers to seriously consider program benefits.

Crowl said, "The set-aside enables all producers to work together to maintain or improve crop prices by reducing production. At the same time, it protects them from both natural and economic disasters. A farmer needs money to operate. If he gets loans through our program, it will give him time to hold for a better market."

Deficiency payments act as insurance to keep farmers in business, if prices stay below acceptable levels. Disaster coverage provides protection against crop loss.

According to Crowl, the Set-aside Program permits a Maryland farmer to grow as many acres of any crop that he wants, as long as he stays within his farm's normal crop acreage (NCA).

He said that farmers should not expect to produce corn and wheat for a reserve program. "They need to use the Set-aside and Diversion Programs to begin balancing supply with demand so that the market will pay a profitable price."

Farm price improvement will depend greatly on the willingness of farmers to participate in the Set-aside Program. A bumper crop, as in 1978, can drop farm prices to disastrous levels.

The ASC official encourages Maryland farmers to consider the program in relation to their farm operations, and to visit the ASC office at their earliest convenience.

Real Estate

By DON CARSTENS
Deep Creek Realty

BEWARE OF RESTRICTIONS

The courts permit property owners to put in deeds to buyers reasonable restrictions on the use of the real estate being transferred. It might be looked upon as zoning on a very personal basis.

For example, a home in a commercially zoned area may have a restriction against use for any commercial purpose. This may be OK for the first buyer who plans to live in the house, but a lending institution may refuse to loan any money on it because commercial use may be the only reason for a new purchaser to buy it. They prefer to play it safe and give funds for less questionable and risky situations.

From the point of view of the buyer, it is preferable that the agreement enumerate any and all restrictions. The point is this: If there ARE restrictions, bring them out in the open and get the advice of your Realtor or attorney before going any further. It's for your own protection.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

Work Resumes On Bloomington Dam

Work on the Army Corps of Engineers' Bloomington Lake project has resumed in the past few weeks, with the tentative arrival of spring.

The dam project, located eight miles upriver from the town of Bloomington on the North Branch of the Potomac River, is about 50 percent complete. The dam is expected to fulfill three purposes: water quality improvement, water supply, and flood control.

The Perini Corporation of Framingham, Mass. has a $59 million Phase II main embankment contract for the dam and the firm has about 44 percent of its job completed.

Perini's contract includes the main embankment, an earth and rockfill structure, which is 296 feet high, 2,180 feet long. When completed, the main embankment will contain approximately 10 million cubic yards of compacted earth and rockfill materials.

Other features in Perini's contract are the 330-foot high concrete control tower and two-mile long access road off West Virginia Route 46 to the operational facilities and the dam area.

The control tower has five gates located at five different elevations which will make it possible to release the best water available within the reservoir.

The Phase III contractor, S. J. Groves and Sons Company, Shiremanstown, Pa., has completed about 65 percent of its $16,584,000 contract to build the gated spillway and dike.

The concrete spillway structure is 205 feet wide and has five tainter gates. The dike is 90 feet high and 900 feet long and will contain about 1 million cubic yards of compacted earth and rockfill material.

Groves' other work consists of building an access road west from Bethel to the dike and spillway via a concrete bridge over the relocated Chessie System's tracks which traverse the Maryland side of the project.

Groves also has a $6,246,000 contract to relocate about 3.3 miles of West Virginia State Route 46 around the reservoir area. This relocation work is scheduled for completion in the spring of 1980.

Recreational facilities such as boat launching ramps, camping and picnic sites are planned for the West Virginia side of the reservoir.

The Baltimore District of the Corps of Army Engineers is advertising for bids on reservoir clearing contract and the construction of three water quality monitoring stations.

The clearing contract will consist of selectively clearing approximately 900 acres within the reservoir area. Bids for the contract will be received until April 30.

The three monitoring stations are located along the North Branch at Kitzmiller and Pinto and at Barnum, WV. Both the clearing and the water quality monitoring station contracts are set aside for small business concerns.

Major work completed since the start of the project in June 1971 was the relocation of 12 miles of the Western Maryland Railway; construction of the 16-foot, four-inch diameter 1,619 foot long concrete tunnel through the right abutment; and foundation grouting.

The project, which has a total cost of $158 million, is expected to be operationally complete in the late fall of 1980.

Last Minute Tax Help Offered

With the April 15 tax filing deadline only days away, Internal Revenue Service is offering last minute tips to approximately 1/2 million taxpayers in this area who haven't yet filed.

"Start today, so you can deal with any last minute surprises, and read your instructions carefully," suggests Gerald G. Portney, IRS Director for Maryland and the District of Columbia. "People may find they need certain records and receipts or IRS forms in order to take advantage of all the tax benefits the law provides," he said. "and at this point, they should plan to pick up any additional forms from a local IRS office, rather than order by mail or phone."

According to Portney, many taxpayers who postpone their tax work until the closing days of the filing season submit tax returns containing mistakes which are apparently the result of hasty preparation.

Such mistakes, including math errors, missing entries, and unallowable deductions, can often delay the processing of a return. For taxpayers expecting refunds, the delays caused by certain errors can set back receipt of the refund by several weeks.

"People who are unable to file at this time may wish to apply for an automatic 60-day extension," Portney said. "To do so they must estimate the amount of any tax due and send that amount with a completed Form 498 to their IRS Service Center by April 16." When the return is actually filed, any additional amount due will also include interest at the rate of 6% a year. Extensions of more than 60 days may be requested on Form 2688 when necessitated by very unusual circumstances.

To those who haven't filed because they can't pay, Mr. Portney says, "By all means file the return and pay what you can in order to comply with the law and avoid a Failure to File Penalty of 5% per month (up to 25%) on the balance. IRS will send a bill for the remainder plus a possible Failure to Pay Penalty of 1/2% per month and interest at 1/2% per month."

IRS advises all last minute filers to check their returns over very carefully, especially their arithmetic; attach all other schedules, Forms W-2, and checks or money orders; include their signature(s); attach the peel-off label; and mail the return in the pre-addressed envelope. "if the return is complete and accurate, you'll get any refund due in about eight weeks," Mr. Portney said.

All local IRS offices and telephone lines are open for tax assistance Monday thru Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. In addition, all offices and telephone lines will be open on Monday, April 16, from 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The IRS Tax Assistance Number for Western Maryland is toll-free 1-800-492-0460.

THE REPUBLICAN

Time For Joy . . .

About twenty centuries ago there lived a famous group of thirteen men. The leader of the group was quite special. He was a teacher and a healer. The other twelve looked up to him and listened to his teachings.

One day this leader was taken away from the group. He was falsely accused and convicted, and then brutally murdered. Another member of the group committed suicide at about that same time.

The remaining eleven members of the group became as lost sheep. They huddled together in a pool of sorrow and despair. Their sadness was excruciating. They felt anger and hate towards those responsible for the death of their master. They were afraid, for great was the possibility of their being murdered also. They felt hopelessness and disappointment, for their dreams were apparently shattered. They felt confusion and indecision, for what would they do next?

A few days later their master miraculously returned to them, as he said he would. Their sadness turned to joy. Their fears turned to courage, their hopelessness to confidence, their anger to forgiveness and their confusion to the understanding that his death, and now his resurrection, was all part of a divine plan.

The unpleasant feelings and emotions experienced by this group of men long ago were not at all unlike those experienced by everyone on earth today. The whole range of sorrow, despair, anger, hate, sadness, hopelessness, disappointment, confusion and indecision is all here. We can feel it, experience it and read about it every day. It exists among entire nations, among the smaller but nonetheless devastating scale, among family members and friends.

The death and resurrection of Christ was not just for the benefit of the eleven disciples, but for all people then and now. He died so that we might live. By accepting him into our hearts and minds, the many trials of every day living become much easier to handle. This is what Easter is all about. It is a time of renewed hope and joy.

The first Easter was without question the greatest, most significant day in the history of man. The events of that day decided the future of the lives of each and every one of us.

So besides enjoying the candy, the colored eggs and the overgrown rabbit, we should first contemplate the real significance, the hope and the joy of Easter.

Warning: Financial Pyramids May Be Hazardous To Your Wealth

By Jim Willis

Perhaps many of you are already aware of a form of the financial pyramid that has been circulating throughout Garrett County for the past several weeks. Similar to a "chain letter," this list of instructions, containing the names of trusted members of your community promises a quick and substantial return on your investment of $100.

In theory, you can invest $100, sell copies of the letter to two people, and eventually receive a return totaling $204.00. Unfortunately, things are never what they seem. In theory, the plan is "fool-proof." It is a valid financial principle, and a basic element of our economy — the circular money flow. However, in this instance, human follies and errors always stop the cash flow before you realize $204.00. Such get-rich-quick schemes must be perpetuated for infinity in order to be 100% effective.

As if that were not enough, your participation in any financial pyramid of this type is illegal. If you are already a participant be forewarned that you are now in violation of Article 27, Section 306 of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

That particular section of our state law deals with illegal lottery and gambling, the category into which this financial pyramid falls.

The offense is a misdemeanor and carries up to a $1,000 fine and/or 12 months imprisonment.

In addition, if you sell or distribute this financial plan from your home or place of business, or if it is sent through the mail, you are violating several more sections of the code and liable for additional penalties.

Why the harshness of the law and the reasoning behind it? Although a little hard to swallow, it is in our "best interests."

Financial pyramids of this nature are considered by a judiciary as a scheme of selling goods for a chance and a form of misrepresentation. It is also considered non-productive economies. It may also be hard to accept that such tactics are non-productive. Especially after you've just received $1,000 in payments in the morning mail. But consider this. When we purchase goods and services in the product market, we exchange money for the commodities and thereby create incomes for the people and firms who sell that out put. The money (income) received by those people and firms is in turn spent on productive resources or purchases of other goods and services, thereby creating income for someone else. Those people then spend their income on still further goods and services, which results in more income, and so on, and so on. This is the basis of our economy, a simple "financial pyramid," or "circular money flow."

In effect, the participants in the economy are passing a lot of money from hand to hand, each time exchanging the money for a product or re-

Fire Guts Doerr Home Tuesday

Fire gutted the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Doerr Tuesday, destroying nearly all the family possessions and injuring one of their sons.

Accident and Deen Creek Volunteer firefighters were called out at 6:38 a.m. and each responded with approximately 12 men. Accident sent three pieces of equipment to the scene, while Deen Creek had two. The Garrett-Allegany cascade truck was also called to the scene to help fight the blaze.

Cause of the fire, as determined by Dale Hill, investigator for the state fire marshal's office, was a combination wood-burning furnace located in the basement. One of the Doerr sons was attempting to start a fire in the furnace when the materials he was using suddenly ignited and blew back out in him. He sustained second degree burns of his hands and third degree burns on his face, and was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital yesterday.

The house was fully engulfed in flames when firemen arrived, and all that remains upright are the outer walls.

The house, a 24 x 36 modular structure, is located on the Doerr family farm, on Doerr Road, between McHenry and Accident. A mobile home, being purchased by one of the sons, who is to be married soon, was moved to the site Tuesday afternoon and some of the family is staying there temporarily. The remainder of the family is staying with Mr. Doerr's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Doerr.

Firefighters were on the scene approximately 3 1/2 hours, and Accident was recalled briefly when additional smoke was reported at the scene.

Commissioners Award Two Bids For Road Needs

Garrett County Commissioners Truman Paugh, Lester Hunter and Ernest Gregg, Jr. awarded two bids for county road construction needs as part of Tuesday's regular meeting.

Herbert McCrobie and Clayton Smith represented the Garrett County roads department during the roads board session with the Board.

Sand will be supplied this coming year by Keystone Limestone Company, and the roads department, and thereby create incomes for the people and firms who sell that out put.

The money (income) received by those people and firms is in turn spent on productive resources or purchases of other goods and services, thereby creating income for someone else. Those people then spend their income on still further goods and services, which results in more income, and so on, and so on. Judge Thayer To Serve On PBS Advisory Board Frederick A. Thayer, Associate Judge of the Circuit Court, has accepted a request to serve on the statewide Community Advisory Board for Maryland Public Broadcasting and the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting.

The new commission was created by the state legislature to advise on the direction, goals, activities, and programming of the Maryland PBS Network. It is composed of 10 persons from around the state and is headed by Dr. Rowell Jackson, president of St. Mary's College. The Executive Director of Maryland Public Broadcasting is Dr. Frederick Brinkfield.

Upon accepting the position, Judge Thayer stated that Western Maryland, particularly Garrett County, rarely receives news and feature coverage and he felt he might be able to help change that situation.

The board will return to Oakland Sunday, April 22.

Armed Robbery Attempt Foiled

Maryland State Police are continuing their investigation into an armed robbery attempt at the Granville Shopping Center about 5:30 Friday night.

According to a police spokesman, two employees, a male and a female, of the Granville Foodland had left the store to make a bank deposit. The woman was walking ahead of her companion, and had reached the bank and unlocked the night deposit door when her co-worker was approached by a man in a car. The driver displayed a gun and demanded the two bags of money he was carrying.

The young man from Fordland ran the short distance past the car, shoved the money into his pocket, vaulted, and slammed the door. The man fired a shot at the scene first, and then turning right towards Grantsville.

The man involved was described as middle aged, slender and with shoulder-length hair. He is thought to have been driving a dark blue, older model Ford Falcon.

Copies of the amended regulations are available at the Department of Natural Resources, Regional Service Center, Naves Crossroads, Cumberland; the Bureau of Mines Office, City Building, Westernport; and Land Planning Services, Department of Natural Resources, Townes State Office Building, Annapolis.

WHEN IT RAINS IT POURS — April showers definitely had a dampening effect this week. As shoppers in the area sheltered beneath dripping umbrellas, this young lady could pose as the fugitive from the Morton Salt container as she went splashing by barbecue grills and outdoor furniture, reminders of a distant summer.

$130,000 Blaze Levels Police Storage Shed

A faulty heater in a large workshop and machine storage building near Bethlehem caused a fire Saturday morning which totally destroyed the structure and its contents, valued at $130,000.

The building was owned by Frank Pils, and was located at his mine below the Potomac State Park. No one was in the building at the time the fire started, but men working a few hundred yards away spotted the blaze and called Central Alarm.

Central dispatched German fire company shortly after 8 a.m., and Deer Park volunteers were called approximately 20 minutes later. Due to some confusion in Grantsville, however, Deer Park men arrived on the scene first, and found the structure totally involved in flames and nearly destroyed.

Deer Park responded with three pieces of equipment, while German sent two. The fire is located approximately eight miles from Deer Park.

Coal Tax Measure Stopped By Senate

State Sen. Edward J. Mason, R-Allegany, Garrett, and last Wednesday night that the Senate's Budget and Taxation Committee voted to hold HB273, the Western Maryland coal tax bill.

Mason said the committee's action killed the measure for this session of the General Assembly.

The Senator said the bill, which received a committee hearing Wednesday, was narrow in scope. "We have to look at it in a broader context," Mason added.

Mason, who was not in favor of passage of a coal tax measure at this time, said, "We need a percentage tax on coal, not a flat tax."

The whole tax picture in Allegany County should be studied over the summer," he noted.

State Public Works Approves Penelec Lake Agreement

The Maryland Board of Public Works voted approval last Wednesday to a lease agreement which will have the Pennsylvania Electric Company give $400,000 and 15% acres of land to the state for recreational facilities along Deep Creek Lake.

The agreement, culminating several years of negotiations between the state and utility company, will enable the state to establish two recreational projects on the lake.

According to tentative plans which have been under discussion by the Parks Service and other officials for several years, recreational sites will be located at the breast of the dam and in the upper Green Glade area.

Planned at the lower site are a boat launching ramp and picnicking facilities, while the area in Green Glade will offer picnicking and fishing areas. The $450,000 will be used by Maryland to construct the two public recreation facilities as well as acquisition of land owned by the utility in the two areas.

Also called for is payment by PENELEC of $25,000 for operating expenses incurred by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. The utility will continue annual payments for operating expenses.

According to the Board of Public Works, the state and PENELEC have also agreed to the following provisions:

PENELEC will convey fee simple interest in the buffer strip between Deep Creek Lake State Park and the lake. The buffer strip will be about 4,700 feet long.

—Before PENELEC can convey fee simple interest it must receive approval from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, which has regulations forcing utilities using lakes such as Deep Creek to set up recreational facilities.

Garrett's "Windfall" Not Nearly As Impressive As Some Think

By Jim Willis

Garrett County recently benefitted from a state allotment of $836,810, much of which is on a one-time only basis. The funds were in part from proposed state aid to the subdivisions package recently approved by Governor Harry Hughes.

A breakdown of the funds shows a state aid to education award of $167,542. This is a formula increase, but less than the inflationary 25% increase the Garrett County Board of Education has asked the county for. The funds have already been programmed into the Board's budget.

Distribution of a $28 million state surplus to the counties, derived primarily from the automobile excise tax, amounts to $547,470 for Garrett County.

The money will be included in the county's capital budget. Ten year's worth of accrued unallocated withholdings have been returned to the county in the amount of $84,506. The payment of such was prompted by House Bill 72, and is due to the fact that some county residents neglect to include their county of residence on their state income tax return. Therefore, unallocated withholdings lay fallow until dispersed.

A formula increase of $16,835 was awarded in police aid, and will be included in the operating budget.

Proposed legislation prompting a requirement of 50% state funding for those children in Garrett County who qualify for federal aid under Title I—(educationally or economically disadvantaged students) netted the county $72,360. The funds must be used to institute new programs in Special Education.

Legislation requiring the State to assume the non-federal share of administrative costs for the food stamp program will give Garrett County $49,843. This will be an on-going program.

A share of the state's racing revenue to the county is $4,417. This is a reduction by $3,269 as a result of legislation to reduce the state's race track revenues.

The Standard Deduction Loss to the county is $97,329.

Despite reports that Garrett County has come into a "windfall" of nearly $900,000, a look at the figures shows quite the contrary.

By adding the county's share of state aid, $28 million distribution, and unallocated funds, we arrive at a figure of $234,220. By subtracting the racing revenue and Standard Deduction Loss, we realize an amount of $132,474 that will be placed in the county's fiscal operating budget.

County Administrator, Marshall Hickett stated, "The remainder of the money is there, but cannot be put into the operating budget. That is what Cleveland did."

The amount, over and above the operational segment, will go into the county's capital budget.

Honors Reversed

It was incorrectly stated in last week's edition of The Republican that Earl Cupp, state manager for Woodmen of the World, was presented with a Builders' Club pin for ten years' service by John Forman, field representative.

The story should have pointed out that Mr. Cupp presented the pin to Mr. Forman.

Highlights of her birthday were calls from her granddaughter, Terry McKenzie Smith, living in Sydney, Australia; her sister, Mrs. Jessie Fulk, and her niece, Mrs. Nellie Graham, Frederick. Mrs. Hardesty received 118 Birthday cards including a card from President and Mrs. Jimmy Carter.

Mrs. Hardesty is a former resident of Mt. Lake Park. She has eight grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-granddaughter. There were five generations present at the open house.

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stemple will be observed Sunday, April 15, with an open house at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building given by their son and his family. Everyone is invited to greet them from 2:00 until 5:00 p.m. They request that there be no gifts.

Word was received here Sunday of the death of Mrs. Gertrude C. Snyder, 90, of Cresaptown who had been a patient in a Cumberland nursing home. She is survived by one son, Paul Snyder, of Cresaptown, and two granddaughters, several grandchildren, and a brother, Ira Harsh, of Eglon. Services were held Tuesday at Eglon in the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren by the Rev. Gale Fike with interment in the church cemetery.

The Union District Senior Citizens held their monthly meeting Saturday evening, April 7, at 6:00 p.m. in the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building with 39 present including two guests from the Department of Labor in Morgantown.

A deposit of $62 should be in by May 1. Interested persons should contact Marie Hauser. Health and Safety Tip

From the American Medical Association

Are you fit to drive? Before you automatically reply "Of course," take stock of your mental attitude and physical condition. You may be unsafe behind the wheel, both to yourself and to others on the road.

You may think you are in good health. You may have an excellent safety record. Yet, under certain circumstances, it can be dangerous for you to be in the driver's seat.

The American Medical Association reminds that the emotional stability of the driver is as important as any single factor in maintaining traffic safety. That's why you owe it to others—and to yourself—not to drive when you have serious problems on your mind. If you're thinking about that argument you had before you left home or office, if you're in a depressed or angry "I don't care what happens" mood, if you're very worried about a personal problem, you're better off not driving.

The sleepy driver causes many accidents. In fact, a sleepy driver is as much of a hazard as a drinking one. Dozing at the wheel can occur in broad daylight as well as at night. When making long trips, rest every two hours and drink coffee or cola to stay alert.

Many medicines, not just a few, can affect the way in which you handle the wheel. Certain commonly used drugs such as antihistamines, cold tablets and mild sedatives may dull your reflexes or impair your coordination. Stimulants can make you nervous. Tranquilizing drugs can cloud your judgment and interfere with driving skills. Consult your doctor about the side effects of any drugs you take. Driving calls for clear, healthy eyesight, good side vision, judgment of distance

Mountaintop To Be Vacation Spot For City Children

Children from New York City will once again visit Garrett County families this summer as part of the Fresh Air Fund's Friendly Town Program.

The program, which has operated in Garrett County for approximately twenty years, provides inner-city children with limited incomes the opportunity to spend two or more weeks with a family in the country. "Host families, none of whom are paid for their hospitality, live in small towns, suburbs and on farms from Maine to Virginia," states William Arnholt, Director of the program. "Children range in age from 3 to 12, and up to 17 for those who return to the same family. Each summer more than half are "re-invited" guests to the same home and the welcome is extended for two weeks to all summer."

The host families are recruited, "approved," informed and advised by a local Friendly Town Committee, composed of volunteers. The host families are allowed to request a child of the age and sex which would make for the best adjustment all round.

The Fresh Air Fund staff, with headquarters in New York City, matches the children with hosts, arranges round-trip transportation, and provides liability and medical coverage. Each child is certified in good health before being accepted into the program.

The philosophical aim of the program is "to give children safe, happy tension-free vacations."

The children will come to Garrett County by bus to the Maple Glen Mennonite Church, adjacent to the Goodwill Mennonite Home, about one mile north of Grantsville. Host families will pick up their guests there upon arrival.

The first group will arrive June 28 and the second group July 18.

Those wishing more information may call Mr. and Mrs. Ivan J. Miller, RFD 1, Grantsville, at 895-5451 or 895-5266, or Mr. and Mrs. Oren Bender, Accident, at 826-8340.

Fine Imposed In District Court For Trespassing

A stiff fine was imposed for wanton trespassing in District Court last week. Judge Miller Bowen of Cumberland heard cases.

Joseph S. Yoder, RD 2, Grantsville, pleaded not guilty of wanton trespassing on the property of Vernie Yoder on Rt. 669, Grantsville, in December. He was found guilty and fined $200 and costs. He pleaded not guilty of assault and the plea was sustained. Two charges of non-support were settled as the same matter is the subject of an equity case in Circuit Court.

Thomas R. Reese, Elk Garden, W. Va. pleaded not guilty of assault and battery on Cpl. Larry Gnegy at the Sheriff's office in Oakland in February. Reese was found guilty and levied costs. A 10-day sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for six months.

Two from Terra Alta, W. Va., were charged with possession of marijuana at McHenry in December. John A. DeLauder and Robert A. Murphy pleaded no contest. They were placed on probation for one year before judgment and paid costs.

Two cases were dismissed. Richard W. Friend was charged with passing a bad check and David E. Rodeheaver, RD 3, Oakland, was charged with battery.

More than 800,000 diamonds are sold annually in West Germany, 120,000 of them in engagement and wedding rings.

T. A. Vandevender Given Promotion At B&L Plant

The promotion of Terry A. Vandevender to Supervisor of Plant Materials Management at the Bausch & Lomb Lens Plant near Mt. Lake Park has been announced by Pat Flisheally, Plant Manager, and Lee Sheally, Materials Manager.

Terry is a 1960 graduate of Aurora High School and joined Bausch & Lomb in June of 1971, after serving five years with MELPAR, Inc. in Falls Church, Virginia. He has held the position of Production Control Planner for the lens plant since 1974.

Terry currently resides in Aurora with his wife Phyllis and their two children, Laura 14, and Brian 11.

Often overlooked by observers of Maryland agriculture is the State's production of processing vegetables which wind up under many labels in cans and frozen packages in the supermarkets of the world.

According to State Secretary of Agriculture, Wayne A. Cawley, Jr., Maryland processors and farmers this Spring are taking an optimistic view of the demand for processed vegetables and, therefore, are increasing production.

"The latest vegetable plantings intentions report compiled by the Maryland Crop Reporting Service indicate some 37,300 acres will be planted to the six major processing vegetables grown in the states."

Cawley says.

"That's an increase of 1,500 acres over last year. While this does not sound huge compared to the roughly 1,000,000 acres in Maryland given over to our major grain crops of corn and soybeans, it is significant for several reasons.

"The first is that it shows the diversity of Maryland's agriculture. With our mild climate and good soils, we have a good mix of crops for farmers to produce.

"Secondly, it is good news for consumers. The more vegetables we grow in the East, the less we have to rely on the plant western producers with their higher transportation cost for products. A can of tomatoes, a package of peas, a can of corn, or a jar of pickles that traces back to a Maryland farm is going to cost less in the long run if it is shipped only dozens of miles rather than thousands of miles.

"And yet, another bonus to vegetable production here in the State is its rapid multiplier effect on other industries. It means a demand for cans, jars, cartons, labels, processing plant labor, transportation and warehousing services. All of these industries produce jobs for Marylanders," Secretary Cawley concluded.

lary Cawley concluded.

The figures for the six major processing vegetable planting intentions for Maryland in 1979 show: Sweet Corn — 12,400 acres (down 900 acres); Snap Beans — 7,800 acres (up 1,300 acres); Peas — 7,300 acres (up 1,000 acres); Lima Beans — 4,300 acres (up 900 acres); Tomatoes — 3,300 acres (up 300 acres); and Cucumbers — 2,200 acres (down 500 acres).

Carter Says He Will Fight For Windfall — Profits Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter says oil companies should be made to plow back into exploration and increased production all profits reaped from price decontrol so they cannot "buy cruises or timber lands or motels."

Continuing his fighting talk to the oil industry, Carter said Tuesday at his 47th news conference and his first in Washington since Feb. 27 he will fight for a windfall-profits tax.

And, given the mood of the country, he expects to get it, he said.

Even with such a tax, Carter said, the industry would get $6 billion in increased revenue during the next three years.

"I would certainly favor either laws or administration action to put constraints so that they would plow back that oil into energy production," he said.

"For them to take that money and use it to buy cruises or timber lands or motels or department stores," Carter said, "contravenes the need of our country, and it contravenes the purpose I and Congress have in mind when we give them that additional income."

Carter also said:

"I believe we will see a turn very shortly in the inflationary trend downward." He reiterated his opposition to mandatory wage-price controls and expressed "undiminished confidence in anti-inflation adviser Alfred Kahn."

—He would establish "very quickly" a presidential commission to investigate the causes of the Three Mile Island nuclear plant accident and recommend safety remedies, but said the nation cannot turn away from nuclear power "in the foreseeable future."

—A few issues remain to be resolved "in reaching agreement with the Soviet Union on a strategic arms limitation treaty. Press secretary Jody Powell said later he did not expect a SALT II agreement to be reached during the 10 days Carter is on vacation.

—Allegations that some bank loan funds received by the Carter family peanut business may have been channeled into his 1976 election campaign are "absolutely and totally untrue," and he will cooperate fully with federal investigators probing those allegations.

There is no doubt terrorism will continue in the Middle East but "I hope it will wane as it is proved that the peace treaty is permanent." He also said he did not think terrorist acts — such as the ones which prompted Israeli retaliatory raids into Lebanon Tuesday — would stop the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty or halt the Middle East peace process.

United Steelworkers To Suspend Strike At Newport News

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Parents not only can send their speech-troubled children to a clinic, but can help out the therapy.

It's a three-fold program, a unique approach developed at West Virginia University by speech pathology and audiology faculty members Dennis M. Ruscillo and Lynn Cartwright.

"We felt it was very important for parents to become more involved in their children's therapy," explained Mrs. Cartwright.

"They have a right to know what sort of help their children are getting. Under our involvement program, parents play a greater role in their children's therapy."

The first step in the parental involvement calls for parents to observe their child getting treatment in rooms equipped with two-way mirrors while a supervisor explains what the clinician is trying to accomplish.

"In the education phase," noted Mrs. Cartwright, "we find parents often have misconceptions about their child's problem. So, we spend time explaining to them, in simple terms, what the problem is."

A second phase calls for parents to work with their children — at home, and in the clinic.

When a supervisor feels a child has become competent in a certain phase, the parent works with the child to reinforce the clinical treatment.

A third step calls for parents to join discussion groups where they can discuss problems and concerns with other parents who have children with speech problems.

In previous methods of therapy, students prepared lessons and worked in the clinic, but contact with their parents was only minimal.

Dr. Ruscillo, who was involved in training parents at the University of Arizona, and Mrs. Cartwright felt parents needed to become involved in therapy.

"Working with the parents and involving them directly in their child's therapy provides our students with a valuable, practical experience that wasn't available in the past and offers an opportunity for parent-child interaction," Ruscillo said.

Other colleges and university speech clinics were surveyed to see how parents were used in treatment. The WVU College of Human Resources and Education and the WVU Foundation put up the funds.

Typical clients are referred either by school speech personnel or by a family doctor.

It's at this point, when the child's test problem is being determined by diagnostic language and hearing tests, that we begin talking to the parents," Mrs. Cartwright said.

BAA, BAA, BLACK SHEEP, have you any wool... boots, scarves, gloves? Frolicking lambs and gently greening pastures bring to mind Easter weather, but lambs here were shivering rather than frolicking Monday and Tuesday as a surprise storm dropped snow and ice. Surely the time symbolized by the Pascal lamb will bring true spring weather, or should we say "wether?"

Teamsters, Truckers End Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Teamsters union and the trucking industry have ended a 10-day strike-lockout that had idled thousands of auto workers, with agreement on a new contract.

Shortly before midnight Tuesday, chief federal mediator Wayne Horvitz announced the two sides had reached a tentative agreement on a three-year pact that allows 300,000 striking workers to start returning to their jobs today.

"Tentative agreement on the national Master Freight Agreement has been reached by the national negotiating committee," Horvitz said at the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service where bargaining was conducted for nearly 24 hours over two days.

"The strike and defensive shutdown are being terminated and procedures for return to work will be made within 24 hours," he said.

Horvitz would not say if the contract falls within Carter's 7 percent voluntary wage guideline.

J. Curtis Counts, chief industry negotiator, was asked if the wage-benefits package is better than 30 percent over the three-year life of the contract.

"Using the 8.5 percent inflationary factor, I still stand by my 30 percent plus statement," he said.

But asked if the agreement falls within the guidelines, Counts said: "That, I think, is a fact. I think it meets the Council on Wage and Price Stability requirements. However, I think they should be the ones to answer that."

"I'm very happy with the agreement," Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons said. "I am sure (the members) will be happy with the agreement."

Fitzsimmons said the union did not negotiate with Carter's guidelines in mind, but with "what is necessary to keep our members competitive with the American way of life."

Horvitz said the negotiators had been "under enormous pressures from inside and outside."

The tentative agreement is subject to ratification by the union.

The strike and industry lockout idled thousands of workers and threatened to close auto plants running out of parts. About 34,000 auto workers had been laid off since the Teamsters called a selective strike April 1 against 73 major carriers and the industry replied with a lockout. More than 125,000 auto workers were idled or put on short shifts.

The two sides reached basic agreement, according to sources close to the bargaining, on major wage issues that would mean a 25 percent to 30 percent increase during the proposed three-year contract.

Sources said a tentative pay agreement called for yearly wage increases of 80 cents, 35 cents and 35 cents per hour for three years, plus health and pension benefits. Teamsters currently average $9.45 to $9.60 per hour.

"Cosmetic manufacturers are put in notice that cosmetic products may be analyzed by the FDA for nitrosamine contamination and that individual products could be subject to enforcement action," the agency said in a notice published in Tuesday's Federal Register.

Nitrosamines have been proven to cause cancer in test animals, and by implication pose the same threat to man. They are the same agent whose presence in bacon and other cured meats has caused a review of those products, and some studies have suggested they may be a by-product of some industrial air pollution.

As far as cosmetics are concerned, the FDA said, nitrosamines appear to be caused by a chemical reaction between amines used to formulate the product and a "nitrosating agent."

"In cosmetics some of the likely nitrosating agents appear to be nitrites, oxides of nitrogen and some C-nitro compounds," it said. Some of those ingredients are not actual ingredients but enter the product as a contaminant of another ingredient.

The agency said amines, with which the nitrosating agents react, are "widely used as cosmetic ingredients."

It said they are used "in shampoos, bubble bath products, facial cosmetics and many types of creams and lotions."

Tests indicate the highest level of nitrosamine contamination occurs when the nitrosating agent is added as a direct ingredient, it said, while lower concentrations result when it enters the product as a contaminant.

First Tests In Harrisburg Detect No Contamination Of Residents

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Relieved officials say first tests detected no noticeable radioactive contamination in residents around Three Mile Island, where area streets and shops are bustling again for the first time in 11 days.

Jim Lyman, spokesman for the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, said the free testing, which will continue today in Middletown, has shown no trace of contamination in the first 40 residents.

"All of the scans have been negative for radio nuclides that have been detected in releases from TMI (Three Mile Island) 2," said Lyman. "These are people who live in immediate vicinity of the site."

Lyman said the absence of radiation contamination was encouraging to local dairy farmers, who feared that high iodine levels which can cause thyroid cancer might show up in their milk production.

More than 400 persons immediately signed up for the tests, which are conducted outside the Middletown Borough Hall in a mobile scientific lab with a sophisticated scanning device rushed in from Ohio.

The tests will be conducted 24 hours a day until all area residents who want one have been examined.

The streets and shops of Middletown, three miles from the Three Mile Island atomic plant, bustling with women and little children again Tuesday for the first time since the nation's worst nuclear accident occurred March 26.

Over 50,000 children resumed classes at 23 schools closed March 30 by Gov. Dick Thornburgh, who advised pregnant women and preschool children to flee a five-mile area around the plant.

The governor rescinded all his directives Monday, declaring the area safe again.

NRC officials said temperatures continued to subside within the stricken Three Mile Island power plant where a core meltdown was feared as late as last week.

As engineers gingerly nursed the malfunctioning reactor to a safe, cold shutdown, NRC officials were expected to reveal soon the scope of damage to the reactor's seething innards.

Some of the 36,000 enriched uranium fuel rods were thought to have ruptured when a streak of malfunctions and human errors sent temperatures and pressures on a nightmarish pattern.

"Radiation levels are as low as they've ever been," said NRC spokesman Jim Hanchett. "The only thing they're reading is noble gases."

Hanchett said a utility company worker was permitted to make a manual sampling of water in the reactor core to assess damages and get a better grasp of radiation levels. In contrast to previous core sampling attempts, the worker's body received little radiation, he said.

In Washington, NRC Chairman Joseph M. Hendrie told a Senate panel hearing the crippled reactor would be sealed for at least two years and the contamination mop-up will cost tens of millions of dollars.

A state advisory body told the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission Three Mile Island should be stricken from the rate base of the plant's owner, Metropolitan Edison Co. so a recent rate increase could be revoked.

Jack Baker, manager of David Martin Store in Middletown, resumed normal business with a twist. He's the main purveyor of "I Survived Three Mile Island" T-shirts.

"It's really taken the sting out of it," said Baker.

smoke detectors. It is very possible smoke detectors may have stopped tragic deaths."

One fire official indicated the fire was probably caused when a cigarette dropped on a couch in a first-floor room reserved for smoking.

Fire department spokesman Richard Hulsecher said firemen first had to rescue several residents before they could fight the fire and begin searching for victims.

"It was unknown until they got into the building that there were fatalities," he said.

Torre said the fire marshal's office is investigating the building for possible code violations, but he added that smoke detectors are not required under city law.

Fire equipment traveling to the fire was hampered by narrow streets in a neighborhood composed mostly of rowhouses built at the turn of the century.

The facility was used by mentally ill patients — most of them middle aged or elderly — from federally owned St. Elizabeths Hospital who were considered well enough to leave the mental institution for a community-based, supervised setting.

The group home was owned and operated by the Volunteers of America.

Congress Adjourns For Easter Recess

By STEVE GERSTEL. WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress today began its annual Easter recess, with little to show it has been in session for the past three months.

Although the length of time in session, the number of committee hearings and the volume of rhetoric is comparable to previous years, the output is sharply off.

Only two bills of any significance have reached the White House and been signed by President Carter.

One was legislation raising the national debt ceiling from $796 billion to $832 billion through Sept. 30.

Congress dabbled so long with the debt ceiling the Treasury was about to go into default and only the pleading of Secretary Michael Blumenthal rescued it from further delay in the House.

The other major bill, with which Congress also toyed past the deadline, will create the American Institute on Taiwan to handle U.S. relations with the Nationalist Chinese on a non-diplomatic and non-official basis.

Four minor bills also made their way to the White House. So did approval of many administration nominees, including Leonard Woodcock as U.S. ambassador to China and George Seignious as head of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd said recently "no, I don't think it's slow at all." When asked about the pace. He ordered a moratorium on Friday sessions through April and on late Monday votes through June.

Midwest Tornado Onslaught Is Worst In 5 Years

United Press International. The nation's worst onslaught of tornadoes in five years swept the Texas-Oklahoma border Tuesday, devastating parts of four cities. Officials said the death toll of 50 "could easily double" when searchers enter wrecked buildings today.

Officials said the tornadoes left at least 34 persons dead in Wichita Falls, Texas; 12 in Vernon, Texas; three in Lawton, Okla., and one in Harrold, Texas.

At least 50 people, 34 of them in this city of 100,000, were killed by the twisters that strayed communities along the Texas-Oklahoma border Tuesday evening and injured more than 600.

More than 500 persons were injured, at least 300 of them in Wichita Falls alone. Property damage estimates ran into the tens — possibly hundreds — of millions of dollars.

"I thought fire was destructive until I saw this," said Rod Beadle, a Wichita Falls police arson investigator, who weathered the tornado in a bathtub with his wife and young daughter and watched through a window as the funnel cloud ripped apart a house across the street.

"When I saw that thing, it scared me to death. I thought we were gone. I never felt like that before," he said.

Other twisters caused some injuries and substantial property damage in Seymour, Maybelle and Lockett, Texas, and in Hays, Kan.

Hail and high winds accompanied severe thunderstorms through much of North Texas and Oklahoma. A tornado watch was in effect until 8 a.m. CST today.

The tornadoes swept out of a blackened sky at sunset. The National Weather Service said a low pressure system that produced a spring snowstorm in the Rocky Mountains was responsible for the turbulence on the High Plains.

It was the deadliest tornado raid since April 3-4, 1974 — Easter weekend — when 350 people died in Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama, including 32 in Xenia, Ohio.

For Wichita Falls, a city of 100,000 on the Red River, it was the second tornado disaster in a dozen years. A funnel cloud on April 3, 1967, left seven dead and 11 injured.

The worst of Tuesday's tornadoes smashed into two shopping centers crowded with after-work shoppers and apartment complexes housing 200 families in Wichita Falls.

Officials feared many bodies were buried in the debris of the apartment buildings. The tornado left a 4-block-wide, 6-mile-long path of destruction.

"The only victims we've been able to get were the ones outside," said Texas Department of Public Safety trooper George Miller. "We haven't started looking through the debris. In the morning, when the sun comes up, the figures could easily double."

The tornado also demolished a power plant, cutting off electricity to most of the city. Hospitals treated the injured on emergency power.

"Things are just sheer bedlam," said spokeswoman Joyce Warren at Bethania Hospital.

In Vernon, 40 miles northwest of Wichita Falls, a tornado flattened most of the southeast end of the town of 12,000. In addition to the dead, more than 70 were injured.

The tornado that struck Lawton, 90 miles southwest of Oklahoma City, destroyed 13 houses and overturned a tanker truck carrying deadly sulfuric acid.

Elsewhere, heavy snow began fell in the western Colorado Rockies, clogging several mountain passes.

Winter storm watches were posted today for western portions of Kansas and Nebraska.

Utility crews, some on loan from Chicago and Toledo, Ohio, made progress in restoring power to about 100,000 homes that were blacked out during an ice storm Monday in the Detroit area.

"It may be advisable for this to be an oversight Congress," he said. "Don't expect a great deal of new legislation."

Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker was more blunt. He said at the same time "they haven't got a thing... nothing is moving."

"Normally we (the leaders) have gone through our first three lists of priority measures," Baker added. "There is nothing much coming out of the committee system."

As usual, congressional leaders point an agenda of hectic activity for the months ahead.

When the Senate returns April 23, it plans to begin work on its first version of the fiscal 1980 budget; act on a supplemental appropriations for the Pentagon, and try to finish work on legislation which would create a department of education.

Further down the line, the Senate is committed to taking up a constitutional amendment providing for the direct election of presidents and — if all goes well — will debate ratification of a SALT II agreement.

Speaker Thomas O'Neill has asked committees to have ready for him after the recess legislation on dividing up Alaska lands between the conservationists and the developers.

Debate and action on the budget is scheduled for June and all trade bills and legislation to cut the cost of hospital care is docketed for July.

By that time, Congress will have two more recesses — Memorial Day and July 4 — behind them.

Colorado School Has Unintended Bomb Scare

CORTEZ, Colo. (UPI) — A bomb demolition team from Fort Carson will go to Montezuma-Cortez High School today to remove a highly explosive bottle of acid from a chemistry lab.

Principal Don Schlofeldt ordered the evacuation of about 850 students Tuesday after a 4-ounce bottle of picric acid was found. Schlofeldt said the acid, which becomes more unstable and dangerous with age, apparently had been in the lab for about 23 years.

Schlofeldt said there would be no classes at the high school today.

The official said he learned of the dangers of picric acid, which has a structure and explosive power similar to TNT, while reading an educational bulletin about the discovery of quantities of the chemical in 300 schools in Pennsylvania. He then conducted a routine inspection of the local chemistry lab and found the acid.

"Nobody apparently knew what the potential danger of the acid was," Schlofeldt said. "We're just fortunate we found it before anything happened."

Up from The Grave He Arose

Kevin's in the Junior Choir. You better believe Kevin is in the Junior Choir... you'll sometimes hear him above the rest... occasionally a shade off pitch.

But the joyous message of Easter is never sung with any more enthusiasm than when Kevin and his friends sing "Up From The Grave He Arose." The effect on the congregation is electrifying.

Think, too, of the effect on Kevin. His youthful heart is warming to the central truth of his religion. He is feeling, not just telling, the Story of Easter.

What we give of our time and talents means a great deal to our church. It means even more to us! Discover that truth this Easter.

TAX TIPS WHEN YOU BUY REAL ESTATE

When you buy real estate, your tax benefits start immediately. For example, property taxes paid at the settlement are deductible. Usually, these taxes are pro-rated between the buyer and seller so that each pays his respective share. In some localities where the property taxes are paid during the following calendar year, the buyer's deduction is taken during the year the taxes are actually paid.

The other settlement expenses generally are not deductible, however, most of them can be added to the cost of the real estate when you sell it. The effect will be to reduce the profit subject to income tax. Among these are: lawyers' fees, property surveys, title search and title insurance, transfer taxes and "points." It should be noted that, what the IRS calls "basis" is quite important to establish. It is the purchase price of the real estate which includes your down payment, mortgages, and those non-deductible settlement costs. The basis determines what your profit or loss will be when you sell.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

"Single Again" Group To Begin On April 19

The Garrett County Health Department is once again going to be offering a "Single Again" group. The group will run for five consecutive weeks, and will begin at 5:30 p.m. each Thursday. Participating individuals are expected to attend all five sessions.

The group exists for the purpose of providing individuals with a structured group process which deals with the issues of separation from or loss of a loved one. "Many people experience depression, guilt, anger, loneliness and loss of a sense of direction. It has been found mutual sharing of these feelings is beneficial in the separation process," according to Kathy Wright, one of the group leaders. Those interested in attending the "Single Again" group should call 334-8111. Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Mt. Top YFC Quiz Team Wins National Tourney

The Mt. Top Youth for Christ Bible Quiz Team placed first the weekend of March 30-April 1 in the National Quiz Invitational held at Moody Bible College, Chicago, Illinois.

The tournament was conducted under the auspices of the World Bible Quiz Association, Kansas City, Missouri. Bible Quiz teams from various church denominations and youth organizations were in contention for the National Championship at this 2nd annual Chicago Tournament.

The competition began Saturday morning March 31 as three quizmasters conducted simultaneous quizzes on the Gospel of John while the teams vied for Olympic point ranking. After the first round of competition from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., all but the top six teams were eliminated based on the Olympic point system of 10 points for a first, 5 for a second and 1 for a third.

The Mt. Top team emerged as the first place team after the first round with six first place finishes and no defeats. Thus Mt. Top entered the semi-final round as the top seeded team in the brackets.

In the first semi-final quiz Mt. Top advanced directly to the Championship quiz by defeating Detroit and Chicago 110-20-0. Four more semi-final quizzes determined the other two participants in the National Championship Quiz. In the Championship Quiz, Mt. Top defeated last year's champion, Huron Valley, Michigan and the Chicago Campus Life team 140-20-0, to win the first ever National honor for a local quiz team. In previous years Mt. Top teams had placed as high as 4th on the National level and 3rd in Eastern States competition. Paula Skiles, Mt. Top team captain was named to the National All Star team and teammates Diane Carrico and Vickie Tichnell were named to the 2nd team All Stars. Trophies and medallions were awarded for these honors. Other team members were Phil Yoder, Jamie Stover and Carolyn Schmidt. The team was coached by Mike Friend and Mary Kanagy.

Bible Quizzing is conducted locally by Mt. Top YFC and is open to any interested young people. All participants locally are eligible to compete for the Mt. Top YFC team which will represent the organization in Regional and National competition. The study material for next year is the book of Acts. Local league quizzing will begin in September.

"There is no right way to do a wrong thing."

Spring has sprung and with it many minds turn to the thought of "spring cleaning." After having the house closed all winter, it's nice to let some fresh air in and to brighten the inside of the house as it becomes sparkling clean.

Many products are available on the market to use when preparing to do this big cleaning job. I hope these tips about cleaning products will be some help to you in making decisions about what to use.

Use a non-abrasive cleaner on all appliances and bathroom fixtures. Steel wool can strip away baked enamel finishes.

—To shine your appliances, try car wax and apply as you would on your car.

—Never mix chlorine bleach or chlorine products with ammonia. This mixture could cause poisonous fumes.

—Take care with procelain because it will stain if scratched. Also procelain sinks and tubs retain soap scum which can be removed with specially designed bathroom cleaners that convert soap scum back to water and soap. For deeper stains you may need to use a gritty bleaching powder.

—Bleach whitens surfaces and finishes and kills most germs, but it will not remove all dirt and grease. Improper use of bleach will damage and discolor many surfaces.

—Detergents or ammonia in water are ideal for removing dirt, grease, and food spills from large surfaces. They can be quickly and economically applied with a mop or sponge.
—Use mild solutions of detergent and water for cleaning aluminum, but be careful because chemicals in certain cleaners can stain this metal. Aluminum polishes are also available.

Now, how about some tips to make that spring cleaning job and all other jobs easier? Try these:

*Clean as you go and put things away as they are used.
*Play the radio or stereo, music helps set a mood and create a pleasant atmosphere.
*Keep cleaning equipment clean and in good working order.

*Save steps by carrying what you need in a tote bag or on a cart.

*Line drawers and cabinets with washable shelf paper.
*Take advantage of odd-hour energy. If you are full of pep after the 11 p.m. news and you feel like washing windows, do!

*Work up to bigger jobs. If you really don't feel like cleaning, empty a wastebasket. Then do another small job. Once you get started your momentum and mood might change and you'll do more than you've planned.

*Relax between cleaning jobs.
*Try new products. Maybe you'll find one that works better than the one you are presently using.

*When using homemade cleaning products, you may wish to put them in a pump bottle to make them easier to use.

*Try to enjoy cleaning, it has to be done, so make the best of the situation!

Cancer Society's Crusade Including Informative Leaflet

New leaflets from the American Cancer Society, entitled "You Do Make A Difference," will be distributed throughout the county this month during the cancer crusade.

According to Mrs. Alana Winters, publicity chairman for Garrett County, some 13 million copies of the leaflet are being distributed nationwide, telling recipients of the do's and don'ts for cancer protection.

These are: don't smoke cigarettes; don't oversun; do breast self-examination; do get a pap test; do have a complete checkup; and do have an oral exam.

The educational message of the ACS campaign reflects a growing awareness that an individual has to be part of his or her health care, that good health is not the job of doctors alone.

The annual Crusade also raises funds for the ACS program of research, education and service to cancer patients and their families.

In talking about this month's crusade, Mrs. Winters stated, "We're trying to alert men and women to special cancer risks and inform them about valuable tests. While distributing the new leaflet, our volunteers will be happy to explain each of the above points. For example, many people may not know about the guaiac test because it is just beginning to be widely publicized. This simple test of small stool samples can help detect early colorectal cancer when it is very treatable."

Adult Screening Clinic Will Be Held April 19

The second special evening clinic for Adult Screening performed by Public Health Nurses is being planned for April 19, from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m., at the Health Department located in the Medical Building beside the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. This will be a walk-in clinic and no appointment will be necessary.

The Garrett County Health Department offers Preventive Health Services as a means to detect early symptoms in an effort to prevent more serious problems in adults. This includes all persons eighteen years of age and older. Included in the screening procedures are health history, height, weight, blood pressure, hemoglobin (blood test for iron content), urine test for protein and sugar, tuberculin test, Gualac (stool) test for blood and for women breast examination and pap test for cervical cancer. Glaucoma testing is also available for those persons thirty-five years of age and older. Glaucoma is a disease of the eye with excessive pressure and may result in hardening of the eyeball. Glaucoma has no known cure at this time, but can be controlled with medication.

Any questionable results to a test are either rechecked or referred immediately (depending upon the severity of the condition) to the physician of the individual's choice.

The adult screening services are also offered by appointment monthly at the health centers at Friendsville, Grantsville and Kitzmiller, and bi-monthly in Oakland. An appointment may be made by calling either 334-8111 or 895-

Builders, Realtors, Lenders Attend Housing Conference

More than a hundred builders, realtors, and lenders from Garrett, Allegany and Washington Counties joined local, state and federal housing program administrators on March 27th at Allegany County Community College to share knowledge and experience of state and federal housing programs.

Local business people had an opportunity to discuss their own good and bad experiences with government housing programs with the government and employees with responsibility for managing the programs.

The session covered state programs of the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development and federal housing programs of the Farmers Home Administration. The group discussed sales housing programs: Maryland Home Finance and Farmers Home 502, subdivision development, Farmers Home site loans and subdivision approval, the Maryland Appalachian Housing Program and the Maryland Homeownership Development Program; rental housing development under the Farmers Home Section 515 and the Maryland Development Financing Program; and several local, state and federal programs for home improvement and renovation.

Local business and government people played a prominent role during the conference in speaking about their own experiences with various programs. Tommy Thayer of Garrettland Realty described the Maryland Home Financing Program. Annette vanHil, Washington County Housing Coordinator, and Dave Edgerley, Allegany County Coordinator of State and Federal Programs, discussed their experiences with the Maryland Appalachian Housing Program and the Alexander House and Frostburg Heights Apartments projects. Deborah Lawton, the Garrett County Housing Coordinator, commented on the Farmers Home Section 515 rental housing program as well as the Garrett County Rehabilitation Program which she has been administering. Russell Alexander of Mt. Lake Park gave the group a contractor's perspective on the Garrett County Rehabilitation Program. Dick Miller, a home improvement contractor in Washington County, shared his experience with the Farmers Home and Maryland Rehabilitation Programs. Russell Neff, the Washington County Rehabilitation Specialist also commented upon the Farmers Home Rehabilitation Programs.

Most public and private people attending the conference agreed that the federal and state housing programs being discussed had significant usefulness. No other resources exist to make decent housing available to people of low and moderate incomes. At the same time, however, these housing programs are sometimes very hard to use. They have significant paper work and funding which often runs dry. The Western Maryland Housing conference was one step toward increasing the usefulness of housing programs by bringing together government administrators and private business people to talk with each other about difficulties in using housing programs and how to improve local housing conditions.

For information about federal and state housing programs, contact the Garrett County Housing Coordinator's office, 323 East Oak Street, Oakland, 334-4443.

Six FSC History Majors Participate In Intern Projects

The History Department of Frostburg State College is currently completing its first full year of internships for senior History majors seeking alternatives to teaching careers. Under the direction of Dr. John B. Wiseman, the program began in the fall semester with the placement of three interns.

Six History majors, including one from Bittering, are presently serving as interns throughout the state.

Rita L. Knox, Bittering, is preparing a tour manual for the History House in Cumberland and assisting the director of the Allegany Historical Society in preparing the spring exhibits.

The program has been designed to meet growing job market needs for trained and qualified historians by public and private historical agencies, preservation societies, various governmental units, research firms and corporations.

Interns work under the direction of a professional job supervisor and have their work periodically reviewed by the History Department's Internship Director.

Maryland Wool Production Higher

Wool shorn in Maryland during 1978 totaled 130,000 pounds, according to the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service. This was 8,000 pounds more than during 1977.

Average weight per fleece in 1978 was 7.2 pounds — unchanged from 1977. Farmers received an average price of 75 cents per pound in 1978 compared with 72 cents in 1977.

Total value of shorn wool produced in Maryland in 1978 was $98,000, $10,000 above last year's value of $88,000.

The Almanac

Today is Wednesday, April 11, the 101st day of 1978 with 264 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

American statesman and orator Edward Everett was born April 11, 1794.

On this day in history:

In 1942, Jackie Robinson became the first Negro in major league baseball when he played for the Brooklyn Dodgers against the New York Yankees in an exhibition game.

In 1968, President Lyndon Johnson ordered 24,500 military reservists called up, half of them for duty in Vietnam.

In 1970, the Apollo 13 spacecraft headed for the third U.S. landing on the moon. The attempt was aborted when a faulty oxygen tank exploded. The astronauts returned to earth safely.

In 1975, the United States closed its embassy in Phnom Penh as communist forces closed in on the Cambodian capital city. Several hundred Americans and Cambodians were evacuated.

A thought for the day: General of the Army Douglas MacArthur said, "There is no substitute for victory."

ASCS Suggests Pre-Measurement

"Farm program participants who want to be sure about their crop acreages, set-aside and diverted acres, should request pre-measurement service," Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said. The producer service is offered by ASCS to assure farmers that they are in compliance with the 1979 Feed Grain and Wheat Set-aside Program. Farmers are required to pay a nominal fee to cover the cost of pre-measurement.

Crowl said, "We will measure, stake and reference fields prior to planting. To be certain of full compliance, farmers must plant within the stakes that are placed when the land is measured." After planting, farmers are required to report their crop, set-aside and other program acreage to ASCS.

"Pre-measurement is very important as it guarantees field sizes and helps farmers plan which fields to plant and which to set-aside."

Farmers are encouraged to request pre-measurement and avoid loss of program benefits because of failure to comply with set-aside provisions.

Price Index For Farm Crops Unchanged

The Index of prices received by Maryland farmers for all commodities was unchanged from last month, according to the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service. At mid-March the index was 214 percent of the 1967 base, the same as last month, but 14 percent above last year. The all crops index at 202 percent of the base was up less than one-half of a percent from mid-February and increased 2 percent from 1978. The livestock and livestock products index remained the same as last month, at 220 percent of the base and rose 22 percent above a year earlier.

Prices paid by farmers in Maryland for selected feeds were unchanged for four, increased for four and decreased for two compared with last month. Only soybean meal decreased compared with last year and all other feed rose in price.

Southern Speaks

By Susan Schell
The ACT test was given to interested students Saturday, April 7. The test was approximately 3½ hours and began at 8:30.

Tryouts for new majorettes were held Tuesday, April 3, and an announcement of the winners was made Wednesday. The new majorettes are as follows: Kim Welch — Captain, Carrie Walters, Bonnie Cryser, Lisa Savage; Maggie Welch and Deanna Skiles, alternates.

Senior Modern Maryland and Freshman Civics classes traveled to Annapolis, Maryland, Saturday, April 6. During the visit, they toured the Naval Academy and sat in on legislative sessions.

The Winter Circuit Guard traveled to Saint Vincents College in Latrobe, Pennsylvania for championship competition. They received third place out of the fifteen in their division. The Guard scored a 66-13, the highest score this year.

The Southern Highlander Marching Band's next competition will be held at Atlanta, Georgia, April 18-22. The band will participate in field, street, and concert competition.

Current Juniors are having their Senior pictures taken for the yearbook by Ruhl's Studios April 16-17. The pictures are taken by appointment and each teacher has a listing of times for settings.

Jeannette Rudy and Shelly Lasek will travel to Morgantown, West Virginia, to the World Affairs Institute April 20 and 21. Their trip is sponsored by the Oakland Rotary.

The yearbook students will go to a workshop held at the Holiday Inn in Morgantown April 21. The students' trip will be sponsored by the Taylor Publishing Company.

Art students will visit Smithsonian Buildings and go to the National Art Gallery during the first week of May.

Seniors chose "The Long,

Winding Road" by The Beatles as the theme song for the prom. Midnight blue and silver and the rose are the chosen class colors and flower. The motto reads: "When you part from your friend, you grieve not; for that which you love meet in him may be clearer in his absence, as the mountain to the climber is clearer from the plain." This selection was quoted from Kahlil Gibran, "The Prophet."

EMS Council Elects Officers

Members of Region I Emergency Medical Services Advisory Council elected new officers at their recent meeting in Grantsville. Duane Oswald, Administrator of Frostburg Community Hospital, was elected president. Dr. George Stoltzfus, Family Practitioner in Friendsville, was elected vice president and Connie Spates, R.N., Director of Ambulatory Care at Cumberland Memorial Hospital, was elected as the organization's secretary-treasurer.

In addition to the elections the Council reviewed regular committee reports and topics of special interest to the Region. Dave Ramsey, Regional EMS Coordinator, advised the membership that future funding through Federal EMS Programs would be impossible until certain medical control issues were resolved. Specifically, treatment protocols, triage protocols and a single medical consultation center for the Region would have to be developed before application for additional Federal funds could be considered. At Mr. Oswald's recommendation this matter was given to the Hospital Care Committee for resolution.

In committee reports it was noted that the Regional Office and the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services had sponsored numerous training workshops in the past several months. Included in these were two Cardiac Rescue Technician Programs, an Advanced Cardiac Life Support Course for physicians, Crisis Intervention for Paramedics and EMTs, and a Case Review Program for ambulance personnel. Don Newman reported that the Transportation Committee had met with area ambulance and fire companies and reviewed new equipment requests in excess of $119,000. These projects have been ranked locally and forwarded to the Maryland Department of Transportation.

POET'S PODIUM

NATURE'S STAGE

I was on the greatest stage today,
Surrounded by one of the best symphonies around;
Although my performance was superb,
I must admit I will not be another Ginger Rogers;
The audience was attentive, and the lighting was just fine.
The sun glowed down to glisten, the water that spied out out a simple song;
The friendly birds above my stage whistled a happy tune — while the trees and the stones swayed to and fro to the lovely melody.
My time was running short you see, so I had to introduce the star of my great stage,
That miraculous Mother Nature

Some people are afraid of the dark, others of heights. Not me. I'm afraid of ladies' purses.

A purse is one of those enigmatic horrors that should be confined to the late-late show. I dread asking a member of the feminine gender for anything, only to have her reply, "Oh, you can go get it... it's in my purse." Aaaaah!

You should never blindly stick your hand into anyone's purse. They should be approached as carefully as if you were handling a grenade. Somewhere in the dark abyss of a purse's interior lurks unspeakable evils: left-over chewing gum; a jar of cold cream minus the lid; a paring knife; and a doggie bag with the petrified remains of a pork chop.

Monty Hall, of "Let's Make a Deal," is one of the bravest men I know in respect to purses. You've all seen his end-of-the-show routine when he says, "I'll give $50 to any lady who has a hydraulic jack in her purse."

Someone always wins the money. The contents of a lady's purse usually varies with the nature of her vocation. The following is a list of purse contents arranged by life-styles, and compiled from my own scientific research.

THE NURSE — Two hypodermic syringes without protective caps on the needles; surgical gloves; white shoe polish; a colostomy bag; an IV bottle with glucose (great for a quick pick-me-up); pharmaceutical samples of aspirin and Maalox; a thermometer; a disposable ice water pitcher and glasses; and a box of 50 assorted get-well cards.

THE SECRETARY — One empty Dannon yogurt container; a bag of celery sticks; nail file and polish; two used typewriter ribbons and a one-gallon can of correction fluid; an Avon catalogue and Tupperware order blank; Leggs container with rubberbands and paper clips in it.

THE HOUSEWIFE AND MOTHER — A collection of unpaid utility bills arranged by "shut-off" dates; several broken Crayola crayons; 32 expired coupons; two dried-out "Wet Wipes"; baby aspirin; Pepto Bismol; and confiscated bubble gum; the checkbook and credit cards sealed in a tamper-proof box; the pediatrician's home phone number; the dog's car sickness medicine; and a trial-size bottle of Valium.

THE SOCIALITE — A chipped Fostoria wine glass; a Neiman Marcus catalogue; a pedigree (her own); Daughters of the American Revolution membership card; the toll-free number for Yves St. Laurent's fashion wear hotline; a list of anybody who is anybody, with a separate sheet for nobodies, who with a crash culture course, could possibly blossom into a somebody; a bottle of "Opium" perfume; a pair of metallic gold pumps and matching change purse; a bar tab at the Country Club that reads like the National Debt; cotton swabs for cleaning the ears on her fox-head stole; an English saddle; a wholesale catalog for Helena Rubenstein cosmetics in 35-gallon drums.

THE GARDEN CLUB MEMBER — A 2½ lb. bag of lime; a metal weed-eater; one pair of garden gloves; pruning shears; assorted seed catalogs; a perfume atomizer filled with insecticide; a respirator mask; three different types of sod; and a broken garden hose spray nozzle.

The list is endless! However, whatever your occupation, lifestyle, or preference, there is now a handbag for you.

Perhaps you've seen it advertised on TV. The new "Organizer Bag."

A lady struggles onto the TV screen pulling this attractive accessory along on a "dolly." She stops, smiles brilliantly, and begins, "Hello there, I'm Thelma Mudd, star of the popular daytime serial, 'Search for My Car Keys.' Well, folks, I want to tell you about this marvelous new invention from Rip-Off, Inc. . . . the unique Organizer purse."

"How many times, ladies, have we missed work two days in a row because we couldn't find our eyeglasses? Well, never again. The new Organizer has put an end to disheveled purses forever."

"With the new Organizer, we have a compartment for wallet and credit cards; a clip for our car keys; a make-up purse with attachable wash basin; and a display area for photographs up to 8"x10".

"On this side there is a removable address book with a shelf for phone directories from three major cities. And here is a built-in frame for a diploma or certificate of your choice."

"But that's not all. Why, just look at this spacious center compartment. Here we have pockets for three pairs of shoes, a tiny lingerie drawer, and a miniature walk-in closet. And on the other side we have a storage area for your crock pot and toaster oven."

And here's the best part yet, ladies. Unzip this side, flip the bag over, kick it twice, pull this up, push this out. Insert these two metal rods, and you have a complete, compact, overnight camping tent with mosquito netting and a Coleman stove! Isn't that nice?"

"The spiffy new Organizer bag is complemented by your initials in 100% polyethylene plastic, and as our gift to you, this four-wheeled dolly for carting it around."

"If you are not completely satisfied with the quality and workmanship of this Organizer bag, then return it to us for a full refund. And keep the dolly. We can't afford the return postage."

Ms. Mudd then rolls her handy new Organizer bag off camera.

Someday I plan to do a history of purses: "The Purse as a Weapon;" "The Purse as a Public Nuisance;" "The Purse as an Art Form;" and finally, "The Purse as a Crime Deterrent."

That's right. A crime deterrent. Did you know that purse-snatchers are now the number one victims of hernias in the United States?

Would I lie?

Open Line

by Rep. Beverly Byron

This regular column provides citizens the opportunity to ask Congresswoman Byron any questions that happen to be on their mind. Inquiries should be sent c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Room 1216 JHOB, Washington, D. C. 20515.

Do you support sunset legislation?

I strongly favor so-called sunset legislation which would automatically terminate Federal agencies unless Congress studies their operations and votes to extend them.

Did your recent questionnaire indicate any areas where people did not want to cut government spending?

Energy research and law enforcement were the two federal programs that Central and Western Maryland citizens wanted to see cut least. I think this is particularly significant in light of our continuing energy crunch and need to find alternative fuel-efficient energy sources.

Why do you favor continuation of the Blue Ridge Train Line if it is losing money?

I feel elimination of weekday service on the Blue Ridge would be unfair and unjust to thousands of citizens who depend on the line because there is no energy-efficient transportation alternative. It is important to maintain trains such as this in a period of rapidly escalating gasoline prices and uncertain energy supplies. Also, it is important to note that the Blue Ridge is more "profitable" than any other short distance Amtrak route. In fact, during the last four years ridership on the route has more than doubled from 119,000 to 254,000 and daily ridership has soared four-fold since 1973.

"I'd like to give myself up"

What steps do I take to apply for a service academy appointment?

From now until October 30th, I will be accepting applications for appointments to the United States Service Academies for the class entering in July, 1979. Nominations are open to the Naval Academy, Military Academy, Air Force Academy and the Merchant Marine Academy.

Interested candidates should write me, care of the U. S. House of Representatives, 1216 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20515. Applications will be sent to prospective nominees who will later be subject to written and physical examinations and an interview by my Academy Selection Board.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

There is no mistaking the misery and depression of a pet suffering from distemper. It is one of the most dreaded of all canine diseases. Puppies are more susceptible to distemper than older dogs, but the disease can occur at any age.

Symptoms of canine distemper are similar to those of an upper respiratory ailment. You may notice a runny nose, flat and dry cough and loss of appetite at first. This will be followed by a high temperature, vomiting, a white crusty material around the eyes and nose, thirst and diarrhea. In the last stages of the disease, there may be muscular twitching, convulsions or paralysis.

Canine distemper is a highly contagious disease caused by a virus that is carried through the air. It is more common in the colder months, although a pet may contract the disease in any weather. Canine distemper can be picked up by direct contact with another dog with distemper or from the feet, hands or clothing of the person caring for such an animal. In fact, everything used by the distemper-infected dog may spread the disease; its cough, sneeze and urine contain virus particles that travel on air currents and can infect dogs.

To prevent distemper, it is important to have your pup vaccinated soon after it arrives from pet shop or kennel and to follow with booster shots at intervals set up by your veterinarian.

Occasionally, the protection offered by vaccination is rejected by puppies already carrying immunity obtained from nursing their mother. Puppies receive what are known as maternal antibodies from their mother's first milk, called colostrum. These special proteins temporarily protect the pups from specific diseases which the mother is immune to. If the mother has distemper immunity, for example, she will pass on distemper antibodies and short-term protection to her litter.

There is no easy way to tell if the puppy is ready to accept a distemper vaccination. Thus many puppies were left unprotected while their maternal antibodies disappeared between 6 and 12 weeks of age.

Researchers have discovered that human measles virus will protect puppies from canine distemper during this intermediate period. Puppies can be immunized by a combination distemper-measles vaccine whether or not maternal antibodies are present. Your veterinarian can give you details about it.

The death rate for unprotected pets is high, and many pets that do survive distemper attacks are disabled. Sometimes distemper leaves the animal deaf or without the sense of smell. Permanent damage to the nervous system may cause chorea (twitching) for the rest of the pet's life.

If there is a case of distemper in your neighborhood, keep away from the house and everyone in it. Even a short visit from a member of the family with the diseased pet could transfer the virus to your pet.

If your dog should suffer an attack of distemper, good nursing care will be vital to bring him through. He should be kept quiet and isolated in clean, warm, dry and well-ventilated quarters. Simple foods such as beef broth and soft-boiled eggs may be given in small amounts. The distemper patient may have little interest in food, so you may need to coax him to eat several times a day. Follow your veterinarian's advice about medicines and treatment to help your pet recover as quickly as possible.

Following recovery, blankets and materials that are not too valuable to discard should be burned. Otherwise, clean and spray disinfect everything the pet has come in contact with, including the backyard and fence posts.

Canine distemper is a dreaded disease that can be prevented. Booster shots at prescribed intervals will keep your pet's immunity at a high level so it can resist infection. Distemper is much easier to prevent than to treat.

Dental Association Makes Annual Visit

Officers of the Maryland State Dental Association made their annual visit to the Allegany-Garrett Dental Society at a recent dinner meeting.

State president Dr. Donald N. Brotman gave details of a report which showed that there is an excess of 51 dentists in western Maryland.

The dean of the University of Maryland Dental School, Dr. Errol Reese, spoke of efforts to reduce the number of dental graduates. The number of graduates is set at a high level by the federal government. The dental school has decided to give up federal financial aid and control, and the dean asked for contributions from individual dentists to help the school make up the lost federal funds.

Dr. William Strahan, secretary of the state society, introduced Lyman Karr, who spoke of the legislative work done by the society for the welfare of the public.

TUNES

by jim willis

The Best Days of My Life by Johnny Mathis, is an unexpected pleasure. Johnny's breathy style was wearing a bit thin in the "easy listening" category, and attempts at crossing over to the pop charts were generally futile during the past few years.

However, his single with Deniece Williams, "Too Much, Too Little, Too Late," and their debut album, "That's What Friends are For," proved to be the key to new found success.

"The Best Days of My Life" is an even greater improvement featuring a difficult duet with Jane Olivon on "The Last Time I Felt Like This."

This LP is faster paced with strong rhythmic undercurrents. It falls just shy of "disco" and, although hard to classify, it should appeal to a wide variety of musical tastes. Johnny Mathis' version of "As Time Goes by," resurrects an old standard with new life.

House Approves More State Aid For Education

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — A bill that would increase state assistance to localities for public education by $94 per student over the next year gained final approval in the House of Delegates last Tuesday.

A separate bill that would extend a public education program for disadvantaged children statewide was also given final approval.

The two measures together would amount to nearly $337 million in direct education assistance to the localities.

Payments for the general education program will mean a $26 million increase over this year's spending.

This is a very large and substantial increase — one of the major portions of the governor's aid to localities program," said Del. Lucille Maurer, D-Montgomery, the floor leader for the bills.

The general education bill would raise the state's contribution for each public school student from $690 to $784 per year.

Every jurisdiction in the state but one would benefit from increased allocations under the formulas included in the bill. That one, ironically, is Montgomery County, which Mrs. Maurer represents.

Before preliminary approval of the education bills, however, Mrs. Maurer succeeded in having an amendment adopted that would increase the per student allocation by $2 a year.

One effect of that amendment as the increase is spread throughout the localities based on the formula is that the potential loss in revenue for Montgomery County of about $700,000 would be reduced to about $500,000.

Nevertheless, Montgomery County would still receive slightly less from the state under the new appropriation for fiscal 1980 than it did this year.

The city of Baltimore would benefit the most from the bill, providing special state education assistance for disadvantaged children. The city would collect approximately $2.9 million, or just over half of the $5.3 million allocated in the program statewide.

LIBERATION POINT

This is a point in space where the gravitational pull of the sun is equal to the gravitational pull of the earth-moon system. There are several such points near the earth. One is 1.8 million kilometers (1.1 million miles) from earth. A satellite can be orbited around a point like this. The International Sun-Earth Explorer 3 will be the first spacecraft to orbit a point in space rather than a celestial body. Liberation points are of interest as places to locate future space colonies.

MOON

Full Moon will be at 8:15 a.m. tomorrow. Moonrise will be at 6:08 this evening. Next Wednesday moonrise will be at nine minutes after midnight.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Visible to the unaided eye this week are Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn. Venus is close to the eastern horizon at sunrise. Jupiter is about halfway across the southern sky at sunset. It is among the stars of Cancer. Saturn, among the stars of sky by about three hours.

DAYLIGHT INCREASES

Today is the 101st day of the year. It has been 21 days since the spring equinox. The 2nd of September will be the same number of days prior to the autumnal equinox. At that time the noon sun will be the same height above the horizon as it was today. By next Tuesday there will be 16 minutes more daylight than there was today. Sunrise was at 5:48 this morning. Sunset will follow 13 hours 3 minutes later at 6:51 p.m. At the end of the week sunset will be at 5:38 a.m. and sunrise will be at 6:57 p.m.

A Whirling Dervish . . .

A stunning blow was struck at Garrett County's economic future recently when Natural Resources Secretary James Coulter decided that state land considered for an industrial development site could not be spared by the state. His intentions were made known in this county via a carbon copy of a letter received after the decision was made.

Two tracts of land, compartments 15 and 16 of Garrett State Forest, had been under consideration for well over a year as a possible site for industrial development. Location, from the county's and potential industries' standpoints, was ideal — adjacent to a railway line, accessible to both Maryland and West Virginia, and large enough to contain several light industries and a coal cleaning facility.

Secretary Coulter had assured county planning officials and the commissioners that the land could be regarded by the state as "excess" property, and that the state would work with the county to achieve the final legal transfer as promptly as possible.

His department was kept informed of all events concerning the tracts, including results of a public meeting at Crellin, awarding of a $29,780 grant from Appalachian Regional Commission, and the hiring of a consulting firm to begin an economic and environmental feasibility study. Preliminary reports from the study were due June 30 of this year.

Not only did he suddenly reverse his earlier statements about the land alluding vaguely to "additional research," but it appears the Secretary does not have the common courtesy to notify the county in advance, or by direct letter. This would seem to show Garrett County where it must stand on the political scale of importance in Annapolis, and how little the $30,000 spent on the feasibility study means to a state-funded Department of Natural Resources.

Local officials are certain that a campaign by environmentalists, spearheaded by an absentee owner of land near Hutton, was instrumental in swaying the state to its new "decision".

However, in the April 15 edition of the Baltimore Sun, Mr. Coulter is quoted as saying "I agree one hundred percent that economic considerations are going to be imposed on environmental decisions."

You owe us an explanation, Mr. Coulter. If not careful, you may soon be likened to a whirling dervish of old, able to rotate rapidly when you feel the inclination.

Thirty Attend Commissioner Hearing On Martin Junkyard Application

Garrett County Commissioners Truman Paugh, Ernie Gregg, Jr., and Lester Hunter conducted a public hearing Tuesday on an application submitted by Adrian (Buck) Martin to operate a junkyard at the intersection of Route 36 and Pysell Crosscut Road, near Deer Park.

Approximately 30 neighboring citizens attended the session, and heard Marshall Rickert, county administrator, explain that under the provisions of the recently enacted junkyard ordinance, Mr. Martin's business qualifies as a nonconforming junkyard because it was in existence prior to the effective date of the ordinance.

Because his junkyard is qualified as nonconforming, the Commissioners do not have the legal authority to deny a permit to operate the junkyard. They do, however, have the authority to enforce setback and screening requirements contained in the ordinance.

Hubert Custer, whose property faces Mr. Martin's junkyard, submitted a petition with over 370 signatures urging the Commissioners to adequately enforce the setback and screening provisions so that the junkyard will be properly screened from the view of neighbors.

Eight other attendees expressed their feelings regarding measures the Commissioners could implement to enforce the setback and screening provisions.

The Commissioners will hold the record open for written testimony until April 30. After that time, the Commissioners will determine the conditions which they will impose with issuance of the permit.

In other business, John Nelson, zoning administrator, advised the Commissioners that the Finzel Community Park project grant was approved by the state Program Open Space officials. The Finzel community group now has the go-ahead to purchase land to develop a park in the Finzel community.

Discussion Tuesday also concerned the progress of installation of a chlorinator for the Shalimar water system.

Carl Rhodes, Tunnelton, was the lone bidder for 21 solid waste containers owned by the county. Mr. Rhodes' bid of $225 for the containers was accepted.

The Commissioners held a hearing to amend the revenue sharing budget for Fiscal Year 1979. The amendment, introduced by Marshall Rickert, proposes reducing the courthouse capital budget by $298,000 and increasing the county roads operating budget by that amount.

The change in budgeting was necessitated after federal funds which had been anticipated for the county failed to materialize.

One-Car Mishap Claims Life Of Christina Beitzel

Services were held Monday at 2 p.m. at St. Mark's Lutheran Church for nine-year-old Christina Renee Beitzel, Mt. Lake Park, who died following a one-car accident Friday night, April 13.

According to Maryland State Police, the accident occurred at 10:30 p.m. when Donna Kay Beitzel, 22, and her niece were returning from a shopping trip. Police reported that Miss Beitzel lost control of her Volkswagen while trying to tune the radio. The car, heading south on Route 495, left the right side of the road, and when the operator attempted to bring the car back onto the highway, the vehicle overturned, throwing Christina from the car.

Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad at Grantsville responded to the accident scene, along with members of the Pittenger volunteer fire department. The girl died of internal injuries enroute to Sacred Heart Hospital, where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

Donna Beitzel sustained back injuries and was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital.

Tfc. Carl D. Skidmore investigated for the state police.

Born January 10, 1970 in Martinsburg, Christina was a daughter of Robert and Rayetta (Ashby) Beitzel. She was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, and was a member of Girl Scout Troop 523 at Broad Ford. Besides her parents, she is survived by one sister, Wendy Patricia Beitzel, at home; paternal grandparents, Ernest R. and Lena (Bower) Beitzel, Sr., Accident, and maternal grandparents, Joseph A. and Phyllis R. (Willard) Ashby, Oakland.

The Rev. Richard A. Seaks, pastor of St. Mark's, officiated at the services Monday, and interment was in Garrett County Memorial Gardens.

Stewart Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

20-Acre Finzel Recreation Area Grant Approved

A $24,903 state grant for the Eastern Garrett County Recreation Area at Finzel has won approval from the Maryland Board of Public Works.

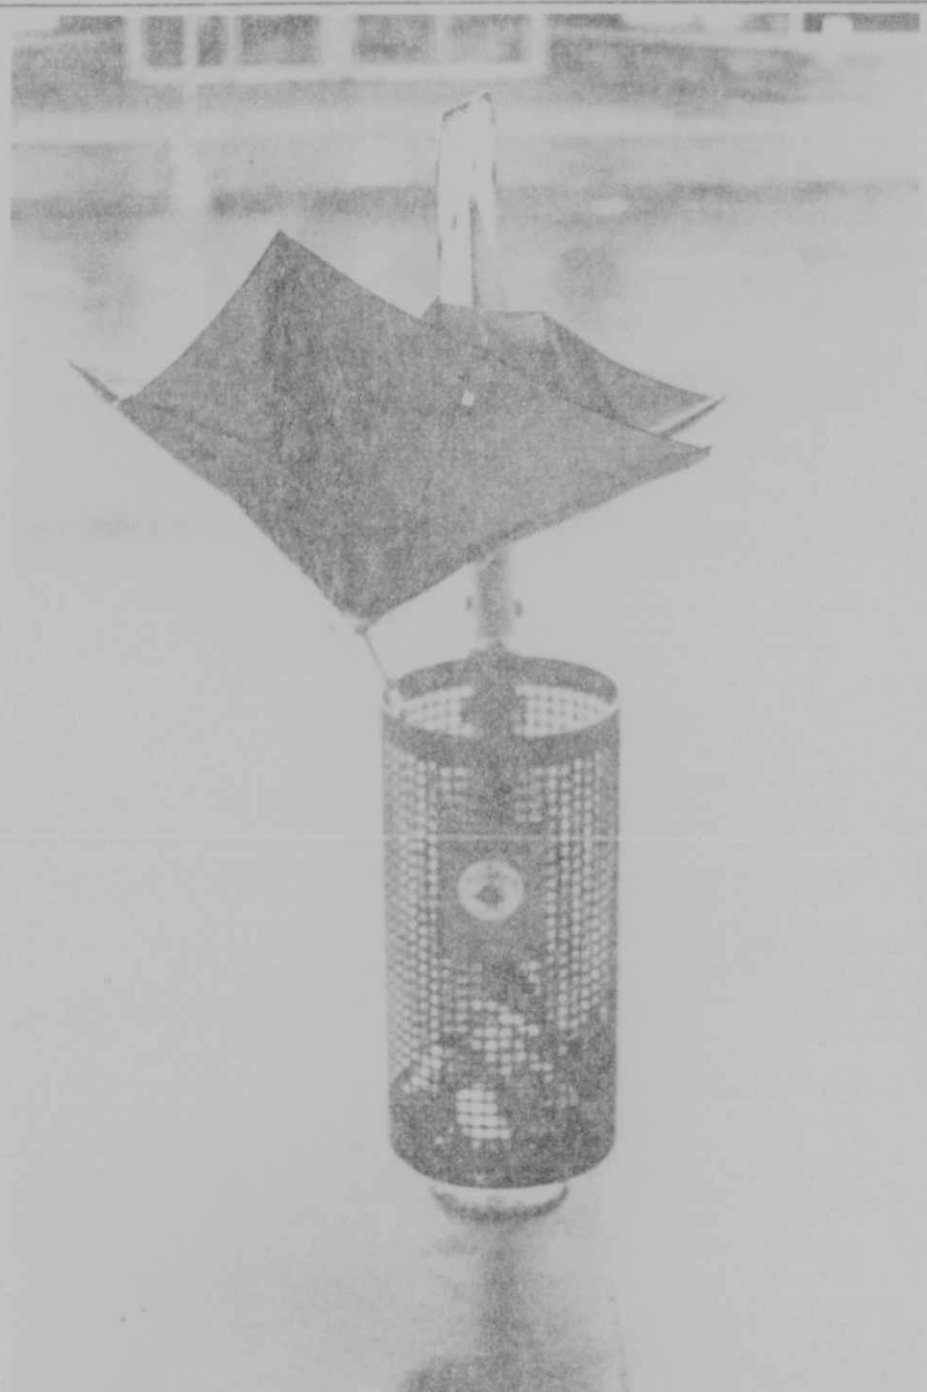

The funds will permit acquisition of more than 20 acres of land at Finzel for the recreation area.

The property is located on State Route 546 and will be purchased from W. Dwight Shover, trustee, to Michael Arnone, et ux, State Program Open Space money will be used.

During a meeting in Annapolis recently, Gov. Harry R. Hughes, Comptroller Louis Goldstein and Treasurer William S. James, who comprise the Board of Public Works, approved the expenditure.

State Park Pass Now Available

Maryland Park Service Deputy Director Jim Mallow announced today that this year, for the first time, a season pass is available for purchase by frequent weekend visitors to Maryland's State Parks. The $10.00 season pass can be purchased at all State Parks, Park Service Headquarters in Annapolis and all DNR Regional Service Centers.

The seasonal pass will admit the vehicle and its occupants to the day use area of the park, Monday through Fridays, excluding holidays. The pass is good only for entry into day use areas of the park. It does not include camping fees, shelter rental, boat rental or other special park fees.

The pass is valid when displayed on the left front bumper of vehicles 3 1/2 ton or smaller. The pass is valid for one calendar year.

Mr. Mallow emphasized that the purchasers of this season pass will realize a savings with frequent use of the parks. The Park Service operates 35 parks throughout the State. This pass can be used in all parks.

PE Ordered To Make $4.2 Million Refund

The Potomac Edison Company has been ordered by a state Public Service Commission examiner to refund $4.2 million to its Western Maryland customers.

Kirk Emge, the examiner, said PE charged too much through its fuel adjustment rate during the winter of 1977-78. The period extended from December to the following March.

Emge conducted a year-long investigation of charges that the company passed along as a result of extra coal purchases made when its regular supplies were shut off by the coal miners' strike.

The order will take effect May 14 unless PE appeals to the full commission. Lynn Keller, Hagerstown, a PE spokesman, said the company almost certainly will appeal to the full PSC.

When Emge conducted a hearing last summer on the case, PE presented testimony which showed these were legitimate costs which were passed along, the company said.

The company has not received a copy of Emge's opinion and is unable to make any further comment, according to Keller.

Garrett Playhouse To Begin 25th Anniversary Season

Gene Yell, producer of the Garrett County Playhouse, recently announced the 1979 Summer Schedule at the Blue Barn. Returning to the playhouse as members of the acting company are Joan Statkus, Cathie MacCallum, Milburn Mehlopp and Gerry McLaughlin. The season will open a week later than has been its custom, and will play seven weeks, making the season run from July 11th through August 25th.

The 1979 bill of productions includes: "Sunday in New York" by Norman Krasna; "Towards Zero" by Dame Agatha Christie; "Move Over, Mrs. Markham" by Sam and Bella Spewack; "I'll Get My Man" by Phyllis King; "California Suite" by Neil Simon and "Same Time, Next Year"

Rosedale House Severely Damaged By Fire Monday

An overheated wood stove was the probable cause of a Monday morning blaze which severely damaged a three-room cottage located along Rt. 29 in Rosedale, according to Oakland firefighters.

The Oakland Department was called to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander at 10:59 a.m. and found smoke and fire coming out of the windows and from under the eaves. No one was home at the time.

Firefighters confined the major fire damage to the kitchen and living room where a hole had burned through the ceiling. However, smoke and heat damage was extensive throughout the rest of the dwelling.

Nora Rinehart, who lives next door and also owns the burned residence, called Garrett County Central Alarm after she saw smoke coming from the house.

Oakland responded with two pumpers and a tanker. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad was also summoned. There were no injuries. Firefighters remained at the scene for about one hour.

by Bernard Slade.

Each production will play Wednesday through Saturday. For further information on subscriptions and scheduling write the Garrett County Playhouse, P.O. Box 304, Oakland, Md. 21550 or contact Robert Stanton, Oakland.

County Board Seeks Explanation Of DNR About-Face on Excess Land

The Garrett County Commissioners have fired off a strongly-worded letter to the Department of Natural Resources demanding an explanation for reversal of the state's position for potential industrial site development of state-owned land near Hutton.

Labeling the DNR reversal a "prejudiced decision (literally) that causes more than $50,000 in tax money to be wasted," the Commissioners ask a reply to questions concerning the two tracts of land.

Since 1977, compartment 15 and 16 of the Garrett State Forest have been labeled "excess" state property and work was already underway for a feasibility study for use of the land as an industrial park.

County planning officials and the Commissioners have been working on the project since 1977. Natural Resources Secretary James B. Coulter originally said "the land can be reasonably regarded as excess and can appropriately be made available for other uses." The county planned to lease the land from the state to locate a coal processing plant and rail loading facility, and financial benefits from lease of the land would accrue to the state. The county would get the benefit of an increased job market and increased tax base.

At that time in 1977, Coulter is quoted as saying "The state would work with Garrett County to achieve the final legal transfer as promptly as possible."

Now, scarcely a month after local officials met with DNR for discussion of items to be included in the feasibility study, the county has received a carbon copy of a letter directed to State Clearinghouse from Fred Eskew, assistant secretary for Capital Programs. Eskew's letter

Seven-Week Strike At Sterling Ends

A seven-week strike by employees at Sterling Processing Corporation ended Monday afternoon when the two unions involved voted to accept a new three-year contract.

Negotiations had been underway between Local 424 Amalgamated Meatcutters, Butchers and Workmen of North America; Local 453, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Warehousemen, and plant officials since March 1.

According to Gilman Sylvester, vice president and general manager of Sterling poultry processing plant, the three-year package includes a substantial wage increase and additional fringe benefits. This is the first three-year contract in the plant's history, as preceding contracts have been for two-year terms.

Work will resume gradually beginning today, and the plant should be back in full production by next week.

Federal mediator assisting in ending the strike was Robert Householder, Pittsburgh. Ed Manning, vice president of Local 424, from Pittsburgh; and Bill Petersen, business agent for the Teamsters from Cumberland, helped conclude negotiations on Monday morning. The new contract was ratified by employees vote Monday afternoon, ending the longest strike in Sterling's history. The longest strike prior to this lasted five weeks.

Weather

Sunny skies and warmer today and Thursday. Highs today in the mid 50s with low 60s on Thursday. Clear and cool tonight. Low in the upper 20s. The chance of precipitation near zero through Thursday. Winds northwesterly 10 to 15 mph today diminishing to light and variable tonight.

Maryland-Delaware extended forecast Friday through Sunday—Fair and warmer Friday and Saturday. Chance of showers Sunday. Highs will be in the 70s and lows will range from the mid 40s to the mid 50s.

informed State Clearinghouse that the reversal decision had been made.

The letter said simply "After additional consideration and research, DNR wishes to withdraw its notice of 'excess' for the Garrett State Forest."

No mention of "additional research and consideration" was made when Tim Dugan, county planning director, and Tom Jones, chairman of Garrett County Development Corporation, were in Annapolis March 2 to meet with DNR staff to coordinate the content of an environmental analysis the consulting firm would be doing.

Greenhorn and O'Mara, a firm located near Washington, D.C., was hired recently to conduct the economic feasibility study of the land, through a $29,780 grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission. The DNR had been notified that the ARC grant was awarded in October 1978. As recently as February 2, the Commissioners had written the DNR to keep them informed of progress here, telling DNR that the consultant had been hired and begun work, and the county was due to complete a draft report by June 30, 1979.

Now, without warning, comes DNR action by which the study is rendered an exercise in futility. Perhaps DNR has no qualms about a prejudiced decision that caused more than $50,000 in tax money to be wasted, but we have a different sense of accountability," asserts the Commissioners' letter.

"Mr. Eskew's letter alludes to 'additional research.' Our staff informs us that when they and our consultant met with your staff in Annapolis on March 2 there was not the slightest hint that DNR was either conducting or contemplating additional research."

Oakland Woman To Receive Top WVU Award

An Oakland woman is among six persons who have been elected to membership in the Order of Vandala, West Virginia University's highest award for outstanding service to the institution.

The five men and one woman will be inducted at ceremonies on May 12 in conjunction with the rededication of Woodburn Circle, according to WVU President Gene A. Bading.

Honorees include four lawyers and two extension specialists, comprising the largest single group to be inducted since the Order was established in 1961.

They are Polly Johnson Hand of Oakland; Charles G. Baker, C. P. Dorsey and Hale J. Pieten, all of Morgantown, and Robert H. C. Kay and Robert G. Kelly, both of Charleston.

Mrs. Hand represented West Virginia as a delegate to the American Country Life Conference in 1927, the beginning of an active 4-H and rural life career.

She was Youth Editor of Farmer's Wife writing 4-H features and a page entitled "For Our Girls," the forerunner of the section "Dear Polly" which later appeared in the Farm Journal.

Board Maintains Position on Full-Day Kindergarten At Thursday's Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education stood by its position on full-day attendance for kindergartners at last Thursday's meeting, but did grant some concessions to recommendations of an ad hoc committee appointed to study the present program.

The nine-member committee, with Albert R. Ringer, assistant superintendent of curriculum and instruction, chairman, included school officials and parents, and had been formed after a group of parents sought alternatives to a full-day program.

The Board authorized the staff to go ahead with a part time program for some students during the first nine-week marking period. In these instances, transportation would be provided voluntarily by the families of the students. Board members are Herbert Harman, president; Clarence Storn, vice president; Troy Greig, Brooks Hamilton and Robert Diehl.

Two other suggestions by the committee are being incorporated by the school board staff into the existing kindergarten program, including a May orientation day for parents and children and postponed entry into kindergarten.

One suggestion, that of a pilot program for the Broad Ford Elementary School, was not approved. Dr. William H. Bauer, school superintendent, recommended that the board not adopt the pilot program as it would require salaries for an additional half-time teacher and aide.

The school system will now go ahead with a May orientation day so parents and children can visit the school and spend a full day learning what school will be like. Officials are checking into the legality of parents riding the school buses, since for many kindergartners, the bus ride lengthens the day into nine hours.

The postponed entry gives parents the option to enroll children in schools at either age five or six.

In other business, Mr. Ringer reported that two Title IV projects submitted by the county to the Maryland State Department of Education had been approved and that budgets are now being negotiated.

The projects are "Planning and Implementing Student Competencies in Garrett County Schools" and "Alternative Learning Programs for Garrett County."

The Board also authorized the submission of the Special Education Comprehensive Plan which included two federal projects for FY 1980 submission to the state for action.

Following a presentation by staff, comments by involved families, and discussion by the Board, it was agreed that certain bus stops in the Bittinger area would not be combined as proposed, but would remain as they currently exist.

Evening Meeting Scheduled. The Board is planning a special evening meeting May 22 at 8 p.m. at the Southern Middle School. This will be one in a series of meetings held in the evenings by the Board so that more parents may attend and make their concerns known.

The Board adopted a tentative school calendar for the 1979-80 year which includes eight inclement weather make-up days and seven professional work days for teaching staff. School will open at 9 a.m. and be dismissed at 1 p.m. August 28 and close June 12, 1980 for students and June 13 for teachers.

School holidays will be September 3, Labor Day; October 18 and 19, MSTA meeting; November 9, Professional Day (Parent conference); November 22 and 23, Thanksgiving; December 21 through January 1, Christmas vacation; January 23, professional day; February 29, professional day.

March 31 through April 11, spring vacation (snow make-up days); May 2, professional day; May 20, primary election day; May 30, Memorial Day; and June 13, professional day.

Commencement will be Sunday, June 1, for both high schools.

Dale Eugene Rhodes, Buena Vista Road, pleaded guilty of two charges of larceny at Mt. Lake Park in December. Rhodes was placed on probation for two years before judgment.

Diane E. Terrant, RD 2, Oakland, pleaded guilty of false pretense by passing a bad check. She paid costs, was given a 30-day suspended sentence and was placed on probation for two years.

David Paul Brandlen, Bloomington, was charged with assault and battery on two women at Bloomington. The case was steted.

Two other cases were dismissed.

Warren Figulski, a Pittsburgh-area meat distributor, will be the guest speaker for the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship Dinner, Saturday, April 21, at 7:00 p.m. in the Deep Creek Fire Hall.

Figulski will speak about his encounter with terminal cancer. Two years ago his doctors had discovered a massive tumor in his left pelvis and had predicted he would not live for more than three months. That was in September 1977. Within the three months that followed, Figulski experienced many changes, among them was a personal commitment to Christianity and the complete disappearance of the tumor and all traces of cancer.

Figulski will discuss his experiences and their effects on his life, his family, and his business.

Board Of Education Officials Break Ground For Two New Facilities

The Garrett County Board of Education conducted ground-breaking ceremonies on Wednesday, April 11, at county school sites at Grantsville and Dennett Road Elementary Schools.

In the morning Garrett County Board of Education Vice-President Clarence Stem broke ground at the Dennett Road School site for new additions and renovation work to the existing school.

Clark Sharpless, principal of Dennett Road School, conducted the program, the Rev. Manning Smith of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, gave the invocation, Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Buser made brief remarks, and the Dennett Road Chorus, under the direction of Harold Radnall, sang several songs including the school song.

The addition work to the school will involve the construction of some 7,150 square feet of space for special education students, teacher planning and dining areas, and storage space.

The renovation work will include window treatment to improve energy efficiency, replacement of incandescent with fluorescent lighting, the lowering of ceilings in certain classrooms and the cafeteria, installation of a new intercommunication and television distribution system, paving improvements, interior painting of the existing facility, and other minor improvements.

The total cost of the project will be $729,300 with the County Commissioners contributing $12,500 to the cost. Fairchance Lumber Company of Fairchance, Pa. is the general contractor with Bushey Associates of Hagerstown serving as architects. The completion date for work within the existing building is August 24, 1979 with the entire project to be completed by December 1, 1979.

In the afternoon Garrett County Board of Education President Herbert G. Harman broke ground in the rear of the existing Grantsville School for the construction of a new Grantsville School. Matthew Stieringer, Principal of the Grantsville School, conducted the program, the Rev. Aidan Lucko of St. Ann's Catholic Church gave the invocation, Superintendent of Schools William Buser, past County Commissioner George Edwards, and Town Councilman Walter Youkin made brief remarks, and the Grantsville School Chorus, under the direction of Peggy Cannon, also participated in the program.

This project will involve the construction of approximately 35,000 square feet of space to accommodate kindergarten through fifth grade students. The building will include areas for special education, media services, a kitchen-cafeteria, gymnasium, music, and art.

The total cost of this project will be $2,012,500 with the County Commissioners contributing $43,200 to this cost. Approximately two years ago, the county also provided funds for additional land at the school site. The Westmoreland Construction Company of Greensburg, Pa. is the general contractor on this project, with J. Prentiss Brown of Baltimore serving as the architect. The completion date for this project is scheduled for late spring of 1980.

CONVERSATIONS ON CARPETING

Brought to you by Carolyn & Butch Helbig who say "A floor without a rug is like a kiss without a hug."

CREATE A NEW ROOM

Is there a recreation room, den, or family room in your home that's been looking pretty drab lately? Why not create a lovely, lively new room? There's no better time than the present and there's no better way to begin than by selecting new carpeting from Roderick's. If you're thinking, "But I can't afford carpet for my recreation room," think again. Carpeting is now available in a whole range of prices... even those to suit the most budget-conscious decorators. And there are lots of practical reasons for adding carpeting to that family "fun" room. Carpeting means quiet. Even teen parties and young children's get-togethers won't disturb the rest of the family if there's carpeting on the floor. It cuts down the noise level and creates a pleasant atmosphere throughout the house. The many types of synthetic fibers now used in carpet manufacturing mean easy clean-up for. Periodic vacuuming is lots easier than scrubbing and polishing hard surface floors. Spots and spills are no problem either. Today's carpeting is made to be cleaned.

Stop in today and talk over your plans for creating a lovely new recreation room. We have just the carpet you're looking for.

Each week we will tell you more about carpeting for your home. Watch for these columns.

Letters to Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

A recent breakup of my neighbor's beautiful family induces me to write to you here as being the proper place to present an unpopular view — My Opposition To Equal Rights For Women!

Men seem little changed lately whereas women now competing as equals in the marketplace extend such into homes, woman against woman, single versus married and younger against the not so young. Children, formerly their primary concern, now seem but faceless pawns in this too holds barred struggle for the pursuit of happiness.

Recent emerging statistics are disturbing. We have a divorce rate of 50% and rising, with few safeguards for the welfare of the children of these broken homes.

Shall our freedom to pursue happiness be now so free as to demand that children be also engaged in this competition to enjoy the benefits of a solid and stable family? At what age should we teach them to struggle for their food, shelter and love? At what age shall we teach them to speak out against "the other woman?" Preschool?

It is held here that such competition belongs solely in the marketplace. Some constraints, some pity or conscience must limit that freedom or must be provided by law.

Am I alone in wishing for laws recognizing unequals?

Sincerely,
 Concerned Citizen

Dear Citizen:

We're not exactly sure what you are trying to say in your letter, but we have learned that you have been nominated to receive the Male Chauvinist of the Year award. Should you win the award, you will receive a lifetime subscription to Ms. Magazine. Congratulations.

plating "additional research." If there was, in fact, additional research of sufficient significance to justify a complete reversal of policy in mid-study, wouldn't simple courtesy indicate that we should have been informed that it had been initiated so we could advise our consultant?"

Local officials feel certain that behind-the-scenes machinations of one landowner in the Hutton area, and resulting outcries by environmentalist groups helped to cause the DNR about-face.

Their letter continues: "We are informed that the vociferous owner of a nearby tract of land has recently lobbied you on this issue. Is it mere coincidence that that same absentee-owner called our staff to boastfully read us his blind carbon copy of Mr. Eskew's letter?"

The landowner is Howard Janoske, a contractor in the Prince George's County area who owns property used for hunting adjacent to the proposed industrial site. Mr. Janoske was an outspoken attendee of a public meeting on the industrial site at Crellin last year.

Janoske at that time accused the Garrett County Commissioners and planning of fruits of fraud, even though he offered no proof to substantiate the charge. He said he believed the park would threaten scenic views and such "rare, endangered species" as the fox squirrel, red squirrel, turkey and bear.

Former Garrett County Commissioner Wayne B. Hamilton, of Red House, has gone on record saying that he was approached by Janoske immediately following the public meeting, and that Janoske offered to make the commissioners "a deal," but the type of deal was not spelled out. Mr. Hamilton said he flatly refused to listen to the man, and says he considers him "one of the lowest characters he has had to deal with in his eight years in county office."

Mr. Hamilton also recounted a conversation with an attorney for several coal firms with mineral rights in this county. Following the Crellin meeting, the attorney reportedly told Mr. Hamilton that he would advise the coal operators not to look to Maryland for development possibilities, and to sell their coal rights. The reason, he said, was the type of people (referring to Janoske) that would be in opposition to development.

Mr. Hamilton noted that he, as an individual, plans to discuss this matter with Secretary Coulter in attempts to get him to explain the reversal of his earlier agreements with the county.

After consideration of several sites for the industrial park, the Hutton location had been pinpointed as the best possibility. Although many miles of railroads traverse the county, very little land along the tracks is conducive to development of an employment center for manufacturing and other industry.

The state presently holds some 87,000 acres in the county, nearly one out of every five.

The state presently holds some 87,000 acres in the county, nearly one out of every five.

Mr. Hamilton noted that he, as an individual, plans to discuss this matter with Secretary Coulter in attempts to get him to explain the reversal of his earlier agreements with the county.

After consideration of several sites for the industrial park, the Hutton location had been pinpointed as the best possibility. Although many miles of railroads traverse the county, very little land along the tracks is conducive to development of an employment center for manufacturing and other industry.

Merchants Donate Money For Gate

The Merchants' and Businessmen's Association voted to release funds collected for the Liberty Street parking lot to the town of Oakland at the group's April 10 meeting.

The town is expected to purchase an automatic gate which will be operated by the insertion of coins for all-day parking.

Six names were recommended by the merchants for inclusion on a committee to determine what projects should be included in a renovation of downtown Oakland.

The merchants also discussed promotional activities for the coming year. Tom

Southern Rams Defeat Frankfort

The Southern Rams, with three runs in the first three innings, defeated hosts Frankfort High last Thursday, 3-2. The win was the first of a PVC double-header with the second game halted after a seven-inning tie, 2-2, due to darkness.

In the opener, which was limited to five innings, the Rams gained a single from Delbert Liller. Winning pitcher, Jim Simms, gave up four hits including doubles to Scott White and Bob Ritchie. The Frankfort Falcons scored their two runs in the third.

Dave Sweitzer connected on a home run for Southern in the eighth.

Bender collected seven hits in 12 at-bats for a .583 average.

Stock Car Racing Season Opens At Winchester, Va.

This Saturday night, the track at Jennerstown, Pa. will be opening for the season, weather permitting.

Spring Turkey Season To Begin Next Monday

By Al Bourgeois
District Wildlife Manager
Maryland's Spring Turkey hunting season begins Monday, April 23 and continues through Saturday, May 5, 1979. Hunting hours will be restricted to one-half hour before sunrise to 12 o'clock noon and only bearded turkeys (gobblers) may be harvested. Sportsmen will be limited to shooting one turkey during the season.

In past years, spring turkey hunting has proved quite popular, although it takes a lot of skill and some luck to call in a gobbler. In most instances calling is the key to a successful hunt and several manual calls — ranging from diaphragm mouth calls to wooden box calls or slate calls — are allowed. However, any form of electronic calling device is not permitted.

Spring seasons are set so as to have the least detrimental effect on the turkey population and still utilize an available resource. Generally, season dates are set to occur after the peak gobbling activity in the spring. This insures that the majority of hens have mated and, since gobblers will mate with several hens, harvesting of gobblers only, at this time, will have no effect on the population (since in most cases there will always be a male surviving to service any late hens). Restricted hunting hours helps minimize problems with shooting hens, since most hens will be sitting on a nest and will remain sitting until the morning air warms up enough that she can leave the nest to feed without fear of the eggs cooling down too much.

In Maryland, to participate in the spring turkey season a hunter must possess a valid hunting license and big game stamp. Once a turkey is bagged a hunter must immediately attach his turkey tag to the bird and check it within 24 hours at a designated check station in the county the bird was shot.

Turkey checking stations in Garrett County are: Walt's General Store, McHenry; Savage River Inn, Bloomington; Johnny's Bait House, Deep Creek Lake; Deep Creek Lake State Park; Hetz's Grocery, Grantsville; and A. D. Naylor's Hardware, Oakland.

William Pope Joins In Boston Marathon Fun

By Beverly J. Sincell

William W. Pope, a Garrett County physician and county health officer, joined the 7,840 entrants Monday in the top running event of the year, the Boston Marathon.

More than 30,000 spectators lined the streets of the tiny town of Hopkinton, Mass., to cheer the runners and to catch glimpses of some of the veterans of the marathon, including champion Bill Rodgers, who won his third Boston marathon in five years and set the American record of 2:09.27. Another veteran was John Kelly, the seventy-one year old runner who has participated in 38 Boston Marathons.

Dr. Pope was not a veteran of the marathon — he ran in it for the first time Monday and finished with a 3:30 time. Not once did he falter or think he would not finish. "I probably ran underneath my capability," he stated. "I felt comfortable throughout."

race with temperatures in the mid 40s and a light steady drizzle.

Dr. Pope found the weather quite agreeable since he had trained in all kinds of Garrett County weather. He began training for the marathon on New Year's Day and averaged 50-60 miles a week, in spite of intense cold and heavy snows.

The 7,840 official entrants from the United States and 26 other nations was the largest number ever to participate.

"It was a lot of fun," Dr. Pope said.

The runners were a big support and the crowd was a big support. Part of the support from the crowd came from his wife, Fran, sons, Nick and Andy and his father who accompanied him to the event.

Even though the participants were serious runners, there was still room for humor. Many ran in costume. Dr. Pope gave the example that "one fellow ran with a buffalo head and another ran with a Japanese mask."

Dr. Pope qualified for the Boston Marathon in his first marathon held at Gettysburg with a 3:19 time. Since his first he has run in three other marathons, all last fall, one in Pittsburgh, one Washington, D. C. and one in Baltimore. In the Boston, he ran in the Over 40 category which required a 3:30 time in previous races to qualify.

Five minutes could have been knocked off Pope's finishing time because that was the time it took him to reach the starting line once the marathon began. Entrants were ranked according to qualifying speed and only those in the front rows actually began the marathon at the starting line.

Once the marathon was over, Dr. Pope said he felt better after it than after any of his previous marathons. As a matter of fact, he enjoyed it so much he just may go back next year and is looking for more Garrett Countians to join him.

Bye, Bye, Black Sheep—The Senseless Sheep-Kills

by Jim Willis

EXPENSIVE LOSS — Lee E. Shillingburg, Steyer Road, has lost thousands of dollars worth of purebred sheep in the past 12 months due to attacks by packs of wild dogs. His is not an unusual circumstance, and similar instances have recently been reported from Friendsville, Accident, Deer Park, Swanton, and Barton. The county holds $1,000 in reserve, in addition to monies collected in dog tag revenues, to reimburse farmers for their losses. Last year's dog tag fees collected amounted to $431. Breaking that down per animal, it would seem that there are only 215 dogs in the county. Obviously local pet owners do not realize the importance of licensing their dogs as required by law. The county "sheep-kill" fund has been exhausted, even though farmers are paid only fair market value for their animals. Three claims were paid in 1978; some were only partial payments, while seven other claims remain outstanding. The three claims amounted to $1,434, and farmers are reimbursed in chronological order of claims.

AT DEATH'S DOORSTEP — This young ewe owned by Lee E. Shillingburg, Steyer Road, kneels as it slowly succumbs to death. She was a victim of a dog attack, the ninth such occurrence at the Shillingburg farm in the past 12 months. Mr. Shillingburg has had over 50 registered sheep killed, and over 90 injured as a result of the attacks. The sheep pictured above was a victim of an attack Sunday evening by at least two marauding dogs. Dogs which return to the wild, known as feral dogs, revert back to their wolf-like instincts and begin travelling in packs. Unfortunately, such packs of feral dogs can be even more unpredictable than their wild cousins. Each successive generation becomes increasingly vicious and the grim possibility always exists that a defenseless child could be seriously hurt by such a pack of dogs.

BATTLE-SCARRED — Sunday evening's dog attack left approximately 19 sheep injured and three dead at the Shillingburg farm. Most of the injured may die when flies infect the gaping wounds such as those pictured on the sheep above. Packs of wild dogs as large as seven have terrorized local farms. These feral dog packs are bred when heartless pet owners abandon dogs in wooded areas to fend for themselves. Out of necessity the dogs return to their wild state, breeding successively more dangerous litters. Owned dogs who have developed a taste of blood may bring a fine of $25 and/or thirty days in jail for their irresponsible owners. The Annotated Code of Maryland defines the offense as a misdemeanor and errant dogs must be destroyed. Article 56, Section 195 of the Code further declares, "Any person may kill any dog which he sees in the act of pursuing, attacking, wounding, or killing any poultry or livestock. There shall be no liability on such persons in damages or otherwise for such killing." The problem of local sheep-kills will only be halted through the concerted effort of farmers, dog-owners, hunters, and animal control officers who are in the position to end needless maiming and killing.

Joseph Franklin Appointed 58th Military Academy Commandant

Brig. Gen. Joseph P. Franklin, a Cumberland native and who has a residence on Deep Creek Lake, has been appointed by President Carter as the 58th commandant of cadets at the U. S. Military Academy. Secretary of Defense Harold Brown announced last week.

Gen. Franklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. William Bibby, Cumberland, will assume his post June 4. "I believe," noted Franklin in a letter to The Republican, "this is the first time for any local man to hold this Academy appointment."

Presently he is serving as special assistant to the Director of the Joint Staff, Organization of the Joint Chiefs of Staff at the Pentagon, where he has been serving since July 1977.

Franklin, who recently received his promotion to brigadier general, will be second in command to Lt. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpasture, superintendent at West Point.

Prior to his JCS assignment, Franklin commanded the 4th Training Brigade at Ft. Knox, Ky. Having been commissioned in the Corps of Engineers, Gen. Franklin commanded the 29th Engineer Battalion in Vietnam in 1970.

The newly-designated commandant follows a long line of well-known Army officers who have held that post. Capt. William Worth, one of the earlier commandants, ultimately had Ft. Worth named for him. Captain John Bliss had a similar distinction. General Simon B. Buckner, Jr., held the post as a lieutenant colonel in the 1930s. In more recent years, Generals Richard Stilwell and Michael Davison were commandants. Present Army Chief of Staff, Bernard W. Rogers, was the commandant from 1969 to 1972. Overall, eight commandants went on to achieve the rank of four-star general.

Franklin is the first commandant with a background in the Corps of Engineers. While many of the superintendents have been engineers, all the commandants have been infantry, artillery or cavalry/armor. He recently transferred to infantry but has served no infantry assignments.

This will be his third appointment at West Point. His first was as a student from 1961 to 1965. While there he played on the varsity football team under Coach Red Blaik and was president of the senior class. He graduated with a bachelor of science in civil engineering from the Academy and later earned masters' degrees in both nuclear and civil engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Additionally, he is a 1973 graduate of the Army War College and of the Naval War College Command and Staff Course.

His second appointment of the Academy from 1965 through 1968 was as an assistant professor of nuclear engineering and assistant football coach.

As a nuclear engineer, Franklin was project engineer from 1961 to 1963 for the design and construction of the First Army's floating nuclear power plant, the SS Sturgis.

In 1964 and 1965, he commanded the nuclear powered research Camp Century on the Greenland Ice Cap and was in charge of shutting down, disassembling and relocating the nuclear reactor from Greenland to the United States.

For his efforts, he received a commendation from the Atomic Energy Commission of Denmark.

During his command in Vietnam, Franklin received the Air Medal with two oak leaf clusters for flying helicopters in combat and was awarded the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star and the Vietnamese Government Medal.

Gen. Franklin is married to the former Constance Marie Smith, daughter of the late Mr.

and Mrs. Fulcher P. Smith, Sr., of Cumberland and Deep Creek Lake. They have four sons, William, Terry, Philip and Dean, and reside at 2636

South Lynn Street, Arlington, Va.

She has been active in the 4-H Program at Jackson's Mill since her youth, having been director of the girl's state camp while on the State Extension Staff. She has been associate director of the Older Youth Camp for the past 20 years and directed the morning activities. Locally, she has been a youth worker, girl scout leader, Sunday school teacher at the St. Mark's Lutheran Church, a member of various civic organizations, and the founder of the Monte Vista 4-H Club. She also taught Home Economics at Northern High School for fifteen years.

She resides with her husband, George H. Hanst, former editor of The Republican, on South Third Street in Oakland. She is the mother of three children.

Baker served as a Monongalia County circuit judge from 1929 to 1937 and from 1945 to 1953. He has been active in community affairs for more than 60 years, beginning with his selection as assistant prosecuting attorney in 1916. He has maintained a life-long interest in Boy Scout activities and formed the city's first troop in 1912.

Dorsey headed the State's 4-H Club movement in Morgantown for many years and on retirement assumed the directorship of the museum then being established at Jackson's Mill, the actual collection being housed in the mill where Stonewall Jackson had worked as a boy.

Posten has served as a president of the University Alumni Association, as a director of the Law Review Association, as a trustee of the Loyalty Permanent Endowment Fund and as a member of the visiting committee of the College of Law. He was a member of the State Conservation Commission from 1935 to 1941, contributing to the development of the state park system and to introducing professionalism into the fields of forestry and wildlife management.

The Order of Vandalia commemorates the proposed 14th colony of Vandalia, which would have included most of what is now West Virginia, as well as portions of Pennsylvania, Virginia and Kentucky. The colony's charter had been approved by King George III and was in the process of preparation in 1774 when trouble with the colonies, especially in Boston, grew so intense that the King ordered all such negotiations with colonies halted.

The Order was established by WVU in 1961 by President Elvis J. Stahr, Jr. and was named to honor those persons who "as did their forebears through the past two centuries, exemplify the best of West Virginia loyalty and tradition."

Thirty-five persons have been elected to the Order of Vandalia since its inception. Many of the sixteen still living are expected to attend the ceremony on May 12. The program will begin at 2 p.m. with the rededication of Woodburn Circle as a renovated portion of the Downtown Campus and as a National Historic Site.

Generator, Locust Trees Are Among Larcenies Reported

Members of the sheriff's department were kept busy these past several days with a series of larceny reports. Items taken ranged from a generator to 30 locust trees.

James Shank, Route 2, Oakland, reported that during the night of April 9, someone removed a Homelite generator valued at $425 from his pickup truck.

Robert Browning, Star Route 2, Oakland, reported that during the night of April 10, unknown persons removed a canoe from an embankment near a pond on his family property. Value of the missing canoe was set at $350.

Carol Kirby, Silver Spring, reported to the sheriff that some time during March, someone had taken a power saw and cut 30 locust trees from her property in The Ridge development, Deep Creek Lake. Value of the trees was set at $150.

Two front hubcaps valued at $80 were removed from a vehicle belonging to Gary Duckworth April 13, while the car was parked at Das Gaschhaus.

Linda Upole, Route 1, Oakland, told the investigating deputy that sometime during the evening April 7, her bike, valued at $165, had been removed from her driveway. The bike is an orange Ross European.

Curtis Savage, Main Street, Grantsville, reported that a Uniroval glassbelled tire mounted on a white rim had been removed from the garage at the rear of his residence between April 1 and 11. Value of the missing items was $75.

A Coca Cola machine at Harvey's Pennzoil Station at Sand Flat was opened with a key during the night of April 11, and an undetermined amount of money removed from the machine.

A Pittsburgh man, Krottseng Svoere, reported that sometime between October and April 6, someone had entered his summer home on Bear Creek near the fish hatchery. Entry was made by removing a window from the front door. The house was ransacked, but nothing has as yet been discovered missing.

Cluse Coal Company, Route 1, Frostburg, operating a strip mine near Bittinger, reported that someone had removed tools and a toolbox valued at $197 from a tool shed.

Spinning tires caused damage to the lawn in the vicinity of the greenhouse at Southern High School about 3 p.m. April 16. The incident was reported by Richard Bishoff. Glen Simpson, H Street, Mt. Lake Park, told deputies that a full bottle of beer had been thrown through the rear window of his vehicle while it was parked on Cedar Street. The window was completely shattered.

Bolden Has High "Batting Average" In Legislature

Statistics show that fewer than one out of every three bills introduced in Annapolis eventually make their way to the governor's desk for signature, and that the highest average of bills and resolutions passed by local legislators this past session was 44.7 percent for DeCorney E. Bolden (R-Garrett, Allegany).

Lowest "batting average" was held by Sen. Edward J. Mison (R-Garrett, Allegany).

Bolden's success rate in having bills enacted is due in part to the fact that many of his measures were local bills, affecting only Garrett County.

Del. Thomas B. Cumiskey, Jr. (D-Allegany) said last week that he computed the success rate of Senate bills and found that only 28 percent of Senate-originated bills made it through both houses.

He pointed out that the averages can be deceptive because many bills are strictly local in nature and because they are not controversial they are more likely to be enacted than many state-wide bills.

Some of the pieces of legislation sponsored by local legislators and enacted this year include:

BOLDEN — Law enforcement Officers' death benefits; Garrett County Amusement Licenses; Retail Sales Tax-Exemption for Residential Heating Fuels; Natural Resources-Land Reclamation Committee; Deep Creek Lake Review Committee and Recreation Maintenance and Management Fund; Garrett County-Elected Board of Education; Interstate Public Service Commission Advisory Committee; United States Energy Policy.

Housing Office Conducting Survey

In order to obtain information necessary to potential conventional, state and Federal mortgage and development financing sources, the Garrett County Housing Office is conducting a market survey to assess the demand for a housing project to serve the specific needs of the elderly residents of the Southern part of the county.

Approximately 4,000 questionnaires have been mailed to area residents seeking such information. The questionnaires do not have to be signed and there is no postage fee for mailing the forms back to the Housing Office, according to Deborah Lawton, Housing Coordinator.

The survey is being conducted in conjunction with a project proposal by a private sponsor who has paid all costs involved in making the survey.

Ms. Lawton said that one of the functions of the Housing Office is to encourage the responsible development of housing by private enterprise.

Questions about the survey should be directed to Ms. Lawton at the Housing Office on Oak Street, Oakland.

Deregulation Winds In Washington Blowing In TV Industry Direction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The television industry is getting a whiff of the winds of deregulation that are blowing across Washington.

In the past couple of years, the Federal Communications Commission has taken steps to ease much of the paperwork it formerly required, especially in the area of technical changes involved in running a station.

As a way of increasing minority ownership, the FCC plans to loosen its financial requirements for TV stations soon. And it has taken major steps to deregulate cable television.

Other changes are coming down the pike. The commission currently is involved in its most comprehensive re-examination of the networks in 20 years, and its conclusions, a preliminary staff report is due out this summer, doubtless will have an impact.

In addition, the nature of the industry itself inevitably will be changed by relatively new offerings: cable television, subscription TV and television by satellite, to name just a few.

On Capitol Hill, legislation has been introduced in both the Senate and the House to overhaul the 1934 Communications Act, the landmark legislation that governs the broadcasting industry.

Generally those bills are looking toward deregulation and we're looking forward to that," says John Summers, executive vice president of the National Association of Broadcasters.

"We generally view them as a step in the right direction."

In the meantime, one of the industry's main concerns is the Federal Trade Commission, whose staff has just completed hearings in Washington and San Francisco on advertising aimed at children.

At the same time, the FCC, which looked into the issue several years ago and decided to let the industry try regulating itself for awhile, is reopening its inquiry.

At the trade commission, the staff originally proposed a ban on all TV commercials on programs aimed at very young children; a ban on commercials for highly sugared foods, including some breakfast cereals, on programs seen by older children; and a requirement that advertisers of sugared products spend money producing public service messages about good nutrition.

The staff eventually will make a recommendation to the FTC. Although any final action is probably years away, the project has opened the commission to heavy criticism.

It also has had another effect — that of adding fuel to moves in Congress to write a law that would give either house of Congress a veto over any rule issued by a regulatory agency. It's a power about which constitutional questions remain, and one which has never been tested in court.

NBC remained in last place in the Nielsen ratings last week, with ABC in the lead and CBS second.

The 10 top network programs for the week ending April 8, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., were:

1. Academy Awards; 2. Cheryl Ladd Special; 3. Easter Beagle C. Brown; 4. Three's Company; 5. Charlie's Angels; 6. 60 Minutes; 7. Mork and Mindy; 8. Laverne and Shirley; 9. All in the Family; 10. Angie the fertile Delta farmland.

In neighboring Alabama, an estimated 3,000 people were evacuated because of heavy flooding. Officials began a two-day process to evacuate about 2,000 in the Selma area and another 500 to 1,000 from scattered locations west of Selma.

The Pearl River hovered around 43.2 feet Tuesday and National Weather Service officials said the river "could slip up another tenth or two." The level of the river is more than 25 feet above flood stage. The old record of 37.5 feet at Jackson was established in 1902.

"This is probably the worst natural disaster we have ever experienced," Jackson Mayor Dale Danks said. But he added, "The people of the city are meeting this situation."

Prison Journalists Won't Be Released To Receive Awards

ANGOLA, La. (UPI) — Louisiana State Penitentiary inmates Wilbert Rideau and Billy Sinclair may have the best prison magazine in the country, but they won't be able to accept an award praising their bimonthly publication.

Louisiana Corrections Secretary C. Paul Phelps and Angola Prison Warden Frank Blackburn will represent the two prison journalists who are serving life sentences for murder. Associate Warden Peggi Gresham said Tuesday the inmates could not be given extended furloughs for security reasons.

The bimonthly news magazine won a special award in the 11th annual Robert F. Kennedy Journalism Awards, which are given for "outstanding coverage of the problems of the disadvantaged."

The magazine was named for "bringing about a deep understanding of the lives and deaths of those imprisoned" at Angola.

In 1977, when the magazine won its first major award, the awards committee presented the honor at the prison. Last year, when it was nominated for the National Magazine Award, Phelps and Blackburn accepted the honor for Rideau and Sinclair.

"It didn't come as a surprise to me because it's in keeping with what Rideau and Sinclair have been trying to do, and that's producing a good and unique publication — the best," said Blackburn.

The Angolites was the only prisoner-produced publication from among the more than 500 entries judged for the Kennedy awards.

I FOUND ONE, BUT WHAT DO I DO NOW? — This young man pensively examines an egg found Friday, April 13, near the Community Action building on Liberty Street after the great bunny had arranged an egg hunt with the help of VISTA volunteers. Children at the hunt were from Bradley Manor, and several parents accompanied them on the search for brightly-colored, edible prizes. For more about VISTA programs, see page 25.

Supreme Court Rules Due Process Not Necessary In Parole Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has reversed a lower court decision holding that prison inmates up for parole must be afforded certain procedures under due process of law.

In its second disclosure in two days of impending high-court decisions, ABC News said Tuesday night constitutional due process will apply only during the trial stage of the accused. Once convicted, more restrictive rules will apply.

The decision, reported by ABC News correspondent Tim O'Brien, will not be law until released, and the full implications of the ruling will not be known until the main opinions can be studied.

O'Brien reported Monday the Supreme Court will soon rule that public officials suing for libel may force journalists to tell what their thoughts, opinions and conclusions were while they prepared news stories.

In the due-process decision, ABC said, the court is reversing a lower-court ruling that held state prison inmates up for parole must, among other things, have the right to appear in person at a parole hearing, the right to offer evidence in his behalf and the right to confront and cross-examine adverse witnesses.

ABC said it did not know when the decision, written by Chief Justice Warren Burger, is due.

The case, Greenholtz vs. Inmates of the Nebraska Penal and Correctional Complex, was a class-action suit brought by inmates who complained they were denied due process in getting discretionary paroles.

Both lower courts agreed with the inmates, but to varying degrees.

This does not mean states cannot allow due process procedures, only that they don't have to if they don't want to, ABC said.

The Supreme Court in its decision reversed a decision by the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals.

In other action Tuesday, the high court ruled New York can bar resident aliens from teaching in public schools. By a one-vote margin, the high court held the state's interest in furthering education bears a "rational relationship" to its citizenship requirement for teachers.

"This retreat is difficult to understand in light of prior judicial precedents and may simply reflect the court's being affected by a more general society-wide intensification of anti-alien sentiment," said Dale Swartz, of the Washington

Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law.

The case was brought by Mrs. Susan Narsick, 38, and Mrs. Tarja Dachinger, 33, who said they were willing to profess allegiance to the United States but would not seek citizenship.

The high court also: —Ruled, 7-2, a municipality may sue real-estate firms under the 1968 civil rights law for allegedly "steering" home buyers on the basis of race.

—Decided, 9-0, a six-person state court jury must be unanimous when it convicts someone of a crime.

U.S. Embassies Alerted Of Threat Of Terrorist Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. embassies around the world have been instructed to be alert for a wave of terrorism sparked by the Egyptian-Israeli settlement.

Anthony Quinton, director of the office for Combating Terrorism, told UPI that U.S. embassies and consulates have been put on a "heightened alert status" after threats from Palestinian groups and several recent terrorist attacks.

"We are entering a period of potential problems and we are on the lookout," he said. "What else can we do?"

Each embassy has a "security watch committee," made up of representatives of all the main agencies and offices of the installation. The committees have been ordered by Washington to step up their review and reinforcement of security measures, including the use of Marine armed guards.

A U.S. cultural office in Beirut was heavily damaged by a bomb early Monday and the Beirut Embassy was slightly damaged earlier by a rocket-propelled grenade.

Quinton said the killing of an American serviceman in Ismir, Turkey, apparently had no connection with the U.S.-sponsored negotiations which led to the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

He said the United States had no firm evidence on the makeup of a group called "Black March," which took credit for the attack Monday on a Brussels airport which injured 12 people.

Sources in Israel told UPI they believe the group is operating under a phony name and is accountable to Abu Ayyad, Yasser Arafat's lieutenant in the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Night Flights May Cease In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration is considering closing Washington National Airport to air traffic between 10:30 p.m. and 7 a.m. on a daily basis and allowing nonstop flights from cities more than 650 miles away, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said the action would reduce noise and cut out almost 100 daily flights by major airlines.

There could be a corresponding increase of almost 100 short-haul commuter flights. Two and three-engine jumbo jets would be allowed to use National.

Truck Driver Ready To Fight To Keep Home

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A 59-year-old truck driver facing eviction from his home warns the only way he'll leave is if authorities carry him from his living room.

Denny E. Garzee, 150 neighbors and a politician waited Tuesday for authorities to evict him, but none appeared.

Garzee faces eviction for failure to pay four years of property taxes but he claims he never received a tax bill from the city. His home was sold on the steps of City Hall last summer and Garzee received an eviction notice April 6.

The city's finance director says tax bills have been sent to Garzee at his correct address since he bought the property in 1967 and the truck driver has paid taxes on adjoining property.

"I am going to be down in the middle of the front room floor and I am not going to move," Garzee said. "This (eviction) doesn't happen in the United States. You just don't do that here."

An official of the Jackson County Court Administration office said no eviction date has been set but it will be before May 4.

Radiation Levels Steelhauled Demand Voting Rights

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — With levels of cancer-causing radioactive iodine back within maximum federal health limits again today, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission scientists tried to learn how it escaped from Three Mile Island.

NRC operations chief Harold Denton, after monitoring America's most serious nuclear power plant crisis for 19 days, turned in his radiation-reading docket and was back in Washington.

Meanwhile, Metropolitan Edison Co., operator and 50 percent owner of the power plant, said it faces bankruptcy "in a matter of days" unless the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission requires Met-Ed customers to pay higher rates.

Analysts in helicopters continued testing the air for iodine levels while engineers on the ground checked the nuclear power plant to guard against further bursts of radiation.

The latest readings of radioactive iodine around Three Mile Island showed a marked decrease from those registered Sunday and Monday, said NRC spokesman Ken Clark.

Five of six tests conducted after 1 a.m. Tuesday showed no trace of iodine, which is a known cause of thyroid cancer, and the other indicated an iodine level of 33 picocuries per cubic meter, Clark said.

The federal health limit, established by the NRC, is 100 picocuries.

Earlier, three of six samples at locations within a half mile of the plant showed radioactive iodine levels of 109, 111 and 120 picocuries per cubic meter.

Federal and state health authorities said there was never a danger to the public health.

Four tests conducted by the Pennsylvania Environmental Resources Department showed no traces of iodine in milk from cows that graze in farmland surrounding Three Mile Island.

Frank Congel, an NRC radiological impact official, said the higher-than-normal iodine levels would have given a child in the vicinity a dose no bigger than 1-2 millirems. For children, cumulative dosage under federal standards for one year is 1,500 millirems.

None of the 630 area residents tested so far has shown any increased radiation levels because of the Three Mile Island accident, the NRC said.

United Press International striking steelhauled again defied their Teamster leadership and vowed to shut down the nation's steel industry unless they were permitted to vote on a supplemental agreement to the master freight contract.

The Teamsters Union and the trucking industry agreed on a new master freight contract which ended a 10-day strike last week. However, several supplemental agreements remain to be worked out.

Teamster officials say the supplemental agreements will be voted on by all drivers and warehousemen covered by the master freight contract. Steelhauled, led by Teamsters for a Democratic Union, want to be the only ones that vote on the agreement covering steelhauled.

"What does a grapepicker in California know about hauling steel," said Jerry Reese, Youngstown, Ohio, a TDU leader. "Steelhauled either vote on their own agreement or get sold down the river. And until we do, not a steelhauled will run."

Members of the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers met in Pittsburgh Tuesday and discussed the work stoppage. Bill Hill, FASH chairman, said

Blizzard Of 1979 Slows Gasoline Use

Maryland's "Blizzard of '79" effectively slowed down gasoline consumption in the State, according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. He reported this week that 142,827,669 gallons of gasoline were sold in Maryland during February, 1979, a 3 percent decline from the 147,291,384 gallons sold in February, 1978, and also below the 150,284,769 gallons sold during February, 1977.

"The decline in gasoline consumption reflects the days when most motorists were 'snowed in' as well as the weather-related problems experienced by some oil companies in Maryland making deliveries to retail stations," Mr. Goldstein said.

The Comptroller noted that net motor vehicle fuel tax revenue for Fiscal Year 1979 to date amounts to $150,865,762, up nearly 3.3 percent over the $145,248,523 received during the same nine month period of Fiscal Year 1978. A total of $148,148,192 has been distributed to the Transportation Trust Fund of the State Department of Transportation, a 3.9 percent increase over the distribution at this same time last year.

Eleven Injured When Van Upsets

Two boys from the Boys Forestry Camp on Backbone Mountain at Swanton were admitted to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland Wednesday, and nine others, including the driver, were treated and released following an accident at 12:35 p.m. within the city limits.

Cpl. Robert L. Moyer of the Cumberland City Police investigated the mishap for City Police, and reported the van was demolished when it ran off the road and rolled over.

Cpl. Moyer reported the driver, Mark M. Carroll, 21, of 215 South Stokes Street, Havre de Grace, was northbound on U.S. Route 220. The van ran off the right shoulder of the road, up an embankment and rolled over on its side.

It was reported Carroll had just begun his job as a driver Wednesday for the State Juvenile Services Administration. He is a senior at Frostburg State College.

Carroll was driving ten boys to a dental program at Allegany Community College when the van upset.

He told police he had apparently fallen asleep when the accident occurred. The 12-passenger van he was driving is owned by the Allegany County branch of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

MacDonald Ambulance responded to the scene of the mishap with their ICU unit and transported all 11 persons to the hospital.

Reports indicated injuries to the boys included a broken leg, a broken arm, and severe lacerations.

The accident occurred on a graded curve in the highway near the Circle Inn. Charges are pending, according to the investigating officer.

The Wealth Of The GCC Learning Center Is Contained Not Only In Its Books

By Larry Kaufman
Director, GCC Learning
Resource Center

The Learning Resource Center (LRC) of Garrett Community College contains a wealth of information — not all of which is contained in books. However, there are presently more than 15,000 volumes in the collection.

These volumes include books ranging from psychology and photography to books on home maintenance and repair. The LRC also houses a host of other types of materials. The Center subscribes to more than 200 periodicals and magazines and includes such diverse titles as Banking, Audubon Magazine, Child Development, Ecology, Money and Western Horseman. An extensive back issues collection is maintained on most titles with some titles extending several years retrospectively. This collection is made accessible for research via the periodical indexes within the Center. These indexes are: Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature, Education Index, Social Sciences Index, Humanities Index, Biological and Agriculture Index, Applied Science and Technology Index, Wildlife Review, Current Index to Journals in Education and the New York Times Index. Some of the newspapers received in the LRC include four from within Maryland, the New York Times, Washington Post and the Pittsburgh Press.

A file of pamphlet materials ranging from information on consumer education to agriculture is made available within the Center.

In an attempt to make available information in alternate formats, rather than the printed word, the Center is building a collection of audio-visual resources. Contained in this collection are filmstrips, slides, motion pictures, sound recordings, videorecordings and transparencies. Filmstrips, slide sets and transparencies dealing with history, the natural sciences and the physical sciences dominate the collection. Motion pictures covering topics in chemistry, biology and other fields are held in the Center's film collection. The sound recordings collection of the Center consists of classical music and cassettes containing information relating to the social, physical and natural sciences. Videorecordings or television productions include programs on ecology, psychology and originally produced material on the clinical practices of veterinary science.

Even though the facilities for the local production of instructional materials are limited, the Center has the capability of producing slide set programs, videorecordings and transparencies. These locally produced learning materials are more effective than commercially produced materials because of their up-to-date nature, their specific relationship to needs of the learner, and the positive correlation with the total course for which they were developed.

Throughout the year the LRC displays an ongoing series of exhibits, including works of area artists. Some of the most recent exhibits were the works of Cliff Sandmark, Jim Archaibeault, Sophia McDonald and Claude Yoder. Beginning September 14, 1979, the Albert Einstein exhibit will be on display in the Center until October 1, 1979. This exhibit is part of Maryland's activities in the Einstein Centennial Celebration. The Einstein exhibit is composed of pictures, photo copies of Einstein's letters and writings and an accompanying text. About half of the exhibit concerns non-scientific aspects of Einstein's life.

The Center exists primarily to serve the students and faculty of the College. It also extends its service to the citizens of Garrett County. The Center provides resources and services in support of the teaching philosophies and objectives of the College. It also offers bibliographical services along with interlibrary loans and assistance in locating and using multimedia resources. The staff of the Center includes: Larry Kaufman, Acting Director; Fatty Schenk, secretary to the Director and acquisitions assistant; Kim Schroyer, cataloging assistant; Vicki Sinclair, circulation assistant; Jim Matthews, Jr., audio-visual technical assistant in charge of production services; and Ed Wawzinski, audio-visual technical assistant relating to the repair and preventive maintenance service.

The citizens of Garrett County are cordially invited to use the Center's facilities and extended book borrowing privileges at the McHenry campus.

Special fire fighting trucks and equipment to be used in fighting hazardous material fires would be located at Oakland and Grantsville, if the fire protection segment of the grant application is approved.

Applications for the water system and fire protection equipment are due June 4, and it will probably be late summer before the HUD decisions are made public.

Last year HUD did not approve any Garrett County grant applications.

Garrett County is among the 14 Maryland political jurisdictions which are now eligible to receive $4.7 million in grants from the Department of Housing and Urban Development's Small Cities Block Grant program.

Garrett County has been invited to apply for grants totaling $192,074 for water system improvements and fire protection equipment.

According to Tim Dugan, county planning director, $104,190 of that amount is almost a certainty, to be used for the local share of the Gorman water project.

The additional $47,884 for fire protection equipment is not certain, and neither is a $40,879 application for removal of architectural barriers to the handicapped at Garrett Community College and Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The overall schedule for the implementation of the Crime Watch program will be announced in May.

ACS Presents Film Series To Education Board

A series of films for children in kindergarten through grade three has been presented to the Garrett County Board of Education by the Garrett County unit of the American Cancer Society.

The series consists of filmstrips, recordings and posters to help make children aware of the basic facts about their bodies and cancer.

All films are available at the resource center in Oakland, according to Mrs. Pauline Faucett, president of the Garrett County cancer society unit.

Mrs. Faucett also noted that during the 1977-78 fiscal year programs of research, education and service received more than $112 million, or nearly 80 percent of the ACS budget.

Public education, which provides such materials as the filmstrips and posters, received more than $23.5 million from the research, education and service budget. The programs make use of information already available about cancer to teach people how to look for and recognize cancer warning signals and to understand the importance of early detection.

Ten percent of the research and education budget went to professional education for medical personnel, and 21.7 percent went to patient service and rehabilitation. Some $16 million were devoted to fund raising and about $12.3 million went for administration.

Cancer crusaders are going from house to house throughout this month to collect funds for the coming year's programs.

The tallest tree in the U.S. is a Coast Redwood in California, 362 feet high.

LOOKING? KEEP A RECORD

Buying a home is a big investment and involves major decisions. So, it's understandable why so much time and care is taken when looking for a home that's right for you. No one knows this better than your local Realtor.

Once the Realtor takes on the assignment of finding you a home, he'll probably show you several. Therefore, it's important to take notes on what you have seen or you may forget which home is where, how big it is, what shape it's in, and how much it costs. Your Realtor can provide you with a checklist to make this important task easier. This way, you can rate each home as you see it and instantly recall the location, price, construction, number of rooms, heat, fuel, taxes and financial requirements. If you have a Polaroid picture of the house to go with the notes — so much the better when describing it to your other half.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to ASSESSMENT ANSWERS — JAMES BURLEY in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

Q. Why must my residence, which is almost one hundred years old, be raised the same percentage as one across the street from me which has been built within the last four or five years? This newer home requires a very minimum of maintenance, whereas mine is taking major repairs just about every year because of its age. I do not think it is fair to raise everyone the same percentage just because they happen to be in the same area.

A. Ideally, if property is to be reviewed every year for assessment purposes, then the review should simultaneously include a physical inspection. But, this is not the case, and the cost would be prohibitive in comparison with the benefit gained. It would take a doubling of the number of assessors at a minimum.

So long as taxes are levied on the basis of property values, assessments must be updated periodically because property values and ownership are constantly changing.

The problem is that the assessment review is made yearly, but the physical inspection, which identifies exceptions like the older home in a neighborhood of newer ones, is made no more than once every three years. A shift to a three-year review cycle within the continuous assessment process would cause the two to coincide and correct the problem.

In the absence of a physical review, the assessor relies heavily on the sales pattern in a neighborhood. If properties are selling at an aggregate increase of twenty percent, assessors will normally assume that other comparable properties in the vicinity will do likewise. Other than disregarding the high and low sales at the extremes, there is no time to analyze each and every transaction.

This is where the appeal procedure protects the property owner. The owner of an older home — or of any uncharacteristic or exceptional property — should use the appeal procedure to relate and make sure that the assessor takes these facts into consideration before rendering a final assessment notice. This is where the property owners can learn whether or not the depreciation allowance has been figured into the assessment which offsets, to some extent, the higher cost of maintenance.

A word of caution. An older home is not necessarily inferior to a newer one. Studies are showing that both old and new homes are increasing in value at roughly the same rate. Not infrequently, older homes will have sounder construction, sturdier framing, double plating, more and better quality interior and exterior trim, plaster rather than dry walls, and generally, a higher degree of building craftsmanship.

Several examples — the "hills" of Baltimore — are cases in point: Bolton, Butcher, Federal, Reservoir, Seton, and Ten Hills. Although not totally typical, some are built of brick and granite, and many have ornate plastering and fine woodwork that are irreplaceable at any price. Many older homes in Bolton Hill, for example, have sold for the highest prices on record ever.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

Open Line

by Rep. Beverly Byron

This regular column provides citizens the opportunity to ask Congresswoman Byron any questions that happen to be on their mind. Inquiries should be sent c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Room 1216 LHOB, Washington, D. C. 20515.

What are you doing to help working married couples who often pay a higher tax rate than single people?

I share your concern over this inequitable tax situation and have co-sponsored legislation to remove the marriage penalty by providing that married individuals who file separate returns will be taxed as unmarried individuals. You may be assured I will work hard for the prompt and favorable consideration of this important measure.

What is your position on the Alaska Lands Bill? I strongly support this landmark legislation and, indeed, it was the first bill I sponsored after taking office on January 3, 1979.

Do you support a bill to provide for the Federal Funding of Congressional Election Campaign Expenses?

I share your concern over the effects of spending on political campaigns. However, at the present time, I have a number of reservations about the legislation that has been proposed. The returns to a congressional questionnaire sent to every household in the Sixth District last year revealed that public financing was opposed by a 62% to 31% margin. Of course, it is possible that public opinion has changed in view of some of the excesses of last year's elections, however, I have continued to receive communications from constituents who oppose the use of tax money to support the campaigns of congressional candidates. I am also concerned that the effects of the bill would make it even more difficult for challengers to unseat incumbent Members of Congress and this may not be viewed as fair by some people. I certainly welcome additional views from readers of this column.

Why do you support a balanced federal budget? I feel a balanced budget is necessary to restore fiscal responsibility to the Federal government and that it will reduce the burden of inflation and taxes.

Please explain your legislation which would exempt pensions and other retirement benefits from income tax.

As you may know, my late husband introduced a bill during the 95th Congress to amend the Internal Revenue Code to provide a basic $5,000 exemption from income tax for amounts received as annuities, pensions or other retirement benefits. I have sponsored similar legislation during this Congress.

What is your position on the proposal to give the President the authority to impose a ban on the sale of gasoline on weekends?

I believe that such a ban on the sale of gasoline would have a very adverse effect on the fragile economy of Western Maryland which receives critical revenue dollars from the travel and tourist industry. The proposal would also pose an undue hardship on the many residents of small towns and rural areas in the Sixth District.

For your information, the House has not yet had an opportunity to vote on this issue, though it will do so within the next month. I can tell you that in deliberations before the House Energy and Power Subcommittee on this matter, the ban on weekend gasoline sales appeared to be the least popular aspect of the various standby energy conservation plans submitted to Congress.

When will Congress authorize funding for the National Fire Academy in Emmisburg?

Funding authorization to enable the Academy to be operational by next January is currently pending before a Science & Technology subcommittee. This week the House and Senate Maryland Delegation sent a joint letter to the chairman of the subcommittee urging immediate approval of the authorization. The Delegation letter stressed that the National Fire Academy is an important factor in reducing fatalities and property losses and that further delay in its establishment would be detrimental to the national interest.

What Federal policies do your constituents generally favor to control inflation?

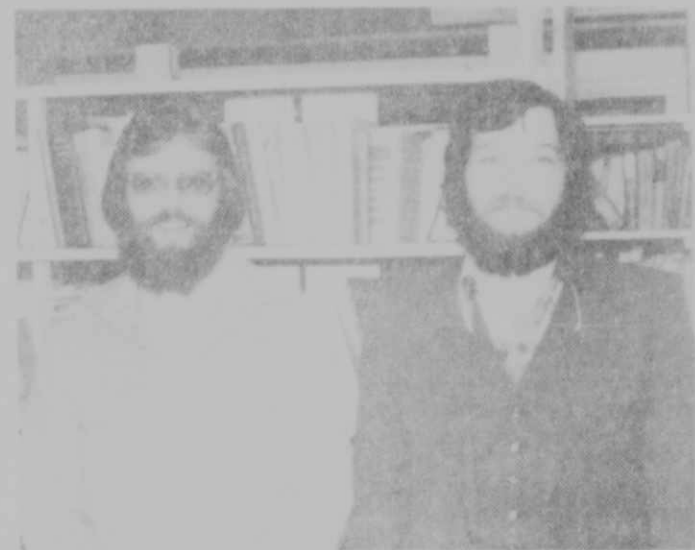

According to a recent questionnaire, citizens overwhelmingly favor an emphasis on fiscal policy that includes cutting federal budget deficits. Otherwise, constituents evenly split on mandatory wage and price controls, an emphasis on monetary policy such as tightening the money supply and raising interest rates, and the Administration's program of voluntary limits on increases in wages and prices.

How do I get in touch with the Federal Agency dealing with unsafe toys or other products?

The agency you refer to is the Consumer Product Safety Commission. They have a toll-free hotline number for receiving and giving information about the safety of consumer products. Just call 800-492-4363.

Editor's Note: There will be no OPEN LINE column for the week of April 22, since Mrs. Byron is currently in China with the House Armed Services Committee and as a representative of the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports. Next column will be mailed for the week of 4/29/79.

Two From Long Stretch Attend Baltimore Seminar

ATTEND SEMINAR IN BALTIMORE — Jim Koon, left, and Rick Platter, right, members of the staff of the Long Stretch Youth Home, located near Frostburg, recently attended a seminar in Baltimore on programs to keep disruptive children in school. Koon is the Academic Instructor for the home and Platter is the Assistant Executive Director.

Rick Platter, the Assistant Executive Director and Jim Koon, the Academic Instructor, both of Long Stretch Youth Homes, located in Garrett County near Frostburg, recently attended a seminar in Baltimore on Disruptive Adolescence. The seminar was sponsored by the Baltimore County Health Department and attracted several hundred school administrators and teachers from across the state.

The training session was designed to demonstrate a working model of how disruptive children are handled in two junior high schools and one high school in Essex. The program serves multisubjected students who are near expulsion from the schools.

The students in each of the special programs receive assistance from a staff team consisting of a teacher, a teacher's aid and a master level psychologist. The three Essex schools share jointly the services of a doctor in psychology. The children's behavior is the primary responsibility of the staff team, but the children also help control each other's behavior. The students attend lunch, breaks, assemblies, etc., as a group and each member is responsible for discouraging any disruptive behavior by any other group member. A student is allowed one incident of misbehavior before he is sent to a resource center to "cool off." At the center the child is in isolation. Continued poor behavior results in expulsion. The program uses a point system to reward a child for positive performance. Each student can earn a certain number of points for completed work. The child can use the points in one of two ways. A certain number of points allows the student to go home early. Or he or she may elect to accumulate the points till the weekly auction. During the auction students can "bid" for hamburgers, french fries or other items.

The idea of the program is good," Jim Koon noted, "that is to keep the kids in school. The longer that these kids stay in school the longer they have to grow out of these problems." He also stressed that the program is working. "The drop out rate has gone down and the kids are learning."

Rick Platter concurred with Koon about the program and added that Long Stretch deals with the children that may have already gone through a system like that in the Essex area. "Many of the things they are doing," he stressed, "we are doing already. We know we are doing something right."

Koon further observed that many of the particulars of the program in Essex are not applicable to Long Stretch. "I ignore a lot of disruptive behavior at Long Stretch like talking too loud, throwing paper, and getting up and walking around. These are all the reasons to throw kids out of school. But I don't. These kids are not disruptive because they want to be. Many of our students have impulse control problems."

"In the future they will be able to control those impulses. Forcing the kids to be quiet often causes the misbehavior problem. You must allow these students to work out their problems. These kids are subject to failure after failure. We remove a lot of the traditional failures so they can be more successful," Koon said.

Long Stretch handles disruption problems with "peer pressure." Each child belongs to a group. The group is subject to a "group meeting" any time of the day or night to discuss a problem. The group can decide on corrective action for one of its members.

Long Stretch Youth Homes is a private non profit corporation that serves as a home and long term treatment center for boys from age 12 to 18, in need of special supervision. The facility is a licensed child care institution located six miles west of Frostburg, on U. S. Route 40. Further information about the program can be obtained by writing Long Stretch Youth Homes, Inc., Star Route Box 38, Frostburg, Maryland 21532. Attention: Allen Poland or calling 1-301-689-8340.

Driving While Intoxicated Brings Fine

One man received a suspended sentence, was fined and placed on probation by Judge Fred A. Thayer last Thursday. Driving while intoxicated was the main charge.

Dennis Eugene Sisler, Terra Alta, W. Va., received a one-year suspended sentence but was fined $500 and costs, on the charge of driving while intoxicated. A motion of direct verdict was denied at a jury trial in March.

Sisler was originally charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated and failing to keep to the right of center of the road as noted on information from District Court. At the jury trial, a third charge was noted, driving or attempting to drive while ability was impaired by alcohol. The jury found him guilty of all three charges.

Sisler was placed on probation for one year under supervision. He is to attend the Alcohol Rehabilitation Service Driving School and his license was suspended for one year. No sentence or fine was given for the count of failing to keep to the right of center of the road.

The incident occurred on the Herrington Manor Road about noon, July 22.

Set-Aside Grain Plan Explained By Committee

Farmers who sign up for the Feed Grain and Wheat Program agree to set-aside one acre for every ten planted in 1979 to corn and sorghum, and two acres for every ten planted to wheat and barley. Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said. The acreage designated as set-aside must be devoted to an approved conservation practice that will protect the land from weeds and wind and water erosion.

"This protection must be established on the set-aside land as soon as practical after the beginning of the normal period for planting spring crops."

Crowl said that approved set-aside cover excludes a number of crops such as corn, grain sorghum and soybeans. "Some producers initially planted these crops in 1978, not planning to comply with the program, and then designated the acreage as set-aside after experiencing a disaster. Farmers will be considered out of compliance in such cases, and crops planted in the spring or summer that are not approved will not be authorized."

for set-aside or voluntary diversion."

Set-aside acres must be cropland that was tilled within one of the last three years in the production of a crop other than hay or pasture, unless the hay crop was in normal rotation with small grain or row crops, or was accepted set-aside in 1978. "Orchards, vineyards, and other areas that are too small or are abnormally shaped are excluded," the ASCS official said.

Set-aside cover and practices are approved by the State

ASCS Committee, with concurrence from the State Conservationist, various wildlife agencies, organizations and other interest groups, to assure that the set-aside and voluntary diversion will be adequately protected.

Alcohol, Tobacco Tax Revenue Even With Last Year

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported recently that State alcohol and tobacco tax revenues for the first nine months of the current fiscal year are one-third of one percent ahead of collections at the same time last year.

Wine tax revenue for the first nine months of Fiscal Year 1979 totals $2,340,902, up 2.9 percent, and beer tax receipts amount to $7,012,607, or 9.4 percent above last year's level.

Distilled spirits tax revenue totals $12,516,589, down 1.2 percent from collections for the first nine months of Fiscal Year 1978, and tobacco tax revenue amounts to $37,132,843, nearly one percent less than for the same period of the previous year.

For the month of March 1979, wine tax revenue was the only category of collections which exhibited growth over March 1978. Receipts from distilled spirits, beer, and tobacco taxes all trailed March 1978 levels. Total alcohol and tobacco tax revenue for March 1979 amounted to $5,852,507, a 6.5 percent decline from the $6,263,131 collected during March 1978.

AURORA-EGILON NEWS

The president, Arlene Roth, called to order the April 9 meeting of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club held in the Eglon Memorial Building. The president and vice president, Sheila Delaney, conducted the devotions.

Suggestions of uses for funds to be raised were scholarships to county 4-H camp or a summer trip, perhaps to Hershey Park. A committee was appointed to investigate the possibility of a trip. State and county camp dates were announced. A Walk-A-Thon is planned for later this summer to benefit the county camp swimming pool fund which is still short of the needed amount. Poster contests were announced and the rules made known. County Round-up will be held April 28, at East Preston Senior High School. The Eglon Club collected $51.11 for the Heart Fund, one of their community projects. Another is a trash pick-up planned for May 5, at 1:00 p.m.

The program theme was: Preparing for County Round-Up with Arlene Roth and Sheila Delaney giving demonstrations and illustrated talks, with the leaders' aid, showing how to use this method of learning. Each member was given a sheet of how-tos to take home. Following this, Arlene and Sheila each gave the presentation they plan for the county Round-Up. Arlene's on Photo Composition, and Sheila's a dramatic reading on "The Creation."

Brent Hauser led songs while Roths and Delaneys prepared refreshments which were served to the above and to Joyce Delaney, Roxanne Evans, Cherrie, Kim, and Faith Minning, Terry Hauser, Willie and Jackie Lantz, Charlotte and Danny Gnegy, and leaders Linda Lewis, Elaine Roth and Florence Minning.

"Wise Shoppers Save Money."

Each week I receive the Baltimore Retail Food Price Report prepared by Helen Huber, Marketing Specialist for the Maryland Dept. of Agriculture. In recent weeks she ran a series on "Wise Food Shopping" which contained some very valuable information for grocery shoppers. Since shopping is such a challenge to every consumer, perhaps some of this information will help you to feed your families more economically.

Believe it or not, about 1/3 of your food money is spent in the meat department. A good rule to follow for meat buying is "it is not the price per pound but the price per serving that counts." Here are some ways to use in figuring servings per pound as well as other ways to be a wise meat shopper.

—Boneless meat yields 4 servings per pound. This includes ground meat, stew meat, boneless roasts, liver and fish fillets.

—Bone-in meats such as roasts, steaks and poultry give 2 to 3 servings per pound.

—Meat with a good deal of bone and fat will provide only 1 to 2 servings per pound. Included here are: spareribs, rib pork chops, porterhouse and T-bone steaks, and chicken wings.

—Buy the specials! Some type of meat is usually on special and the savings can be considerable. If you have a freezer, you may want to purchase enough for the future.

—Use less tender and less demanded cuts of meat. About 3/4 of the meat carcass is of less tender meats. These are usually priced lower but are just as nutritious, although they do require a longer cooking time. Onions, celery, and herbs add extra flavor, but don't spend money saved on these cuts for other costly ingredients.

—Use meat alternates such as eggs, cheese, cottage cheese, dry beans, and peanut butter. Remember that a vegetable protein (i.e. dry beans) needs to be supplemented with animal protein (i.e. milk or cheese).

—Plan leftover meat for a casserole, stew, or salad.

Milk is our main food source of calcium and it is an excellent source of protein. Although milk is reasonably priced, here are a few ways to cut the cost:

—Buy nonfat dry milk. If the family doesn't like the taste, try mixing it half and half with fresh milk. Nonfat dry milk is excellent to use in cooking and baking.

—2% or lowfat milk costs less than whole milk.

—Evaporated milk is less expensive than whole milk or cream and can be substituted for these in recipes. Evaporated milk can be safely stored and readily available.

The costs of buying fruits and vegetables can be cut. Here are some ways:

—Buy only fresh produce that is in peak supply. This usually means top quality and attractive prices. In selecting top quality produce, use your eyes, nose and hands — without squeezing. Avoid wilted and tired looking produce.

—Check the different forms of fruits and vegetables — canned, fresh, frozen, dried and dehydrated — to see which is the best buy. Try lower priced brands.

—Save money by doing your own seasoning and sauce-making.

There are also more expensive and less expensive buys for breads and cereals. Use these shopping tips when buying breads and cereals.

—Bread is much less expensive than fancy rolls.

—Buy bread by weight, not size.

—Look for discounts on "day-old" baked goods.

—Buy bread that is on "special."

—Compare the cost of making your own mixes, chilled packages, and frozen with ready-to-eat.

—Cooked cereals are less expensive than prepared ones. A good rule: "The more highly processed the cereal is, the more it will cost."

Spend time planning and shopping to become a better consumer!

VEGETABLE MEAT PIE

1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 cup catsup
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon onion powder
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1/4 teaspoon seasoned pepper
1 cup Bran Chex cereal

1 pound very lean ground beef
2 cups (10 oz. package) frozen mixed vegetables, cooked and drained (unsalted)
1/4 cup (2 oz.) shredded process American cheese.

In medium bowl, combine egg, catsup, salt, onion powder, chili powder and seasoned pepper. Stir in Bran Chex to coat. Let stand 5 minutes. Stir mixture to break up Chex. Add ground beef. Mix well. Press gently into 9 inch pie plate, shaping to fit.

Toss vegetables with half the cheese. Turn into meat shell. Sprinkle remaining cheese over vegetables.

Bake in 350° oven about 30 minutes. Let stand 5-10 minutes before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Health and Safety Tip

From the American Medical Association

IT TAKES TIME TO TAKE OFF POUNDS

For most overweight persons, there is no medical justification for rapid weight loss or a nutritionally imbalanced diet.

A good weight-reduction program is one that is reduced in calories and adequate in nutrients. Regular meals and the Four Food Groups form the basis of a good diet that is suitable (or adaptable) for people with different health problems.

The individual who needs a diet low in saturated fat and cholesterol, for example, should continue to use milk products in the recommended amounts because of their high nutritive value, but should always choose nonfat products from this group.

There aren't any "reducing foods," a new American Medical Association pamphlet says. When you lose weight, it's because of taking in fewer calories than you are burning. Total calories, not the foods they come from, make the difference. Bear in mind, though, that fats are the most concentrated source of calories. One gram of fat contains nine calories, compared with four calories per gram of either protein or carbohydrate and seven calories per gram of alcohol.

If you are more than eight or ten pounds overweight, it's unrealistic to think you will solve the problem in two or three weeks. Weight lost through crash diets almost always is regained when normal eating patterns are resumed.

Reducing calories and health clubs are fine, if you can afford them. Group workouts may give moral support, but you can exercise just as well at home. Exercise machines that pretend to shake it off without effort on your part are a waste of time and money.

As to protein supplements, save your money. Most people get all the protein they need from ordinary foods. There are a number of drugs that have been misused in weight-reducing programs. Use of drugs in weight control is rarely or never justifiable, says the AMA pamphlet.

Diet clubs, such as Weight Watchers and TOPS, can help many individuals gain control of their eating habits.

Free Summer Meal Program To Be Offered

Free lunches will be served this summer to children who are residents of the Bradley Manor Housing Development as part of a program jointly sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education Summer Feeding Program, Garrett County Community Action and the Community Food and Nutrition Program.

The meals will be served daily at noon, Monday thru Friday, beginning June 25 and ending August 17.

Eligible participants must be registered in a Maryland school and be a resident of the Bradley Manor Housing Development.

Persons who wish more information should contact Patricia Callis or Dave Koonz at Garrett County Community Action at 334-9431.

The program is in compliance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (P.L. 88-352) and the Regulations of the Office of Economic Opportunity issued pursuant to that title (45 C.F.R. Part 1010).

Straight Talk About Aging

By Dr. Matthew Tayback, State Director on Aging

RAM'S — ARE THEY FOR YOU?

The Reverse Annuity Mortgage or RAM is now being considered in several states, including Maryland, as an alternative mortgage instrument particularly designed for the elderly. The reverse annuity mortgage is designed to help elderly homeowners on a fixed income maintain such ownership, while at the same time use the equity built up in their homes as a supplemental monthly income.

Elderly homeowners often face the unpleasant prospect of insufficient income to meet basic living expenses. Many own their homes free and clear, but generally the only way to use the accumulated equity is to sell and begin renting an apartment. However, many senior citizens have strong emotional ties to the house in which they have lived most of their lives, and indeed, the house provides "rent free" living as long as they remain. If sold, the capital gain realized could run out before death. A RAM is a new method to avoid such a problem by supplying a stream of "extra" income while continuing to live in the house.

A simple explanation of a RAM is the following: a lender contracts to pay a monthly annuity to the borrower which generates rising indebtedness over time. The accumulated indebtedness is payable upon sale of the property, death of the borrower or at some specified future date, whichever comes first. At the end of the agreed term, the total loan funds have been paid. But during this time, the borrower still owns, lives in and maintains the home while receiving the extra income realized by the RAM. Should the borrower die during the term of the loan, the estate is liable for the obligation. As with a traditional loan, the lender is protected by the equity in the house and its probable appreciation.

At the end of the RAM term, the lender could reappraise the property, and assuming value appreciation, fund another RAM loan.

I should note that homeowners aged 65 and over in America have an estimated total net equity in their homes of $90 billion. This figure demonstrates the enormous potential of RAM's use in income supplementation for the elderly.

There are disadvantages to the use of RAM's. How would the IRS treat such payments and how would such reverse payments affect eligibility for various social programs now enjoyed by the elderly?

It should be stressed that although the idea of RAM's seems simple, there are many legal, practical and financial problems and questions to be resolved before RAM's are to be used in Maryland. To my knowledge, variations of the reverse annuity mortgage, described above, are being tested in other states and California state — regulated savings and loans received permission earlier this year to experiment with RAM's.

At this time, RAM's in Maryland are merely in the consideration-for-the-future state; however, a bill has been introduced in this session of the Maryland General Assembly for consideration regarding RAM's. A major problem which experts recognize is the situation wherein the homeowner survives the term of the annuity. If he does, he might be forced to sell the house to pay the loan. One possible safeguard to protect against this might be an automatic refinancing clause in the initial contract on terms the borrower can afford.

In summary, RAM's offer elderly homeowners the prospect of getting back some of the equity they have built up in their homes without having to sell and rent. The Maryland Office on Aging considers reverse annuity mortgages an interesting alternative for the elderly individual on fixed income who wishes to remain in his or her home.

USING DECORATING TO MAKE YOUR LIFE EASIER

Did you ever stop to think that good decorating can not only make your home more beautiful, but it can also reduce your work load and make your life easier. Taking just one example, few homes have enough storage and closet space—but with the proper planning and placement of the right furniture pieces, you can get an amazing amount of storage. You can increase storage automatically by adding some cabinets, or tables with drawers, or some units with shelves—and then help yourself by locating them as near as possible to the point of use. Another way to use decorating to make your life easier is to follow this advice from a leading decorator:

So, please feel free to stop in and see us at your convenience. We're here to serve you.
